HURRY CALL SENT TO ENVOY WILSON

President and Secretary Bryan Summon Him to Washington for Conference To-day.

RUMOR OF HIS RECALL

Ambassador, as He Starts for an Early Morning Train, Admits Having Heard Report.

NO STATEMENT ON MEXICO

Executive's Mediation Policy Is Balked by Huerta—General Embargo on Arms Possible.

Henry Lane Wilson, the American Ambassador to Mexico, who since Thursday of last week has been stopping in the Waldorf-Astoria, left this city for Washington at 12:30 o'clock this morning. He had been waiting in New York for further orders from the White House or the State Department, and they came at 10:30 o'clock last night in the form of a telegram directing the Ambassador to present himself this morning in Washington for a conference with President Wilson and State Secretary Bryan.

As he left the hotel for the station Ambassador Wilson declined to give his own interpretation of the significance of the call to Washington. He would not say he thought it meant his removal. In the corridors of the Waldorf-Astoria a rumor went about that Mr. Wilson would hear of his official recall from Mexico when he reached Washington, and the same rumor had it that Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the Chargé d'Affaires at present managing the business of the United States Government in Mexico City, would continue in that capacity.

Ambassador Wilson admitted as he departed that this rumor had not failed to reach him, but how much credence he gave it he would not say. He said that, as a matter of fact, he had not the faintest idea what news would greet him on his arrival in Washington.

The Ambassador was asked to comment on the statement from the Mexican Minister of the Interior in Mexico City which was published in yesterday's TIMES. In that statement President Huerta was represented as declining to resign and as intolerant of any interference from any source. The Ambassador had read the statement, but his only comment on it was a smile.

Mexican officials were among Mr. Wilson's visitors in the hotel last evening. One was Consul Ricardo Huerta. Another was Vice Consul Jiminez.

ENVOY'S RECALL EXPECTED.

Virtual or Actual Dismissal of Wilson Looked For in Capital.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Virtual or direct dismissal of Henry Lane Wilson, Ambassador to Mexico, is expected to be the next step in the Administration's policy of dealing with the Mexican situation. An official telegram recalling Mr. Wilson to Washington from New York, where he has been for several days, was sent to him in the Waldorf-Astoria to-night, and he is expected to reach Washington to-morrow.

Before the Ambassador left Mexico City for Washington under the hurry order sent to him by Secretary Bryan it was known in official circles here that he would not be permitted to return to the Mexican capital as the envoy of the United States. In accordance with custom he had placed his resignation at the disposition of the new President when Woodrow Wilson took office last March.

Whether Ambassador Wilson's connection with the Diplomatic Service will be severed through the mere acceptance of his resignaiton has not been disclosed officially, but there is strong reason to believe that he will not be dropped from the official rolls through the ordinary means.

No Specific Reason Given.

Beyond the fact that his views do not coincide with those of President Wilson and Secretary Bryan as to how the American Government should deal with the Mexican situation no reason has been assigned here for the ardent desire of the Administration to get rid of Ambassador Wilson except, of course, that he is a Republican. It had been reported to the President and the Secretary of State that the Ambassador was on very friendly terms with the Huerta Government, and stories have been brought to the White House and State Department tending to reflect on Mr. Wilson very severely. It never has been asserted that any of those stories were backed up by competent evidence, and the Ambassador asserted when he was in Washington last week that no charge against him was pending and that there would be no charge.

That statement by the Ambassador has been confirmed in a measure in the State Department, where it was made known in response to inquiries that in their several talks on the Mexican situation since the arrival of the Ambassador in this country President Wilson and Secretary Bryan had not discussed the personal status of the Ambassador.

In several indirect ways President Wilson has shown that he was displeased with the Ambassador to Mexico, but Secretary Bryan gave the envoy no reason to believe that he was in the bad graces of the Administration beyond a mere expression of regret that the Ambassador had talked so freely to reporters on his arrival in this country. Mr. Wilson was treated with great courtesy and consideration in his several interviews with Secretary Bryan, and after his fifty-minute conference with President Wilson last Monday he said the President had been most kind and courteous.

It is a fact, however, that the President demonstrated clearly by his attitude toward Mr. Wilson that he was giving no consideration to the views of the Ambassador as to how the Mexican situation should be dealt with by the United States. In their brief talk the President confined his questions entirely to the condition of affairs in Mexico,

RIOTERS KILL OFFICIALS.

District Attorney and Two Deputy Sheriffs Shot Dead by Hop Pickers.

Special to The New York Times.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 3.—District Attorney E. T. Manwell of Yuba County, E. A. Cunningham, a deputy Sheriff, and another deputy, whose name is unknown, were killed, while six other persons, two of whom are said to be women, were wounded in a riot which occurred in the hop fields near Wheatland, fifty miles from this city, late this afternoon.

The Governor has ordered out three companies of State infantry and one troop of cavalry, who are on their way to the scene on a special train. The riot had nothing to do with the Japanese question, but was the direct result of a strike which began late last night. It is thought that the Industrial Workers of the World organzires were responsible for the conflict.

Hop picking only began a few days ago, and the rate of pay has been $1 for each 100 pounds. At a meeting last night of the hop pickers, who numbered 400, it was decided to demand $1.25 per hundred pounds. This demand was refused.

There was no change in the situation until late this afternoon, when the strikers began to talk of killing and burning. An appeal was made to the local officers of Wheatland, and Constable L. B. Anderson was sent to the scene.

The constable was helpless in the hands of the rioters, and his presence only irritated the crowd, which was largely composed of Mexicans. Anderson was finally attacked and terribly beaten and disarmed. An urgent call was then made for help, and Sheriff Voss and ten deputies, accompanied by the District Attorney, hastened to the spot in two automobiles.

The crowd grew more and more hostile. Finally Voss seized one man who was more violent than the others and tried to rush him to the waiting automobile. This was the signal for the battle. Scores of strikers rushed the little posse, most of whom were simply citizens sworn in for the purpose, and carried no arms.

The prisoner was torn from the grasp of the Sheriff in a moment. The strikers retreated a short distance and poured a volley of pistol shots into the officers. At the first fire, District Attorney Manwell fell dead, shot through the heart. Cunningham, who was the father-in-law of the Sheriff, was also shot through the body and died in a few minutes.

The officers held their ground, although outnumbered by fifty to one. They returned the fire as best they could, but were helpless.

Finally, the driver of one of the automobiles, jumped into his car and hastened to town with the news of the fight. The three dead men and six or seven wounded were left on the ground.

How many of the strikers were shot is not known.

A posse of 100 officers, heavily armed, is on the way to the scene. The militia will arrive late to-night.

GIRLS GAMBLE IN BASEBALL.

Philadelphia Finds Many of Them Playing the Pools.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Three hundred women gamblers, working in mills and spending their money on baseball pools, have been counted by Detective Charles Lee, head of the Vice Squad here. Harry Reed of 4,470 Germantown Avenue has been held in bail by Magistrate Coward, having been charged with operating a pool. Lee says 1,800 persons gambled on ball games in Reed's place each week, most of whom were women. The chances cost 25 cents each.

Parents and husbands have appealed to Police Superintendent Robinson to prosecute all pool operators. In one pool, it was shown by the police, the operator collected $450 a week, of which $150 was paid out in prizes and $300 was profit. The police say that in some parts of the city more women and girls than men and boys play the pools.

QUITS SOCIETY FOR STORE.

St. Louis Girl Becomes a Millinery Apprentice at $3 a Week.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 3.—Miss Delphine Force, a pretty society girl and daughter of wealthy parents, is now a millinery apprentice at $3 a week, and says she likes the work. She recently quit society pleasures to become a professional cook. Miss Force plans to be a teacher of domestic science at Dana Hall, Wellesley, Mass., in the Fall, where millinery is part of the curriculum.

Two months ago she applied for a position at a big St. Louis store. She refused $1.50 a week and obtained $2, later raised to $3. She felt so pleased by her proficiency being recognized that she took a week's vacation. She goes to work at 8 o'clock in the morning, takes an hour for lunch at noon, quits at 5 o'clock, and submits to the same conditions of employment as the other girls do. She says she would much rather do so than dawdle through an idle existence on the allowance her father, Houston T. Force, a hat manufacturer, gives her.

WAIF ROUTS A BURGLAR.

Boy's Foster-Mother Faints, but He Puts Armed Man to Flight.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 3.—Samuel Bosby, a boy about 11 years old, was adopted about two months ago by Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider. Nobody seems to know exactly how old the boy is, because his parents did not keep track of his birthday. He was a waif in the Juvenile Court when the Schneiders got him.

Early this morning Sammy had the first opportunity to reward the man and woman who had taken him into their home as their son. A burglar, armed with a revolver, his face masked with a red handkerchief, forced his way into the Schneider home and threatened to kill Mrs. Schneider. She screamed and fell to the floor in a faint. As the intruder entered the house, Sammy ran down stairs shouting. The burglar, who thought there was no one except Mrs. Schneider at home, caught one glimpse of the boy and fled.

MOSLEM RIOT IN CAWNPORE.

Police Kill Thirteen Who Protested Against Tearing Down a Mosque.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 3.—The demolition of a portion of a mosque at Cawnpore for street improvements, which had caused indignation meetings to be held in many parts of India and Burmah, led to serious rioting at Cawnpore to-day. A procession of natives carrying black flags visited the mosque and began replacing the bricks of the partly demolished edifice.

An attempt to disperse the gathering resulted in a conflict with the police, who fired a volley into the crowd, killing thirteen persons and wounding thirty. One policeman was shot and forty others were injured.

EIGHT MEET DEATH IN NEAR-BY WATERS

SIX DROWN WHILE BATHING

Policeman Dives Over in Uniform and Saves One Life and Rescuers Reach Others in Peril.

Five men, a young woman, a boy, and a child were drowned in the waters of New York and near-by beaches yesterday. The young woman was drowned off Keansburg, N. J., while three other young women with her narrowly escaped the same fate. Off Seabright, N. J., a father was drowned while rescuing his son. A young Italian laborer lost his life in the Clason Point swimming pool; one youth was drowned at Coney Island, and another at Far Rockaway, while a 4-year-old child fell into the Hudson off Edgewater, N. J., and was drowned. A youth was drowned at Tottenville, and a swimmer went down in Staten Island Sound.

Miss Mae Craig, 18 years old, of Jersey City, was bathing off Keansburg, N. J., with three young women friends yesterday afternoon. When the tide is out, Raritan Bay is very shallow there, and frequently bathers walk out 1,000 feet from shore before getting into deep water. The flats are pitted with treacherous holes, and many times in the past bathers unable to swim have stepped into these holes and drowned.

The four young women had splashed their way about 200 yards from shore yesterday afternoon and were in water shoulder high, when suddenly all four slipped into a pit and disappeared. Three of them were with difficulty rescued, but Miss Craig was dead when taken from the water. Every effort was made to revive her, but without success.

The body was taken to Bedlo's Morgue at Keyport, to await word from the young woman's parents. The three rescued young women hurried away to the camp where they lived without giving their names.

Gave His Life for His Son's.

Henry Davis of Brooklyn, who was spending the Summer at Seabright, N. J., was in a rowboat with his son, Harry, 9 years old, crabbing off the point in Rensen Harbor yesterday afternoon when the boy fell overboard. His father jumped after him, caught the drowning boy in his arms, and, finding a precarious footing on the side of the channel where the bottom shelved, held the boy half out of the water while his own mouth was just on a level with the surface.

Davis managed to hold up his son until rescuers arrived in rowboats, but the moment the boy was taken from his grasp he sank out of sight. It is thought that he collapsed from sheer exhaustion. His body was recovered later in the day.

When Joseph Bianchi, a young Italian, disappeared beneath the surface of the Clason Point Swimming Pool yesterday afternoon, his friends thought that he was merely ducking or attempting to swim under water. When a minute passed, and then another, and he did not reappear, they called for help. A number of men responded, among them Jack Morrell, whose diving has won him many medals. Morrell, after repeated efforts, succeeded in bringing Biancha to the surface. He was carried to the bathing pavilion and Dr. Collosso was summoned from the Fordham Hospital. When the doctor arrived Biancha was dead. The body was removed to Biancha's home, at Belmont Avenue and 184th Street. This is the first drowning in the pool since it was opened four years ago.

Cramps Drown a Good Swimmer.

Irving Schwartz, 17 years old, of 274 South Fifth Street, Brooklyn, was drowned yesterday afternoon at he Ocean Bath at the foot of Thompson Street. Schwartz was considered a good swimmer, and he had been instructing several friends in swimming when he decided to venture out a short way. He was seized with cramp and disappeared before Life Guard Frederick Long could reach him. Long recovered his body and brought it ashore. Dr. Friedmann of the Coney Island Hospital worked over Schwartz for two hours, but was unable to revive him.

Harry Engel, 19 years old, of 1,890 Prospect Place, Brooklyn, accompanied by several other members of the Atlas Club, which has a bungalow at Rockaway Point, was in bathing there yesterday afternoon, when Engel stepped off into the Rockaway Channel and disappeared. His body was not recovered.

John Lawler, 4 years old, of Palisade Avenue, Hudson Heights, while visiting his uncle at Edgewater, N. J., fell from a boat into the North River yesterday afternoon and was drowned in two feet of water. His young playmates ran away screaming, but there were no grown-ups about to rescue the child. The body was recovered.

Two Die in Staten Island Sound.

David Chelsman, 16 years old, of 207 New Brunswick Avenue, Perth Amboy, N. J., while in bathing at Sea Breeze, Tottenville, S. I., was drowned yesterday afternoon in Staten Island Sound. Chelsman was some distance from shore, and it is believed he was seized with cramps. He sank before help could reach him. The body was recovered and taken to Bedell's undertaking establishment.

George Priest, 27 years old, of 529 New Park Road, Elizabeth, N. J., was drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming from Elizabeth to Houlands Hook, S. I. Priest left Elizabeth at 4 P. M., and when in the middle of Staten Island Sound became exhausted and shouted for help. Before aid could reach him he sank out of sight. The body was not recovered.

MANY SAVED FROM DROWNING.

Policeman McElliott and Andrew Bingston Make Brave Rescues.

Three men, two boys and four young women were rescued from drowning in the waters of New York City and at near-by beaches. Two young men were rescued at Coney Island, a laborer who fell into the East River was rescued by a policeman; it took two men to rescue a four-year-old boy who had fallen into the East River, while another small boy was hauled out of the Hudson. A young woman nearrowly escaped drowning at Rockaway Beach, while three young women were rescued at Keansburg, N. J.

Milton Whitman, 10 years old, of 535 West Forty-sixth Street, who is unable to swim, was wading in the comparatively shallow water of the Hudson River off the small beach at the foot of

SAY MAN IN SOCIETY TOOK HANAN JEWELS

Detectives Also Assert Rumsey Robbery Was Committed by Him and a Confederate.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., Aug. 3.—The discovery was made here to-day that the detectives working on the thefts of jewels from the Hanan and Rumsey homes were slowly gathering evidence intended to involve a man prominent in Narragansett Pier society.

It is known that this man, who has a charming wife, who is also wealthy, is at times very short of cash. He has ready access to both the Hanan and Rumsey homes, and he is said to be a heavy gambler. His close friend is the son of a wealthy Boston family, and whose conduct has caused unfavorable comment at Narragansett Pier.

The detectives are working on the theory that these men, the first short of funds because of poor business and heavy gambling, and the second practically cut off from his family and also needing funds, took advantage of their social relations, hoodwinked the servants in the Hanan and Rumsey homes, and committed the thefts in both places.

Following the robbery the Narragansett man remained at his home, while his colleague took an automobile for Providence.

The detectives believe that on his way he buried the jewels beside the road about fifteen miles from Providence and every inch of the ground is being gone over between Narragansett Pier and Providence. It is stated that all but one of the jewels were buried. That one, a fine ruby, was taken to Boston and given to a young woman.

The detectives believe that after the Hanan house was robbed on Friday night the Narragansett man secreted the gems in his home over night, and on Saturday night the Rumsey house was rifled, the Boston man carrying the loot away that night.

Mrs. John H. Hanan to-day denied the report, published in New York and Boston, that her stolen jewels had been located in the safe of a Boston broker, who had made a loan of $60,000 on the jewels as collateral security.

"The story is without foundation," she said. "And I may add that a loan of $60,000 could not be obtained on my jewels. I consider the report contemptible and unwarranted."

Mr. Hanan, who has been seriously ill, was able to sit up to-day for the first time since his illness began, and was informed of the robbery. Mrs. Hanan said that he was not greatly concerned, expressing his regret only over the annoyance which the situation had caused her.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—The woman to whom one of the persons implicated in teh Hanan-Rumsey robberies is said to have given a fine ruby, was much perturbed when questioned to-night, but admitted that it would not surprise her to learn that the man who gave her the jewel had a part in the robbery.

Among other things she told how at one time this man accomplished a porch-climbing job, gaining entrance by a porch window and entering the house. She stated that she did not know that he stole anything. She said he was "an Indian" when he was intoxicated.

"He would stop at absolutely nothing," she added.

Bellboy Stole $4,000.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 3.—Arrested in his finely furnished bachelor apartments in Everett, Isadore Bowman, a negro bellboy at the Hotel Vendome here, will face in court to-morrow charges of stealing valuables worth $4,000 from suites of Charles F. Dowse, Mrs. William Bell Sewell, and Mrs. Wallbridge. The thief apparently made a specialty of diamonds, for money in these apartments was left untouched.

SEEK MAID AS JEWEL THIEF.

W. C. Stearns's Watch and Rings, Worth $1,000, Gone from Club.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Jewelry to the value of more than $1,000, comprising a gold watch and diamond rings, disappeared from the cottage of W. C. Stearns of New York at the Adirondack League Club, Little Moose, yesterday afternoon. A maid in the employ of the club is missing, and railroad detectives have instructions to watch for her, as she is said to be in possession of two tickets to California, abstracted with the watch and rings.

Mr. Stearns occupies one of the club lodges near the site of the former clubhouse. It was learned that the maid did not appear at the club at the proper time and a search was begun. A guide at Little Moose said that he saw a girl leave either the Stearns cottage or the one adjoining it early yesterday afternoon, and that shortly afterward another maid took a package into the store to be wrapped up, while the other girl waited outside in a traveling dress. The latter, he said, received the package and later took a train to Fulton.

The girl evidently went through Utica yesterday afternoon, but as the tickets are through ones there is no record of her passing Buffalo. Western cities have been asked to watch for her.

NO HOLIDAY FOR GOV. CRUCE

Finds Convicts Pardoned and Contracts Signed in His Absence.

Special to The New York Times.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 3.—"I will never leave the State again as long as I am Governor, so help me God," declared Gov. Lee Cruce who, upon being informed of the action of Lieut. Gov. McAlester in granting pardons to four prisoners and signing school bonds to which the Governor was opposed, rushed post haste back to the capital. "I have cancelled all engagements I have out of the State, including the Governor's conference at Denver, and shall make no others henceforth. I intend to stay strictly on the job."

Gov. Cruce said to-night that he sympathized with the aged Lieutenant Governor's infirmities and blamed the men who brought pressure to bear upon him to act as he did.

Lieut. Gov. McAlester, who is perhaps 75 years old, is in the race for Governor at the next election.

Among the prisoners the Acting Governor pardoned was B. H. Updike, a nephew of former Gov. Haskell, sentenced to life imprisonment for murder.

TAX EXPATRIATES FOR EMBASSY COSTS

Suggestion by Justice Gerard, Who Is Unable to Find Berlin Quarters to Suit.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—Justice James W. Gerard of New York, who has been appointed Ambassador to Germany by President Wilson, is much discouraged over the result of his search for new quarters for the Embassy. He has inspected all the available houses in Berlin, and said to-night that unless he succeeded in obtaining a place adapted to the requirements of himself, his family, and the Embassy he was seriously considering declining the post of Ambassador.

He added that the present Embassy, the lease on which expires April 1, is too cramped for his needs, but he had been unable to find a substitute, although he was willing to pay for it out of his private means. The Justice said he was unwilling to come to Berlin as Ambassador unless he could represent the nation in a worthy manner.

To-night Justice Gerard drafted a bill for presentation to the American Congress which aims to meet the Embassy building situation in Berlin and elsewhere. It would provide for the compulsory registration and imposition of an annual tax of $10 on all Americans living abroad under penalty of loss of citizenship, and give the Treasury Department a basis for collecting an income tax to provide funds for Embassy quarters.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3. — Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York, who mainly was responsible for the selection of Justice James W. Gerard of New York for Ambassador to Germany, said to-night that he put no faith in the report from Berlin that Justice Gerard contemplated declining the post because he could find no suitable home for the embassy.

Senator O'Gorman said that a bill to provide official residences for American Ambassadors abroad was pending in the Senate, and there was every reason to hope that it would pass. In view of this and other circumstances it was his opinion that there could be no real foundation for any belief that Justice Gerard intended to give up a diplomatic career.

The agitation for providing homes for Ambassadors and Ministers of the United States or salaries sufficient to enable them to maintain large establishments without drawing on their private means has been going on for years. It has been discussed in Congress nearly every time that the annual diplomatic appropriation has been under consideration.

The Berlin Ambassadorship was offered to Prof. Fine of Princeton, and he declined because the salary was inadequate.

When Charlemagne Tower was Ambassador to Germany he occupied one of the most imposing houses in Berlin. His home was in the Koenigplatz, next to the Reichstag, and it was well adapted for entertaining. In March, 1908, the German Emperor and Empress visited his home, and were entertained at dinner.

Ambassador Hill had several homes during his stay in Berlin. He first stopped in modest quarters at the Hotel Adlon, while the business quarters of the embassy were in a dingy second flat over a bookstore at Unter den Linden, 68. After he had been in Berlin some six months Dr. Hill leased a splendid house at 4 Bismarckstrasse, in a most desirable residental section.

J. G. A. Leishman, who followed Dr. Hill as Ambassador, selected as his home a house in the Rauchstrasse which served for both embassy and private residence. It was fifteen minutes' drive by automobile from Unter den Linden.

WILSON MOTORS AND GOLFS.

Keeps Bachelor Hall in Washington Heat Till Congress Quits.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—President Wilson has entered into the Summer life of the national capital with the tolerant spirit of a veteran President. Declining to leave Washington while Congress is in session, he is making the best of the hot weather by a methodical programme of work and recreation, the latter mostly automobile rides and golf.

Keeping "bachelor hall" is a trying ordeal for President Wilson, as he has rarely been away from the family circle for any extended period. No friends have been invited to visit him, and though occasionally he dines with a Cabinet member, the President is content with the company of Secretary Tumulty and Dr. C. T. Grayson, his two house guests. With them he goes automobiling after the day's work is done, and quite regularly they attend the theatres, where stock company plays have been running. In contrast to the Winter season, the President wears a linen suit to the theatre instead of evening dress.

ROCKEFELLER STILL A BOY.

So He Tells a Centenarian at Church in Cleveland.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 3.—John D. Rockefeller and Ebenezer Roberts, who is 105 years old, shook hands in a hearty greeting and congratulated each other on their excellent health at the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church this morning. Mr. Rockefeller gave an exclamation of pleasure as he hurried toward Mr. Roberts when he caught sight of him after the services were over.

"I once was a boy, but I am an old man now," said Mr. Roberts. Mr. Rockefeller laughed and said:

"Well, I am still a boy."

Mr. Roberts said he thought he was good for another twenty-five years.

Mr. Rockefeller said, "I hope you are, Mr. Roberts, and I am very glad to see you at church and in such good spirits."

Mr. Rockefeller was particularly pleased with the sermon of the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church in New York City, and went about commenting on it as he shook hands with friends.

Dr. Woelfkin's text was "Thy gentleness hath made me great." He said the power of gentleness was greater than that of harshness and coercion.

S. O. PELL KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Mr. and Mrs. William Laimbeer, His Guests, Seriously Hurt, and Chauffeur Also Killed.

WIFE WAS IN AUTO AHEAD

Riding with W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., She Heard Collision and Death Cries Near Long Beach.

S. Osgood Pell, the well known real estate dealer and arctic adventurer, was killed almost instantly last night at 10 o'clock, when his automobile was struck by a Long Island Railroad train on a crossing of the road from Long Beach, about three and a half miles west of that place and about a half mile west of what is known as the Wreck Leap Station. The chauffeur driving the machine in which Mr. Pell was riding was also killed, while William Laimbeer and his wife, of Hempstead, who were riding with Mr. Pell, were seriously injured. They were removed to Leonhardt's Sanitarium in Hempstead, where it was said that Mr. Laimbeer's condition was critical.

Mr. Pell, with Mrs. Pell, Mr. and Mrs. Laimbeer and W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., went to Long Beach yesterday and spent the day there. The party started back to Westbury last night about 9:30 o'clock. Mr. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Pell were in an auto ahead of the one in which Mr. Pell was riding with Mr. and Mrs. Laimbeer.

The Long Island Railroad runs its cars on a single track at the place where the accident occurred. The highway crosses at right angles and leads to Rockville Centre from the beach. It was on this highway that the two automobiles were traveling.

The Long Beach Road crosses the Long Island Railroad tracks about two miles from the beach. There is a bell there which is supposed to ring upon the approach of a train. It is said there was no warning from the bell of the electric train's approach last night, and that there was nothing to indicate danger to the automobilists. The Pell car was driven onto the track just as the electric train came along. There was no time to turn back, and although the chauffeur put on extra speed he did not succeed in getting over the rails.

Pell's Body Terribly Mangled.

The fast-moving electric train struck the Pell auto in the centre and lifted it from the road, carrying it along ahead of it for over a hundred yards before it hurled the auto, a mass of wreckage, to one side of the road. The train was immediately stopped and the crew ran back to the spot. They found Mr. Pell lying dead alongside the tracks with his skull fractured and nearly every bone in his body broken. His face was terribly crushed and battered and his clothing almost entirely torn from his body.

Mr. Laimbeer and his wife were found lying unconscious some distance further down the road.

There was no trace of the chauffeur, and at first it was believed that he had escaped injury. But later his body, terribly mangled, was found wedged in the trucks of one of the cars. He had been killed outright. It was necessary to jack up the car to get the body from beneath it.

Royal Turner, a chauffeur, who was near the scene of the accident, offered his machine to carry the injured to the Hotel Nassau, where they were attended by Dr. C. H. Johnson and Dr. William A. Rogers of the hotel staff.

Mr. Vanderbilt's automobile was some distance ahead of the other car when the collision occurred, and when Mr. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Pell were attracted by the cries behind them, following the collision, their automobile was turned as quickly as possible and headed back toward the place of the collision.

Mr. Pell was found lying some little distance from his car, while Mr. Laimbeer was lying near him. Mrs. Laimbeer was caught beneath the automobile, while the chauffeur was thrown about ten feet to the front of it.

Bodies Taken to Long Beach.

Mr. Laimbeer was removed in a passing automobile to the sanitarium in Hempstead, where it was found that his skull had been fractured, Mrs. Laimbeer with a slight fracture of the skull and a fracture of the knee, was taken by train back to Long Beach, as were the other members of the party and the bodies of Mr. Pell and the chauffeur.

Meanwhile adjoining towns were notified of the accident, and a requisition was made upon them for every available surgeon and physician. Medical assistance was rushed from every direction to the place where the accident occurred from most of the towns by automobile, because the last train for Long Beach had left the Pennsylvania Station at 11:15 o'clock.

Among those who went from Long Beach were Dr. Rogers and Dr. De Vanney.

At 1 o'clock this morning it was said that William Laimbeer was suffering from a compound fracture of the skull, and was in a very serious condition, although there was still a slight hope that his life might be saved. Dr. Lee was the physician in charge.

Persons who were on the train that was in collision with the automobile learned from some of the trainmen that the watchman whose duty it was to stand at the crossing usually was allowed to leave his post earlier on Sunday evenings. A conductor on the train following that of the one which crashed into the Pell automobile was authority for this statement.

Thirteen Cars in Train.

The train that caused the accident was on its way from Manhattan to Long Beach. It was made up of thirteen cars, and it is asserted that only the rear cars were lighted.

S. Osgood Pell was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howland Pell, and was engaged in the real estate business at 542 Fifth Avenue. He was well known as a spotrsman, and was a member of many clubs in this city. He was one of those who sailed on the arctic expedition organized by A. W. Scott of Canada which went to Baffin Land in search of the reputed placer deposits of gold in that territory. The explorers narrowly escaped death. On June 24 he flew from the Westchester Country Club to his home in Wheatley Hills, L. I., in a Glenn Curtiss hydro-aeroplane, which was run by John Vilas, a professional aviator.

Mr. Pell was 51 years old, and was born in this city. In October, 1899, he married Miss Isabel Townsend, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Townsend. His wife divorced him a little more than a year after their marriage, after a daughter had been born to them. On Feb. 2, 1903, she married Peter Rathbourne Labouisse, son of a wealthy Southern cotton broker. The next month Mr. Pell took as his second wife Miss Elizabeth Warden of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Pell had two brothers, Theodore

MISS WILSON'S WEDDING.

White House Being Prepared for Ceremony in November.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The White House is by no means the quiet and comfortable place these days that it appears, as a small army of paperhangers, painters, and carpenters are busily at work remodeling the interior in preparation for the wedding of Miss Jessie Wilson and Francis B. Sayre, which is to take place the last week in November.

It is not expected that the Wilson family will return from Cornish, N. H., the Summer capital, much before that time.

POLICE JOY RIDE FATAL.

Chauffeur Killed and Commissioner and Three Others Hurt.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 3.—Robert Kiersted, police chauffeur, was instantly killed early this morning by the overturning of a big touring car attached to the Police Department, and four others were badly hurt, as follows:

JOHNSON, WILLIAM A., Police Commissioner, ribs broken and internal injuries.
O'CONNOR, HENRY, Registrar of voters, ribs broken and internal injuries.
DUNPHY, CHRISTOPHER, saloonkeeper, cut and bruised.
VALLONE, ALPHONSE, boxing instructor, cut and bruised.

Doctors this evening say that Johnson's case is most serious, and that O'Connor may not survive.

The five men took the machine from the police garage last night without the knowledge of the Chief of Police and spent several hours visiting the shore resorts. Returning, Kiersted let out the car to a sixty-mile clip. Crossing a bridge at Seymour, the machine crashed into a cement wall. The impact upset the machine and the men were pinned under it.

McMILLAN TO ARCTIC TO-DAY

The Eric, with Explorers Aboard, Will Leave Battle Harbor.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 3.—The steamship Eric, taking the McMillan Crocker Land expedition into the arctic regions, reached Battle Harbor this morning, after a good run from here. She takes on board supplies and outfit landed from the disabled Diana, and leaves for the north to-morrow.

The Eric is commanded by Capt. Kehoe of Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, and has officers and experienced Newfoundland seamen used to arctic cruising, some of whom were in the Roosevelt with Admiral Peary.

WOMAN RUNS ELEVATOR.

"I'm Learning," She Tells Resident of Pittsburgh Apartment House.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., Aug. 3.—Male residents of the Forbes Apartments in Oakland discovered to-day when they entered the elevator that a woman was at the lever. Miss Jeanne Batter, a Forbes employe, had assumed the duties of elevator operator this morning.

"Why, how does this come about?" inquired Charles J. Murray, a clubman, as he entered the elevator, suit case in hand, on his way to the Great Lakes on a vacation trip.

"I am running the elevator," answered Miss Batter.

"This is unheard of. Can you run the thing?"

"Well, I'm learning, and I guess I'll get along all right."

Mr. Murray showed relief as he left the car at the first floor, and remarked, as Miss Batter took the car up: "Another example of the upward trend of woman."

DANIELS BAGGAGE LOST.

Secretary and His Wife Without Change of Attire in Denver.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, Aug. 3.—Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, and Mrs. Daniels came to Denver without baggage. They attended the luncheons and dinners and celebrations without opening a trunk or a suit case for a change. Their baggage was lost when being transferred at Cheyenne, and it did not reach Denver until yesterday, just before Secretary and Mrs. Daniels departed.

"And it wasn't as nice as it might have been to dress for dinner by combing one's hair again and putting on a clean collar," the Secretary said, laughing. "But I got so I felt dressed up with a new shine or a shave.

"My wife, like all women, loves clothes—only don't tell her that remark was made by me. I had a hard time accustoming myself to conditions, even the traveling bag was lost, and a woman without a traveling bag is a woman in misery."

BARONESS'S FIANCE GONE.

Titled German Woman in Vain Search for Hurley of St. Louis.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Baroness Urzala Barbara Von Kalinowski of Wiesbaden, Germany, who came to St. Louis to wed James Hurley, will return to New York to-morrow because her fiancé is not in this city. Saturday night, she said, he was ill at the Mullanphy Hospital, but was convalescent enough to be married. To-day the hospital authorities said Mr. Hurley had left the institution.

The Baroness and her brother, who is with her, were very angry when they found that Hurley was not in town, but the Baroness said she was certain he had gone to New York and that she would meet him there.

She said she met Mr. Hurley abroad last Summer, and that he told her he was a wealthy resident of St. Louis, but nobody here seems to know Mr. Hurley.

The Baroness wrote a cable dispatch to Wiesbaden to-day saying that Hurley was not in St. Louis, and requesting that $1,000 be sent to her at once. When she learned that the message would cost $2.85 she tore it up.

FLEET OF CHICAGO FLIERS.

Dawes and a Dozen Others Talk of Following McCormick's Example.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Enthusiastic over the aerial success of Harold F. McCormick, son-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, who now is flying almost daily in his hydroaeroplane from his country home at Lake Forest to his office in the International Harvester Building, a dozen or more prominent business men of Chicago, under the leadership of Charles G. Dawes, President of the Central Trust Company, are preparing to emulate his example, purchase flying machines and form a fleet of aero yachts.

WHITMAN WILL STAND BY FUSION

Rather Than Risk Victory for Tammany, Will Run for His Old Office.

FEELS IT IS HIS DUTY

Does Not Fail, However, to Make Plain His Chagrin at Result of Caucus.

DELUGED WITH TELEGRAMS

Many of Those Received by Him at Bretton Woods Urge Him to be an Independent Candidate.

From a Staff Correspondent of THE TIMES.

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., Aug. 3.—Unless unforeseen political changes overturn the results of last Thursday's caucus of the Citizens' Committee of One Hundred and Seven, when a preference for John Purroy Mitchel as Fusion candidate for Mayor was indicated, District Attorney Charles S. Whitman will consent to renomination and will take his place on the ticket with the other Fusion nominees.

Mr. Whitman is a guest at the Mount Washington Hotel here. Although disinclined to discuss the results of Thursday's caucus or analyze the causes responsible for the acceptance of Mr. Mitchel. Mr. Whitman's general comments on the situation as he outlined it during a talk with THE TIMES correspondent to-night indicated that only a strong sense of duty upheld him in his present frame of mind to pledge his support to the Fusion ticket.

Urged by Many to Fight.

Telegrams and letters awaiting him when he left his apartments this morning did not tend to soothe his feeling of disappointment over the outcome of the caucus or prove useful as a guide to his political future. Many of these messages from friends contain advice to head an independent Republican ticket. It is practically certain that Mr. Whitman will reject this suggestion. Although his counselors express the opinion that he would stand a good chance of election as head of a third ticket, he is known to be unwilling to take any step which might jeopardize the effort to overthrow the Tammany candidate.

It was not until late on Friday that Mr. Whitman learned of the selection of Mr. Mitchel, and then few of the details of the caucus were in his possession. He left New York at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon after acting as a pallbearer at the funeral of Judge O'Sullivan, and thereafter only half a dozen confidants knew the secret of his destination.

He motored to Bridgeport, and thence to New Haven, where he spent Thursday night. He continued his trip through the New England States Friday and Saturday, and found his wife and child awaiting him here.

His itinerary kept him just ahead of the New York newspapers at all stages of the trip, so that he did not get the complete story of Thursday's doings until to-day, when he had an opportunity to receive private messages and peruse the papers. The trip paid him handsome returns in physical improvement. He feels greatly refreshed, and his face glows with color from three days of driving in the sunshine.

Friends knew before he left New York that Mr. Whitman was not unaware of the possibility of defeat. A hint of it came at the last moment when a politician not of his political cloth, but his friend, nevertheless, purposely let fall a suggestion of apocryphal methods that would be employed to accomplish the success of the Mitchel forces. It was only in the light of subsequent events that the Whitman leaders read the accuracy of the warning, if it may be called such.

Involves President Wilson.

When Mr. Whitman returns to New York on Wednesday, he will be told that President Wilson and Timothy L. Woodruff were responsible above all others perhaps for Mr. Mitchel's selection. From views which he seems to hold at present he will not gainsay this interpretation of events.

Mr. Whitman is not convinced that the balloting Thursday recorded the true expressions of the Citizens' Committee.

According to the information which has come to him, some of its members who were unskilled in political manoeuvres fell victims to the wiles of veterans who played a game at which they were adepts.

Mr. Whitman's friends are especially bitter regarding the attitude of Col. Woodruff. It is known that the Whitman leaders had received assurances from the Brooklyn man which they accepted in good faith. They were utterly unprepared for his change of front, and now charge him with unqualified treachery.

Little less potent in its effect on results, although essentially different in character, was the support attributed to President Wilson in causing the selection of Mr. Mitchel.

This support is not regarded as antagonizing Mr. Whitman's candidacy so much as indicating the purpose of the President to take a hand in local politics in New York in order to deal with Charles F. Murphy, whose regard for Mr. Wilson was shown at the Baltimore Convention. The moral effect produced by President Wilson's indorsement of the Collector of the Port is credited with contributing greatly to Mr. Whitman's defeat.

The District Attorney is anxious to learn on his return to New York what is the popular appraisal of the Fusion ticket as at present constituted. His advisers seem to doubt if the combination of Mitchel, McAneny, and Whitman will be regarded as a harmonious trio.

Mr. Whitman is known to be antagonistic to Tammany. Mr. Mitchel made his political début as a Tammany office holder when he was appointed Assistant Corporation Counsel at the request of John Delany, a Tammany henchman, and later was appointed Commissioner of Accounts through the influence of Tammany Leader McAvoy. It was Mitchel who questioned the integrity of Mr. Mc-

[illegible] during the Subway discussions. Mr. Whitman, it will be recalled, did not go on record as indorsing the Mitchel Subway programme.

That these facts were in Mr. Whitman's mind before the Thursday caucus convened is known. Whether the Citizens' Committee took them into consideration is a question which the Whitman lieutenants will want answered after their leader returns to New York. Irrespective of the merit of the choice of Mr. Mitchel, it will be a subject for discussion whether or not the selection of Mr. Whitman and Mr. McAneny as principal running mates was well advised or will be ratified by voters at the polls.

Will Wait for McAneny.

One thing certain at present is that Mr. Whitman will not consent to quit the Fusion ticket unless Mr. McAneny takes the lead.

Prior to his decision to permit the use of his name as a Fusion candidate, Mr. Whitman told personal friends that he had received an offer from one of the most prominent law firms in New York to enter their employ at a retainer far in excess of his salary as District Attorney. He had no inclination to succeed himself in office, and it was only on the assurance from advisors that his nomination and election as Mayor on the Fusion ticket was reasonably certain that he did not close at once the offer for his services.

The tenor of many of the messages received by Mr. Whitman from both independent Democrats and independent Republicans indicates that they are not prepared to indorse Mr. Mitchel or vote for him.

Some of these messages even go so far as to prophesy that if elected it will be found that Mr. Mitchel will have sympathetic feelings for Tammany interests. It would not surprise Mr. Whitman's followers if on election day, and in case Mr. Mitchel's nomination is confirmed at the primaries, that voters will cast their ballots for Mayor Gaynor or another equally acceptable candidate rather than elect to office a candidate of Mr. Mitchel's uncertain standing.

Mr. Whitman plans to leave Bretton Woods to-morrow night.

SUPPORTERS ARE DIVIDED.

Some Want Whitman to Run Again for Present Office.

Republicans and other supporters of District Attorney Whitman were planning yesterday, before the news of his attitude became known, to wait upon him when he returns to the city, and urge him to accept a nomination either from the Republican Party or from a number of independent citizens.

Several leading Republicans tried to get in touch with Mr. Whitman, either by telephone or by telegraph, but it was said their efforts were unavailing. When the District Attorney returns on Tuesday he will meet several delegations of supporters. While the more radical had planned to ask him either to head a straight Republican ticket or be the nominee of a number of independents, others had expected to advise him to accept the proposition of the Fusion Committee and run again for District Attorney. The Executive Committee of the Republican County Committee will call upon Mr. Whitman first. Most of the members, including John Henry Hammond, Lloyd C. Griscom, Otto T. Bannard, Henry L. Stimson, and William M. Ivins, it was said, would urge him to abide by the decision of the fusionists and be a candidate for renomination to his present office.

Other Republicans who intended to offer the same advice are friends of Mr. Mitchel, who are gratified at the action of the Fusion committee in naming the Collector as its candidate for Mayor and who argue that if Mr. Whitman deserted the fusionist cause it would mean the triumph of Tammany. With these will be a number of Progressives, including William H. Hotchkiss, formerly Chairman of the Progressive State Committee, and Dr. Henry Moskowitz.

The Whitman men who want to see him nominated put forward the proposition that if he would agree to become a candidate it might force Mr. Mitchel to retire from the race. With the District Attorney at the head of the Republican ticket, with its enrollment of [illegible] voters, they think that Mr. Mitchel would rather retire than face the possibility of Mayor Gaynor winning again. It was learned yesterday that of the five borough divisions in the Republican City Committee two are pledged to support the Whitman Mayoralty movement under any conditions unless the District Attorney himself opposes it.

There was a revival yesterday of the talk that Cyrus C. Miller, Borough President of the Bronx, might refuse to accept the Fusion nomination, but Mr. Miller would not discuss the situation. If both Mr. McAneny and Mr. Miller desert the Fusionists there is a strong likelihood of the organization going to pieces, Republicans eagerly pointed out, and the structure might be pushed completely over if Mr. Whitman should follow their example.

Queens Is a Factor.

The chances of Fusion disintegration will be still better if the Queens Fusionists refuse to accept Robert W. Higbie for Borough President there. A large number of independents in Queens are backing Borough President Maurice Connolly. Then there is the possibility of a row among the Fusionists in Richmond, many of them favoring the retirement of Borough President Cromwell.

Several of Mr. Whitman's friends said yesterday that when he returned they would advise him to make no statement of his position at this time, but to wait until Borough President McAneny made the first move.

"If Mr. Whitman refuses to accept the Fusion nomination and heads a ticket of his own," said one, "he will have to shoulder the blame of breaking up the anti-Tammany forces, and this will not help him among the independent voters. On the contrary, if he waits a while and Mr. McAneny withdraws from the fusionists and others on their ticket follow, he will be able with much better grace to bolt likewise, and the whole Fusion movement as at present constituted may go to pieces. It is not at all likely that Mr. Whitman will declare his position until Mr. McAneny has done so first."

The Fusion committee will meet again Tuesday night to name the balance of the county ticket. It is to nominate for all offices except those of Assemblymen, Aldermen, and Coroners.

GAYNOR WON'T COMMENT.

Refuses to Talk About Fusion Until He Gets Back to New York.

ST. JAMES, L. I., Aug. 3.—"I have no comment to make at this time," said Mayor Gaynor this afternoon, when asked concerning the indorsement of Collector of the Port Mitchel by the Committee of 107 for the office of Mayor of New York, to make the run against Tammany.

The Mayor was found watching a game of baseball between the local nine and one from Ronkonkoma.

The Mayor intimated that possibly when he returns to Manhattan on Tuesday he may make some kind of a statement about the fusion indorsement of Mitchel. Mayor Gaynor came here on Thursday afternoon and will remain over Monday. This morning he attended the sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Episcopal Church.

WILL NOMINATE WHITMAN.

Citizens' Democracy Will Act Independently by Petition.

The following statement was issued last night by Louis Wolfert, Chairman of the Citizens' Democracy:

> In view of the fact that our organization has been actively engaged since June, in securing the necessary number of petitions, and as a matter of fact has now over a thousand more than necessary to nominate, we desire to state that no matter what action is taken by others, the Citizens' Democracy, feeling that they voice the sentiments of the people at large, are going to nominate Charles S. Whitman for Mayor, this nomination being made by petition and in the only legal way possible to be done by an independent organization. Sufficient of these petitions have been filed with the Bureau of Elections to secure priority of our emblem, and the balance will be filed in September or before the date required by law.

POINTS OUT FLAWS IN TWO PLATFORMS

Municipal Research Bureau Says Fusionists and Progressives Are Indefinite.

CITY PAYROLL IS IGNORED

Long List of Matters Not Covered Is Published in Series "No Matter Who Is Elected."

The Bureau of Municipal Research, in its eleventh publication in the series of "No Matter Who Is Elected," sent yesterday to tax and rent payers a digest of the Fusion and Progressive platforms for the coming municipal campaign. Similar digests of the platforms of other parties will be sent out when they are made public. After comparing the twelve specific promises made in both the Fusion and Progressive platforms the bureau takes up the subject of indefinite promises and mentions fourteen.

Neither platform, says the bureau, mentions whether the city payroll is too high and neither promises to reduce it. [illegible] anything said about unnecessary expenditures, says the bureau, and there is no specific promise about handling the city debt. Regarding the civil service system, the bureau says:

> Both platforms promise appointment and retention upon the basis of merit "without regard to political affiliations." (Progressive.) The voter cannot tell whether this means that there shall be no more exempt positions; that the present bi-partisan enforcement is to be abolished for the promised "non-partisan enforcement," (Progressive;) whether character is to be examined into; whether the cost of examinations shall be reduced by eliminating persons obviously disqualified by inexperience; whether there is anything wrong with the present method of examining or promoting, and what, if any, change would be made in the present allowance for experience in order to "promote for demonstrated efficiency within the civil service rather than the filling of higher salaried positions by examinations open to persons outside the service." (Progressive.)

The bureau also finds nothing but indefiniteness about the promises to strengthen the work of the fire prevention, the continuous reinspection of dangerous lofts and firetraps, and the continuing of the present administration's work against arson. It likewise finds that the promises to prevent frauds in weights and measures and to insure protection against impure and unfit foods are extremely vague. Regarding the attitude of the two parties toward the Police Department, the bureau says:

> As to reorganization of Police Department methods, more consideration is said to be "deserved by the drastic report of the Aldermanic Committee," (Fusion,) but none of their fifty specific recommendations is mentioned. "The sale of special privilege, official protection and official indulgence in any form, and trafficking in the attitude of public officials toward law enforcement must end." (Progressive.) "Honest members of the force shall be relieved from suspicion and the department rigorously purged of men who betray their trusts." (Fusion.) To accomplish these results, "the same efficient systems should be introduced as are found in large, well-organized business enterprises." How the promised administrator is to be "trained"; how the "strong and fearless man at the head of the department" is to be discovered, and what "strong and fearless" mean; how "responsibility and accountability for subordinates are to be centralized and supervision made efficient," (Fusion,) is not indicated, nor is it clear how other candidates than the Mayor nominated on the Progressive ticket this year shall make good their "unqualified pledge of efforts to this task of administrative reconstruction of Police Department and relations with political leaders and organizations."

The bureau sets forth the following as typical of chances for large savings which are not mentioned by either party:

> Central garages from which officers and employes shall get automobile service upon special recorded requisitions instead of practically owning city automobiles for riding away from business as well as to business; central repair shops and centralized engineering and other professional services; developing central testing laboratories; standardizing tools, equipment, stationery, and office methods; comprehensive study by individual officers and the full Board of Estimate in the first three months of the next administration to show for all departments unnecessary employes and obstructions to efficiency; 9 to 5 o'clock working day to include so-called expert and technical service; immediate installation of time records everywhere without waiting for complete service records; immediate challenge of the present plans for offices in the new municipal buildings and the prevention of unnecessary purchase of new furniture; planning improvements over a period of years so that public works may be developed with reference to future needs as well as the present "relative importance and value" of present applications (Fusion;) the restoration of Central Park through administrative efficiency; using the probation periods of six months in the Police Department and three months in the rest of the civil service for weeding out incompetents; establishing the proposition that veterans "are entitled to preference not maintenance"; using patrolmen for sanitary and other inspections not incompatible with police duties; semi-annual reports by the efficiency bureaus which will tell the progress of all departments, including the Police, Commissioners of Accounts, and Law Departments; holding not less than monthly conferences of department heads to secure team work for efficiency; starting immediately training courses for Health Department and other employes, including the extension and improvement of the fire and police recruit schools; a depreciation fund to enable the city to own and replace as it goes, instead of borrowing.

Among "typical practices to be stopped" the bureau mentions:

> Letting concessions such as Claremont Inn privately without public competition; issuing of revenue and special revenue bonds for purposes disapproved at budget time; taking up financial matters by "unanimous consent" without making record that emergency exists, and the character of such emergency; private telephones at city expense in private residences; the dismissal of employes contrary to the civil service law, thus requiring reinstatement with full back pay, plus costs of litigation; appointment and control of corporation inspectors on city paving, &c., by corporations; building roads in one section or in one month by ways proved in other months and at other times to be ineffective and wasteful; letting inspectors roam around among theatres, lofts, factories, slaughter houses, &c., with power to blackmail because not required to record where they have been, what they have seen, and what they have done.

The bureau says that two of the most important objects of expenditure that are not mentioned specifically in the plans for increased efficiency in spending are the public schools, for which it says the next administration will probably spend $200,000,000, and private institutions receiving public funds for which the next administration will spend close to $20,000,000.

"Yet these two fields," says the bureau, "represent enormous and urgent problems of management which justify the taxpayer in requiring specific pledges."

The bureau also points out that neither platform mentions any plan to secure and publish information necessary to intelligent judgment and action by officials and taxpayers, such as the establishment of complaint bureaus, the holding of public hearing, especially on budget estimates and the tentative budget, the publicity of police records to show departmental efficiency, and the publishing of easily understood quarterly and annual reports by all departments.

DYING AFTER CONEY FIGHT.

Restaurant Keeper and Man Who Attacked Him Both Hurt Mortally.

Raffaelo Abbandanza, a restaurant keeper of 2,901 West Fifteenth Street, Coney Island, was standing in front of his place yesterday evening at 8 o'clock, when Thomas Savarese, living in West Fifteenth Street, near Mermaid Avenue, Coney Island, with whom he had quarreled, shot at him with a revolver.

The first bullet went wild, and Abbandanza ran into his restaurant, obtained a revolver, and returned the fire. After an exchange of more shots Abbandanza and Savarese fell unconscious to the sidewalk. One of the bullets fired by Savarese struck Mrs. Jennie Risnik of 239 East 122d Street, Manhattan, in the right shoulder as she was walking along Mermaid Avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth Streets.

Policeman Louis Euler of the Coney Island Station ran to the place, and sent in an ambulance call to the Coney Island Hospital. Savarese and Abbandanza were removed there by Drs. Friedmann and Kaufmann. Savarese it was found had been shot through one lung. The surgeons said he would die. Abbandanza was shot in the left side near the heart, and it was said he, too, would die. Mrs. Resnik will recover.

From Abbandanza the police learned that Savarese, some six weeks ago, obtained work in Steeplechase Park. He was accustomed to take his meals at the restaurant of Abbandanza, where he ran up a bill of $25. Several days ago, when Abbandanza found that Savarese was attentive to his daughter, he ordered him not to return to the restaurant.

VACATION CAME TOO LATE.

Tailor Who Saved for Country Trip Killed Himself While Heat-Crazed.

William Leiser, a tailor, of 153 Himrod Street, Williamsburg, after weeks of hard work saved enough money to take Mrs. Leiser into the country for two weeks, but last evening at 8 o'clock the extreme heat drove him insane. He took a revolver from the bedroom in his home, and, brandishing it above his head, ran into the dining room where his wife and two children, a boy and a girl, were sitting, and threatened to shoot Mrs. Leiser.

As he aimed the pistol at the head of his wife, his son, William, ran at him, but before he reached the side of the crazed man the tailor turned the revolver upon himself, and sent a bullet through his right temple. Dr. Hiltvole, who was summoned from the German Hospital, said that Leiser had died instantly.

SPECIAL CAR FOR INVALID.

Appellate Division Clerk Brought Here Suffering from Amnesia.

Dennis A. McLaughlin, for twenty years Assistant Deputy Clerk of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, was taken from the Pennsylvania station in this city to St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday, suffering from amnesia. He was brought to the city in a special car from his Summer home at Good Ground, L. I.

In May Mr. McLaughlin went to Good Ground from his home at 606 Lexington Avenue. Early in June he became ill. On Friday it was decided to summon Dr. E. M. Raynor of 464 East 138th Street, his family physician. Dr. Raynor recommended the removal of Mr. McLaughlin to a hospital here.

SAYS HUSBAND SHOT HER.

Held for Attempted Murder—Visser's Plea Is Accident.

Charged with having shot his wife in the breast early on Saturday evening, Cornelius Visser of 609 West 122d Street was arrested yesterday afternoon and locked up. Mrs. Visser was found, wounded and unconscious, on the bedroom floor in their basement apartment when their son, Peter, came home from work. The son hurried her in a taxicab to the Knickerbocker Hospital that evening, but it was not until yesterday that the police were notified.

Visser said his wife had been wounded by the accidental discharge of a pistol he was cleaning. According to the detectives, however, Mrs. Visser said he had often threatened to kill her, and that when he did shoot her it was after taking careful aim.

CHARITY. CHARITY.

dear Mr. Summer Man and Summer Lady

Won't you listen to me?

Your children are playing in the country all Summer, while 4,283 children are working in the Georgia cotton mills. Some are only ten years old, and would love to dig sand or wade in a cool brook. Instead they work from 6 o'clock in the morning until 6 at night, with the mill windows shut because fresh air breaks the cotton.

I worked in a cotton mill myself till a big machine crushed my foot and tore out two of my fingers.

The foreman said once such accidents don't amount to anything. Mine did to me, though, for now I'll get time to go to school. And instead of being tired out when I'm a man, like many of the Georgia fathers now are, I shall be strong and willing to work for my children while they go to school.

That's more than the children who didn't have accidents can do, unless you help them. They want to go to school, too, to play and to grow up like your children.

The good men are trying hard this Summer to help the children in the Georgia mills. But it costs much money, and they haven't got that. So they have sent me to ask for your help.

I know it's hot and you're busy. But it's hot for the children, too. The trouble of sending a check for $5 or more is little compared with what help, given the children now, will mean to them all their lives.

The Georgia Legislature is now in session. We have a bill pending before it to get a 14-year age limit and a 10-hour day for the cotton mill children. It is a battle for the weak child—for the humane employer. The Legislature adjourns August 14th—only 10 more days for you to help us act.

COMMENT ON FAIR STIRS LONDON PRESS

Surprised That American Newspapers Should Bring Up Canal Toll Question.

TELEGRAPH STRIKES BACK

Standard Refers to California Exposition as Gigantic National Advertisement.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 4.—While The London Times does not refer to Great Britain's refusal to participate in the San Francisco Exhibition except by printing a Washington dispatch saying that hardly anybody in America seems to believe the commercial excuses offered by the Board of Trade, some of the other newspapers have editorials on the subject this morning.

The Standard is satisfied to record the Board of Trade's statement and support the decision, on the ground that England must be permitted to decide for itself "whether and how far we can afford to share in the triumph of what, after all, is a gigantic national advertisement."

The Telegraph lectures the American press. "Even newspapers with a character for responsibility to maintain," it says, "have made use of language such as no journal of corresponding status in this country would dream of employing about any other power. The assumption that British refusal was due to ill-will toward the United States over the Panama tolls would not be a surprising suggestion on the part of journals which find advantage in striving to keep alive the embers of old hostility toward Great Britain, but it is bewildering to find it made in quarters usually well informed and sagacious."

BUXTON PRAISES FAIRS.

British Minister, at Ghent Exposition, Says They Make for Peace.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—In view of Great Britain's refusal to participate in the Panama-Pacific Exposition, it is of interest to note that Sydney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, made a speech yesterday at the Ghent Exhibition in which he said:

"These exhibitions are no doubt chiefly carried out with the desire of extending trade and business; but I would say this: It is not for business or trade merely that they should be held. I think these exhibitions carry on a very great work even in themselves. The mere fact of bringing together various representatives of various nations—bringing knowledge, understanding, and appreciation—is in itself a great work from the international point of view. It assists to make them look to good qualities in other nations rather than to their deficiencies, to promote agreement rather than difference. I am sure that national relations between countries are greatly improved by these exhibitions."

BRITISH NAVAL BASE HERE.

Canal Stirs England to Establish a Big One at Bermuda.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Keen interest has been aroused in official circles here by a report reaching the State Department that Great Britain is contemplating establishing a great naval base in the Bermuda Islands. It is stated authoritatively that the British Government has made inquiry concerning the plans of the United States for the protection of the Panama Canal routes, and it has been suggested that this indicates an intention to safeguard British shipping through the Isthmus as is done in the Mediterranean.

Officials realize that the problem raised is a tremendous one, marking perhaps a complete revolution in foreign naval policy in the Western hemisphere. For it is expected that if Great Britain changes her naval policy in American Atlantic waters, other European nations probably will follow suit. While these changes may be expected in the Atlantic waters and the West Indies, officials likewise realize that with the opening of the canal the United States must contend with Japan for the domination of the Pacific.

Apart from its West Indian stations the British Navy maintained stations at Esquimault, British Columbia, and Halifax, N. S. There once was a plan to strengthen greatly the fortifications at Esquimault, overlooking the Strait of Juan de Fuca, in order to make that an important base, but both of these stations now have a merely nominal existence under the Government of the Dominion of Canada, and are little more than recruiting stations for the royal navy. British troops were withdrawn from St. Lucia in the West Indies in 1906, the guns were dismounted from the fortifications, and what once was a great military station became only a commercial coaling place and is not today even a saluting port.

The three light-draught cruisers, the Aeolus, Melpomene, and the Sirius, flying the British colors, have their base at Kingston, Jamaica. They are insignificant as war vessels, corresponding to such American cruisers as the New Orleans and Albany. If Great Britain undertakes to establish herself in Atlantic waters, however, the proposed Bermuda station near Hamilton would occupy a formidable position. The present equipment there is meagre, but the garrison consists of two companies of artillery, a company of engineers, and a battalion of infantry.

By way of looking out for future contingencies at the Pacific terminal of the Panama Canal the British claim ownership of Clipperton Island, probably the finest deep water harbor in that part of the Pacific Ocean.

While Great Britain is thus asserting herself, officials here remember how long Germany looked with wistful eyes at the Danish West Indian Island of St. Thomas, which occupies a strong strategic position in relation to the Panama Canal. American naval strategists have always favored the acquisition by the United States of the Danish possessions, which Germany would have taken over years ago but for American objection. Then there is the Dutch island of Curacao, where the Germans made themselves very much at home during the blockade of the Venezuelan ports by Germany, England, and Italy in 1903. Diplomatists at the State Department, as well as naval strategists, realize that the determination of the future ownership of these islands is one of the important questions confronting the United States.

past and present, and did not examine Mr. Wilson as to the remedies which the envoy had in mind.

Ambassador Wilson left in the White House a written statement giving his plan for bringing about peace in the republic, but as far as known that has not been examined by the President. In fact, a semi-official hint was given last Monday night that President Wilson had such little interest in what his Ambassador had to propose that he had not taken the trouble to read the envoy's statement.

Out of Patience With Envoy.

It is no secret here that President Wilson is entirely at variance with the idea of the Ambassador, that, as a preliminary step to one suggested mode of setling the Mexican troubles, the Huerta Government should be recognized by the United States under certain conditions specified by the Ambassador. Nor has the President shown any patience with the Ambassador's idea of having the United States pacify the Northern States of Mexico or with taking any other section that would have to be accomplished by force of arms.

The President was provoked, also, by the impression made on the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations by Ambassador Wilson's statements when he appeared before that body. It was at the President's instance that a decision of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs to have the Ambassador before it for examination was rescinded.

From all those things, it is apparent to official Washington and observers of the Mexican situation here that Ambassador Wilson has no place in the good books of the Administration.

Knockout for Mediation.

With President Wilson on the point of announcing a new policy toward Mexico, a knockout blow has been given to the suggestion of mediation, according to opinions here to-night, by President Huerta's defiant rejection of all proposals that contemplate interference with the progress of the sanguinary struggle in his country. Huerta's refusal to consider mediation or any of the other suggestions put forward from Washington as made known through Aureliano Urrutia, the Mexican Minister of the Interior, in Mexico City last night, is accepted here as authoritative.

In the understanding of Congressmen and others, the Wilson Administration has been engaged for the last week in endeavoring to bring friendly pressure to bear on Huerta to induce him to step out. Nothing has come to light here to make it appear that the President or any other high ranking officer of the Administration has sent any authorized agent to see Huerta or to communicate with him, but the belief is general that men who have influence with the Mexican President and who have been made aware of the desire of the Washington Government, are seeking to convince him that unless he removes himself from the situation, the United States probably will be forced to adopt a policy of intervention.

Huerta's Stand Seems Final.

But Huerta's announcement through his Minister of the Interior that he will brook no interference, seems to dispose of the hope that he would resign or would receive the suggestion of mediation in a friendly spirit. Coming on top of the announcement by the revolutionary leaders, Carranza, Blanco, and Pesqueira, through the columns of THE TIMES that they would decline the mediatory offices of the United States, the Huerta statement seems to confirm the belief that President Wilson's idea of settling Mexico's troubles through mutual concessions on the part of the Federals and the Constitutionalists, has little chance of success. In spite of this and other discouraging signs, however, there is a hopeful feeling in Administration circles that a forward step toward bringing peace to Mexico will be taken soon, with some chance of achieving its purpose.

Expectation that President Wilson will take important action in the Mexican situation in the next few days is widespread among those with whom the President has conferred over the condition of affairs in Mexico. This understanding is particularly strong among members of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. A broad hint of it is conveyed by several of them who are known to have had interviews with the President recently, but they insist that they are in the dark as to what the President has in mind to propose.

This expectation received greater credence to-day from the fact that Secretary Bryan did not leave Washington to resume his lecture engagements.

President Remains Reticent.

Judging from the cautious expressions of members of Congress, President Wilson is not taking many of them—perhaps not any of them—into his confidence as to what he intends to do.

President Wilson and Secretary Bryan evidently have adopted a new policy in dealing with conditions in Mexico that may be a forerunner of a more general plan. Ground exists for the belief that in several recent cases wherein American citizens have fared badly at the hands of the Huerta forces the Washington Government has taken a direct course in demanding immediate redress. There is reason to believe that, following a precedent established by Philander C. Knox when he was Secretary of State in the case of two Americans sentenced to death in Nicaragua, the Wilson Administration has directed United States Consuls in Mexico to warn commanding officers of Mexican Federal troops that they would be held responsible personally if harm befell American citizens arrested by them.

The revolutionists, in their expressions through THE TIMES, have shown that their chief desire was that the United States would give them the privilege possessed by the Huertistas of importing munitions of war from the United States. This idea is favored by a large number of members of Congress, but it was rejected by President Wilson when it first was proposed to him. The President showed a sympathy, however, with the proposal to stop the shipment of arms to the Huertistas, thus shutting off both sides from getting arms from this country. It is thought likely one or the other of the two propositions will come up in the discussion of the Mexican question in Congress this week, and that the President will agree to whatever action Congress takes.

BRITO FIGHTS FOR LIBERTY.

Mexican Held in New Orleans Obtains a Habeas Corpus Writ.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 3.—An application for a writ of habeas corpus seeking the release of Emmanuel Castillo Brito, Provisional Governor of the Mexican State of Campeche, who is held by Federal authorities here, was signed to-day by Federal Judge Foster. The hearing is set for to-morrow morning.

Brito was arrested on Saturday on advices from the United States Attorney General's office, acting upon a request from the present Government of Mexico. Brito was charged with murder and robbery alleged to have been committed in Mexico.

J. L. Mott, an employe of the Department of Justice, and Earnesto Fernandez y Arteaga, a representative of Gen. Carranza, who were arrested on Friday night charged with attempting to blackmail Brito, remain in the parish prison.

FEDERALS REPORT VICTORIES.

Insurgents Repulsed at San Buena, Ventura, and Santiago.

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 3.—Constitutionalists were defeated by Mexican Government troops in two battles last week, according to an official report made to-day to Gen. Joaquin Tellez, Federal commander at Nueva Laredo.

Gen. Maas reported the routing of 500 State troops, who attacked San Buena Ventura, near Monclova, Friday. Thirty-seven of the attacking party were killed and many wounded.

Earlier in the week, 300 Constitutionalists attacked the village of Santiago, but were driven back to the mountains by the arrival of Gen. Casso Lopez with two columns of troops. Lieut. Moya of the Federals was killed.

DIES IN RAILROAD STATION.

Man Thought to be Robert Mackay Collapses in Central Waiting Room.

A man thought to be Robert Mackay of 137 East 122d Street collapsed in the Van Cortlandt Park station of the New York Central Railroad's Putnam Division yesterday morning and died within a few minutes.

No one could be found at the 122d Street address who recognized the dead man, and the police are making further efforts to identify him.

MAN AND WOMAN DIE TOGETHER IN PARK

Harry G. Elliott Kills Ellen Sibley and Then Turns Gun on Himself.

BOTH SIGN SUICIDE NOTE

John Giering, an employe in Macomb's Dam Park, extending east from the Harlem River, and bordered on the south and north by East 159th and 162d Streets, was making a tour of the grounds yesterday morning about 8 o'clock, when his attention was attracted by the hats of a man and a woman lying on the top of a rocky knoll some 200 feet north of 161st Street, just a short distance from the approach of the Central Bridge. The park employe decided to find the owners of the hats, and he climbed the side of the hill. As he walked around a little clump of bushes near the top of the elevation, he discovered a man and a woman lying on the ground asleep, as he first supposed.

On approaching the couple Giering saw that a revolver was clutched tightly in the right hand of the man, while his mouth and chin were clotted with blood. The front of the woman's dress was stained with blood, as was a corset and a handkerchief placed beneath her head for a pillow. Giering immediately notified Philip Ryan, Superintendent of the park, who returned with him to the top of the knoll, and after viewing the bodies summoned Policeman Harold Kearney of the Highbridge Station.

An ambulance call brought Dr. Cossolo from Fordham Hospital. He examined the bodies and said that the man and woman had been dead for at least seven hours. He found one bullet hole in the right temple of the woman and another over the heart. Either of them, he said, would have caused instant death. In the mouth of the man was a bullet wound penetrating upward. It was the belief of Dr. Cossolo that the man killed the woman and then took his own life.

Wrote a Suicide Note.

The bodies were removed to the Highbridge Station and Coroner Healey was notified. He searched the clothing of the man and woman and found besides some small jewelry a card, bearing the name of Harry G. Elliott, 218 West 148th Street, and a short note. The note was dated Aug. 3, and read:

> To Whom It May Concern:
> This is to certify that both of us have agreed to die together. We have sinned, but we loved each other. Sooner than part, we die together. Our wish is that our bodies will not be separated in death.
> ELLEN SIBLEY.
> HARRY G. ELLIOTT.

The police learned that Elliott and Miss Sibley several weeks ago had lived together as man and wife at the home of Albert Lewis, 218 West 148th Street. With that information they found that the couple had lived more recently with Mr. and Mrs. N. O'Dea at 201 West 146th Street.

According to Mrs. O'Dea, the couple went to her home last Friday a week ago. They were constantly in each other's company and were apparently very happy. On Saturday afternoon, however, when Mrs. O'Dea answered the doorbell, she was confronted by a tall, well-dressed woman, who asked if Harry G. Elliott lived there.

Mrs. O'Dea replied in the affirmative, and added that he lived there with his wife. The visitor then asserted that she was the wife of Elliott and tried to get past Mrs. O'Dea toward a room where were Elliott and his woman companion. Mrs. O'Dea tried to pacify the woman, and pleaded with her not to create a scene. Their words were heard by Elliott, who quickly took in the situation and called out that he would shoot the first person who dared to enter his room. The visitor then yielded to the persuasions of Mrs. O'Dea to depart and explain her case to the police.

Soon after the woman left the house, Miss Sibley appeared at the door of Mrs. O'Dea's room and asked for some ink and a pen. When O'Dea returned home he had a talk with Elliott and told the latter that he could no longer permit him and Miss Sibley to remain there. When Elliott informed O'Dea that he did not have enough money to pay his week's rent O'Dea said that he would not hold the couple for the money due.

Following his talk with O'Dea, Elliott and Miss Sibley packed most of their belongings into a small valise and departed. At the time that they were preparing for their departure the woman calling herself Mrs. Elliott went to the West 152d Street Police Station, where she requested the desk lieutenant to have her husband arrested. She was referred to the Detective Bureau and was told to get a warrant from a magistrate. Later she returned to the home of Mrs. O'Dea and learned that Elliott and Miss Sibley had gone.

She said, according to Mrs. O'Dea, that she had been married to Elliott for about ten years. She further said that Miss Sibley was a relative of hers, who had come to this country about two years ago from Ireland.

S. O. PELL KILLED AS TRAIN HITS AUTO

Roosevelt Pell and Stephen H. P. Pell.

William Laimbeer is the son of a former Dock Commissioner of New York City. He married Miss Clara Bloodgood, the actress, in the Spring of 1902, and five years later she committed suicide in a Baltimore hotel. On Oct. 30, 1909, he married Mrs. Nathalie Schenck Collins at the Hotel Savoy. As Nathalie Schenck Mrs. Laimbeer was a social beauty and moved only in the most fashionable circles. She married Capt. Charles Glen Collins of the British Army and obtained a divorce from him in 1907. Mr. Laimbeer was well known in New York society and a prominent clubman. He was graduated from Harvard in 1896.

CHILD KILLED BY AUTO.

Swerving to Avoid Dog, Chauffeur Drives Into Fence—Two Hurt.

One child was killed and five other persons were injured in auto accidents in and about New York yesterday.

While Mr. and Mrs. William Hensler of Cedarhurst were motoring along Broadway in Woodmere, L. I., in the afternoon they stopped near Irving Place to pay a call, leaving their 8-year-old daughter Edith sitting in the tonneau. They had not been gone long when the child saw a girl chum from Far Rockaway sitting in another car across the street, and out she got to run across for a few moments' talk.

From in front of her father's car she darted directly into the path of a passing automobile, and it struck her with such force that her neck was broken. She was dead when they picked her up.

The driver of this machine was Louis Schulz of 379 East 146th Street, the Bronx. He came to a stop as soon as he could and surrendered himself to the authorities. Justice Neu in Lynbrook held him without bail until the inquest, which is set for to-morrow.

Swerving to prevent his running down a little dog, John Wilson, a chauffeur, of Kingston, N. Y., drove an automobile in which he was riding with Annie Brunning, 41 years old, of 2,085 Thebaud Avenue, the Bronx, into an iron fence in Park Avenue, near 179th Street, early last evening and completely wrecked the machine. Both he and his companion were hurled from the machine and suffered injuries which necessitated their being taken to Fordham Hospital. The dog escaped without a scratch.

The auto was headed up Park Avenue, and at 178th Street the dog scampered out in front of it, barking and keeping just about a foot ahead of the front wheels. Wilson thought the animal would be killed if he went straight ahead, and he steered the machine a little toward the curb. The dog still kept in front, and Wilson swerved back to the centre of the road and, still unable to dodge the persistent animal, turned toward the curb again. The dog got out of the way this time, but the machine was going too fast, and before Wilson could straighten it out again it ran up on the sidewalk and crashed into an iron fence.

The impact crumpled the front of the machine, and the two occupants were hurled out. The woman landed on the other side of the fence in an open lot, but Wilson struck the fence and one of the iron paling tore an ugly gash in his side.

Policeman Behr of the Tremont Station saw the accident, and immediately summoned an ambulance from Fordahm Hospital. Dr. Colazzo responded to the call, and found the woman suffering from contusions of the body and lacerations of the right leg. Wilson had lost much blood from the wound in his side, and both were taken to the hospital. After being treated they were allowed to go home.

Peter J. Schellenberg, a chauffeur of 261 Burnside Avenue, the Bronx, was driving an automobile in which was the owner, Henry G. Rouss of 12 East Forty-seventh Street, and Elmer Thomason, who gave his address as Seventh Avenue and 116th Street, over the Queensboro Bridge yesterday afternoon, when the front axle of the machine broke on the Long Island side of the bridge.

The car crumpled up and the three men were thrown out. The chauffeur escaped injury, but Mr. Rouss received contusions of the back and shoulders, and Thomason had lacerated fingers. They were taken in another automobile to St. John's Hospital, Long Island City.

John Pachers of 118 North Eighth Street, Williamsburg, while riding on a bicycle yesterday afternoon, was struck by an automobile at Bedford Avenue and Clymer Street and hurled several yards to the sidewalk. The automobile, driven by its owner, William Kabus of 115 Third Avenue, Manhattan, stopped, and Kabus hurried the young man to the Eastern District Hospital, where it was found he had a concussion of the brain and internal injuries.

The man who was run over and killed by an auto truck on Saturday night at Ninth Avenue and Twenty-third Street was identified yesterday as Frederick C. Walker of 473 West Twenty-second Street. Mr. Walker was 52 years old and was a salesman. His body was identified at the Morgue by his sister, Belle Maude Walker of 40 Gramercy Park.

The driver of the truck, David Hochberg of 663 Tinton Avenue, the Bronx, was released in the custody of his counsel by Coroner Hellenstein.

ISADORA DUNCAN'S ESCAPE.

Her Automobile in Collision, but She Dances Just the Same.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Isadora Duncan, whose two children were recently drowned in an automobile which plunged into the Seine, herself had a narrow escape in a motor-car accident this evening.

Miss Duncan, who had previously renounced the stage, returned to France recently from Greece. This morning, in an automobile, she accompanied her brother Raymond from Chambéry, where she is staying, on his way to Orange, with the intention of giving a performance in the Theatre Antique this evening.

The journey was delayed by punctures, and night had fallen when, while approaching a village near Orange, the car ran into the bar at a grade crossing. Fortunately, it was not traveling fast, and the Duncans were not injured. The chauffeur was able to repair the damaged bonnet of the car, and the party arrived at Orange at 11 o'clock. Miss Duncan immediately went to the theatre and took part in the last act of "Andromaque."

RECORDS BEATEN AT POLICE GAMES

McDonald and McGrath Put the Shot and Hammer Further Than Ever Before.

ERICKSON JUMPS WELL

But Fails to Attain His Championship Figure — One Anchor Man Faints in Tug-of-War Contest.

The members of the Police Traffic Squad's Benevolent Association and their friends saw some athletic feats that will go down in the annals of the Amateur Athletic Union at the fifth annual outing of the association, held yesterday at Witzel's Grove at College Point. Patrick McDonald, the traffic policeman on duty in Times Square, put the 16-pound shot 53 feet, which is further than it was ever hurled before. "Matt" McGrath threw the 16-pound hammer 190 feet and 10 inches, exceeding the world's record, and Egon Erickson leaped 6 feet 5 inches in the high jump. The world's record for the shot is 51 feet, for the hammer 187 feet and 4 inches, and for the high jump 6 feet and 7 inches.

The feats accomplished by these policemen will not establish new records because they were performed in an athletic exhibition and not in a regular competition. McDonald and McGrath are Olympic champions, and Erickson won the American high jumping championship at Seattle three years ago. An aspect of yesterday's feats which makes them all the more remarkable is the fact that the policemen are prevented by their work from taking regular periods of training for the competitions in which they engage.

The members of the Traffic Squad and their friends, some 2,500 persons, embarked at the foot of West Twenty-third Street early yesterday morning for the trip to the grove. On the way there those not given to athletics talked with the women members of the party or played cards, while those who were going to show their skill in the field sports limbered up their muscles. It is a fact of which the Police Department is proud, that no similar organization in the world can boast such athletes as are in the ranks of the New York force.

Deputy Commissioners Donald I. McKay, George S. Dougherty and James E. Dillon were among the judges of the events which were held under the rules of the Athletic Union.

Nothing showed better the fine sportsmanship of the men than the spirit in which they took the decision in the tug of war which resulted in a tie. Teams of six men from B and C Squads had each won a tug, the final try resulting in a tie. Adolph Brune, the anchor man for C's team, fainted after the final test, and the Department physicians refused to countenance his further competition. Although under the rules B Squad would have been justified in claiming the trophies, the members of the team called it a draw, and the prizes, gold watches, will be awarded by having each man of the two teams, from the anchor man to No. 1, draw for a watch.

John W. Kelly won the 100-yard championship of the Traffic Squad for the third time, and became the owner of the Page Cup. The F. Augustus Schermerhorn trophy for men of the department scaling over 200 pounds was taken by P. Gannon of Squad C, who beat a team-mate, William Mead. There were sprinting races for men of various degrees of service and weights, and prizes were distributed lavishly.

One of the amusing events was the shoe race. In this event the shoes of the contestants, there were twenty, were piled up at the end of the course, each man to find his shoes, properly adjust them, and race back to the starting post. After the mad rush to the shoe pile there was a cannonade of footwear in all directions, as the men who failed to find their own made sure that their opponents should have difficulty in finding their shoes. One man hunted half an hour for one of his shoes, some one having thrown it into the bushes bordering the grounds.

The sports were under the immediate supervision of Patrick F. Crane, President of the association; Thomas McLaughlin, David McCarthy, Michael Tierney, Arthur Rossner, John J. Daly, Michael B. Snyder, and Richard Sheridan, who was the field referee.

Woman Hurt by Fall from a Horse.

A young woman who said she was Miss Sadie Amsterdam, and that she lived in the Hotel Ansonia, in this city, was injured yesterday while horseback riding in Mott Avenue, near White Street, in Far Rockaway. She fell, suffering concussion of the brain. She was taken to the hospital in Far Rockaway.

NO SPECIAL NEED FOR CROP FUNDS

Illuminating Responses from Banks West and South to Inquiries About Credit.

TILLMAN'S "CRISIS" A MYTH

UNUSUAL AID UNNECESSARY

A Few Southern Bankers Receptive to McAdoo's Offer—Emphasis on "Legitimate Demands."

THE NEW YORK TIMES ANNALIST prints to-day the replies received from country bankers in the South and West to the following questions:

Is there a money crisis in the South, as Senator Tillman asserts?

Are banks withholding necessary credit, as Secretary McAdoo asserts?

Do you need special or unusual assistance to move crops?

What is the situation?

The replies were as follows:

FROM THE SOUTH.

Knows of No Money Crisis.

RICHMOND, Va., Aug. 2.—We do not believe the New York banks are withholding credit to the banks in the South, but are extending to them as large a credit as they have for some years past at reasonable rates. We look for no money crisis in the South. Credits have been curtailed to some extent, as elsewhere. Many small banks in the South have had to borraw unusually large amounts this year on account of the poor crops in their section last season, necessitating their having to carry over their farmer customers and, besdes, to finance them this year. Crop conditions are good. Tobacco is being brought to market now and bringing very high prices. Our information is that this year's crops are being economically raised, and if the cotton crop turns out as now expected the South should be in good shape. This city has to ship each year a large amount of currency to the States south of us to assist in marketing the crops.

MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK.

No Trouble in Getting Money.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 2.—Banks here are borrowing money as usual at this season. Have had no trouble in obtaining money from New York banks, hence no money crisis in this section. We heartily indorse Secretary McAdoo's offer of assistance, which may be needed to some extent before the crops are marketed.

ATLANTA NATIONAL BANK.

Approves McAdoo.

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 2.—There is an urgent demand for and scarcity of money in this section. The banks are meeting this demand to the best of their ability, and there has been no disposition to withhold credit to regular customers whose business and responsibility warrant it. Speaking for this bank, our Eastern correspondents have willingly and liberally extended us accommodations. I believe special assistance to Southern banks for crop moving purposes is necessary, and I heartily indorse Secretary McAdoo's position.

R. G. VAUGHAN,
President American Exchange National Bank.

Money Tight in Columbia.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 2.—Would not go so far as to say there is a financial crisis in the South, but there is a great tightness of money. The movement and marketing of the cotton crop, which will begin next month, will entail heavy demands upon the banks of this section, and the outlook now causes some apprehension that the banks will not be able to meet these demands promptly enough to avert losses. It is our judgment that assistance is needed, and that the action of Secretary McAdoo in offering to make deposits of certain funds of the Government, if carried into effect, will greatly relieve the situation.

NATIONAL LOAN AND EXCHANGE BANK.

Meridian Getting Rich.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 2.—South is fast getting rich and accumulating capital of its own. Crops fine; everybody busy. We have had no occasion to borrow funds in the East to move the crops for many years.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Creating Hurtful Distrust.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 2.—No money crisis in Memphis territory. Credits restricted because supply of money is meagre compared with expanded trade conditions. Eastern banks have liberally responded to all legitimate or proper requests. Banks borrowing in large volume and earlier than last year. Large sums are required to move large crops at high prices, but deserving banks are assured of such aid as conditions justify. The public dickering is creating hurtful distrust.

T. O. VINTON,
President Bank of Commerce and Trust Company.

Sol Wexler's Explanation.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 2.—There is no money crisis in this section. Money is tight and none is available except for regular customers of banks for legitimate business purposes. Movement of crops requires vast sums of money for payrolls to cotton pickers, cane cutters, and rice and corn harvesters, which is always slow to return. For this purpose there is danger of inadequate supply. Money centres, as far as we know, are accommodating their regular customers as usual, but many strong and solvent firms, the requirements of which are more than their bank balances justify and who therefore sold their paper through note brokers in New York and Chicago, find this avenue closed because banks everywhere are endeavoring to strengthen themselves for their heavy needs this Fall. This is causing such firms to depend upon their local banks for greater accommodation than usual, which demand local banks here are meeting to the best of their ability. The action of the Secretary of the Treasury in depositing funds now lying idle, buried in the bowels of the earth, is, in my opinion, a wise move which will go far toward allaying fears of difficulty in moving crops and which will enable banks to render assistance to firms who are unable to sell their commercial paper under present conditions.

SOL WEXLER,
Vice President Whitney Central National Bank.

No Complaint in Dallas.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 2.—No evidence in this section of money crisis. Restricted market for commercial paper is causing some concern to jobbing interests, but local banks are responding to all legitimate demands upon the part of their customers. Eastern banks manifest a disposition to assist in movement of cotton corp, which promises excellent yield, and the marketing of which will begin within thirty days.

THE CITY NATIONAL BANK.

Austin Has Eastern Credit.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 2.—No crisis, but money very tight. Banks not withholding credit. Eastern banks offer us whatever we may need. Need no unusual assistance to move crops.

AUSTIN NATIONAL BANK.

Houston Sees No Crisis.

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 2.—Crops splendid, and fundamental conditions in Texas sound and prosperous. Money unusually close in Texas, more so than usual this year, accountable to universal conservatism of banks the country over on account of change of Government, delay in impending tariff changes, and currency laws. European and Mexican situation and general unsettlement make some curtailment of credit wise and necessary at this time, but legitimate borrowers are being provided for. No crisis here, present or prospective, and with the movement of the crops money conditions should become materially easier in this State within next sixty or ninety days.

B. D. HARRIS.
Vice President South Texas Commercial National Bank.

Little Rock Has Enough.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. Aug. 2.—We think there is no crisis in the South. Banks here supplying necessary credit to legitimate business. Our Eastern correspondents are not withholding credit, but advise us that they can supply our needs. Prospects are for larger crops, and money rates being high will probably cause some crop moving borrowers uneasiness, but this feeling is not general. We need no special assistance, but if the Secretary's proposition is a business one banks might avail themselves of it.

THE EXCHANGE NATIONAL BANK.

Normal in Oklahoma City.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 2.—No money crisis in the South. Banks are loaning freely to regular customers. Eastern banks are caring for our demands as usual. We need no special assistance to move crops. Money situation normal for this season of year. No reason for Senator Tillman's statements.

FARMERS NATIONNAL BANK.

FROM THE WEST.

Indianapolis Needs No Aid.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 2.—Speaking for this bank, we do not need special or unusual assistance. Are not withholding credit from country banks, nor from business customers. Have not applied for any credit in the East. Very heavy demand for money from millers, grain merchants and other general business. Have a large wheat crop to move.

F. D. STALNAKER,
President Indiana National Bank.

Conditions in Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 2.—Country banks in this section have comparatively small business with New York. Business conditions, generally speaking, are as healthful as last year, and the larger difficulty, if there be any, in financing the crop movement must be largely explained by conservative tendencies engendered by Administration policies. A probable difficulty this year may also lie in tying up more money through farmers and elevators holding short crops for advanced prices. In case the Secretary intends using Treasury funds to ease the movement, the most direct and rational method would be, as suggested, in placing them in the large Western and Southern centres rather than New York. Such help as New York has ever rendered in crop-moving seasons has largely been by returning to the country its own deposits.

L. M. TOBIN.

Des Moines Needs Nothing.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 2.—Iowa will not need unusual and probably no assistance in moving crops. We know nothing about banks withholding credit, and don't believe there is any just foundation for such a statament.

J. G. ROUNDS.
President Citizens' National Bank.

Cautious, but Comfortable.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Aug. 2.—Do not anticipate crop movement needs will be more than usual. Banks throughout this section, while advising caution, are not withholding needed credit from business. We do not know of any case where New York banks have declined extension of customary credit. We have not asked for any. Generally speaking, banks are exercising caution, awaiting developments.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

Healthy Conditions in Wisconsin.

WAUKESHA, Wis., Aug. 1.—Financial conditions here good, with healthy demand for money, and banks not withholding credit. McAdoo statement is reported not warranted on conditions here. Wisconsin banks practically unanimous against Currency bill as reported.

E. R. ESTERBERG,
Waukesha National Bank.

Normal Basis in Minneapolis.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 2.—If conditions and influences outside of our territory do not materially change from what they are at present I see no reason why we should require more than the usual assistance in moving the crops, which are about normal. There is absolutely not the slightest evidence of banks withholding credit from business houses which are entitled to it, nor have we had the slightest intimation that the East does not intend to grant the same liberal credit as usual, of course, in accordance with their fairness.

E. W. DREKER,
President Northwestern National Bank.

St. Paul in a Strong Position.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 2.—We regard Western banks as in exceptionally strong position to facilitate crop moving. Banks continue to care for customers' legitimate business needs. No indications here that Eastern banks are disposed to withhold usual credit accommodations to Western clients. We believe banks in financial centres are endeavoring to provide in usual course for prompt movement of crops to market.

E. H. BAILEY,
President First National Bank.

Money Easy at Fargo.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 2.—Money is very easy with us, and we are buying commercial paper at this time, and will need no assistance during crop movement time. We have no reason to believe that Eastern banks are refusing credit where it is required for legitimate purposes. Crop and money situation very satisfactory in this locality.

E. J. WEISER,
President First National Bank.

South Dakota Won't Borrow.

SIOUX FALL, S. D., Aug. 2.—Banks of this State need no special assistance this year to move crops, and are not withholding credit from legitimate business. We have no means of knowing whether the East is withholding credit from this section, because we are not borrowers, and are of the opinion that few banks or individuals from this section are borrowers in the East.

W. E. STEVENS,
President State Bank and Trust Company.

Nebraska's Needs Ordinary.

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 2.—Only the ordinary and usual funds required in the West for crop moving this year. Local bankers seem able and willing to grant the necessary credits. We can see no evidence of the withholding of credit in our section on the part of Eastern institutions. Certainly the possibility of impractical financial legislation suggests, in the interests of safety to depositors, shorter maturities, so banks may more readily adjust themselves to any changes. The mercantile world should, and undoubtedly does, expect to bear a large share in the damage resulting from legislation which would compel curtailment of credits.

W. H. BUCHOLZ,
Vice President Omaha National Bank.

No Strain at Lincoln.

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 1.—Do not anticipate need of any unusual assistance in this section. All legitimate needs of business being met. There has been no evidence that East would withhold credit from this section if needed. There is no monetary strain here, reserves being in good shape and local situations very satisfactory.

P. R. EASTERDAY,
Cashier First National Bank.

Kansas Well Taken Care Of.

ATCHISON, Kan., Aug. 2.—Chicago and New York have taken care of all demands made to date.

O. A. SIMMONS,
Vice President First National Bank.

Suggestion from Springfield, Mo.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 2.—We know of no withholding of credit from the West by Eastern banks. The best thing that could now happen for every section is to immediately pass Currency and Tariff bills, then forget them, and the next twelve months will be the best ever.

MERCHANTS' NATIONAL BANK.

What Every Banker Knows.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 1.—Do not think this section will need any unusual assistance to move crop. Banks in strong position and taking care of the needs of their customers. Wheat moving freely and deposits of banks increasing. Many country banks buying commercial paper in open market. No need for this section to call on the East at this time. Demand for crop moving and cattle feeding does not develop until Autumn. Basic conditions sound; trouble is lack of confidence, due largely to distrust of Governmental and legislative activity and trend of policies affecting business. The charge that New York banks are withholding credit is too childish and silly to merit serious attention. Every banker knows from past experience that the only place where it is possible to obtain assistance in time of stress is New York.

GRAHAM G. LACY,
Vice President Tootle-Lemon National Bank.

Kansas City About as Usual.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 1.—No more assistance than usual will be needed to move this year's crops in the Middle West. We are supplying funds as in former years for this purpose. We have received no notice from the East that we could not get assistance if needed. Do not anticipate we will need credit this year more than others; conditions nearly normal, except for drought and doubt as to effect of pending legislation.

SOUTHWEST NATIONAL BANK OF COMMERCE.

Oklahoma Quite Safe.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 1.—Demand for crop moving this season quite normal. Credit applied for has been granted, with reasonable assurance for taking care of further demands. This section presents no possible condition that will cause disturbance.

N. HOLMAN,
President Guthrie Bank.

Arizona Unworried.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 2.—We feel confident of our ability to obtain financial assistance from our Eastern correspondents to protect any special or unusual needs, which, however, we have not experienced up to date, and do not anticipate.

PHOENIX NATIONAL BANK.

But for Politicians.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 2.—No unusual needs up to date and none likely, unless caused by politicians. We could not be better served than we are now by our New York and Chicago correspondents.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.

California Discourages Speculation

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—We are granting all requests for credit from country institutions for crop-moving purposes, and are also granting credits for all legitimate business. We are discouraging speculation of all kinds. We have not heard of any instances where Eastern banks have declined to advance the usual credits to banks in this section.

FRANK B. ANDERSON,
President The Bank of California.

It will be remarked that emphasis is laid upon the availability of credit for all "proper" and "legitimate" purposes. There seems to be a general inclination to discourage speculation.

TRADE EXPANDING; ALL LINES ACTIVE

Widespread Growth Shown by Official Reports for Fiscal Year Ended June 30.

FOREIGN TRADE GREATER

Notable Improvement Over 1912—Domestic Commerce Accelerated Also—Railway Receipts Pick Up.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Industrial and commercial activities in the United States at the close of the fiscal year 1913 are indicated by the latest figures of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, which show imports of manufacturers' materials, exports of manufactures and agricultural products, movements of manufacturers' materials within the United States, activities of transporting agencies, and the supply and distribution of currency at the latest available dates. In practically all of these the figures of the fiscal year 1913 exceed those of the former high record year, 1912.

Imports of raw materials for use in the manufacturing industries exceed those of 1912 by $77,000,000, and imports of manufactures for further use in manufacturing exceed those of last year by $55,000,000, while exports of the products of the factories exceed those of 1912 by $167,000,000. Cotton, silk, fibres, tobacco, hides, lumber, copper, pig iron, and chemicals used in manufacturing all show increases in the quantity imported in 1913, compared with 1912; while in the other principal manufacturers' materials, such as wool, rubber, tin, and iron ore, the figures of 1913 differ but little from those of 1912. The total value of all imports for the year was $1,812,978,234, against $1,653,264,934 in 1912, and of exports $2,465,884,149, against $2,204,322,409 in 1912.

These increases in the inward movements of manufacturers' materials in 1913, when compared with the former high record year, 1912, seem to indicate a general activity in the industrial interests, and this view is supported by figures relating to domestic movements of manufacturers' materials. The eastward movements of iron ore through the Soo Canal, from the opening of navigation on the lakes to July 1, 1913, as shown by the monthly reports of the general Superintendent of the canal, aggregated 15,250,000 tons, against 13,000,000 in the same period of 1912 and 8,250,000 in the like period of 1911. The wheat movements through the canal were 53,500,000 bushels, against 47,500,000 in the same period of last year; other grain, 33,000,000 bushels, against 18,500,000; flour, 2,500,000 barrels, against 2,000,000, and all freights, 18,250,000 short tons, against 15,333,000 in the same period of last year, while westbound freights through the canal were 7,000,000 tons, against 4,500,000 in the same period of last year.

In numerous other lines of transportation and in the great manufacturing industries for which recent figures are available, the indications of activity are equally apparent. Many of the great railway systems of the country show in their May statements larger gross receipts than in the corresponding period of last year. The net surplus of idle freight cars in the United States and Canada on June 30, 1913, was reported by the American Railway Association as 63,704, against 67,718 at the corresponding date last year. Anthracite coal shipments in the first half of 1913 were 34,852,000 tons against 26,097,000 tons in the first half of 1912. Lake Superior iron ore shipments in the first half of 1913 are reported as over sixteen million tons, against thirteen and one-half million in the same period of last year, and the production of pig iron in the six months ended with June, 1913, is reported at sixteen and one-third million tons against about fourteen millions in the corresponding six months of last year.

The unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation on June 30, 1913, are reported by that organization as 5,807,317 tons against 5,807,346 at the same date of 1912, and 3,316,058 at the corresponding date of 1911. The exports of iron and steel manufactures in the fiscal year 1913 approximated three hundred and four and one-half million dollars, against $268,000,000 in 1912, and the total exports of manufactures, other than foodstuffs are one thousand one hundred and eighty-seven million dollars against one thousand and twenty million in 1912. The copper production in the first six months of 1913 is reported at 800,194,000 pounds against 735,586,000 pounds in the same period of 1912, and the exports of copper and manufactures thereof (exclusive of ore) approximate one hundred and forty million dollars in the fiscal year 1913, against one hundred and fourteen millions in 1912.

Turning to the financial side, the individual deposits in national banks are reported at $5,953,000,000 on June 4, 1913, against $5,825,000,000 on June 14, 1912; their loans and discounts, $6,143,000,000 against $5,954,000,000 on June 14, 1912; while the total money in circulation in the United States on July 1, 1913, is reported by the Treasury Department at $3,371,326,000 gainst $3,276,787,000 on July 1, 1912.

FIND MACCRACKEN'S BODY.

Family and Friends Searched for Three Days Following Drowning.

The body of George Gere MacCracken, second son of Chancellor Emeritus Henry M. McCracken of New York University, was recovered from the waters off Glen Cove yesterday, after a search carried on by members of his family and by friends for three days. The body was taken to Tarrytown, where Mr. MacCracken had a Summer home.

With his wife Mr. MacCracken left Tarrytown on Friday for a cruise in his power boat, the Mimi. They were overtaken by a violent storm, and finding it impossible to make headway through the wind and blinding rain, Mr. MacCracken put in toward Hempstead Harbor, and sought shelter there.

He had just dropped anchor off Glen Head, and was returning to the cabin, when in the heavy rain he missed his footing, slipped, and pitched overboard. In falling, he struck his head against the side of the boat. The blow rendered him unconscious, and made him unable to make any effort to reach a lifebuoy which Mrs. MacCracken, who had seen him fall, immediately threw into the water to him.

SULZER TO TELL ALL, HIS ADVISERS SAY

Report That Campaign Treasurer Will Lay Bare Fund to Frawley Committee.

CARMODY SHARP TO SULZER

Doesn't Relish Having to Pass Officially on Questions Already Decided by Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 3.—Gov. Sulzer's advisers say that a member of his Campaign Committee, who had charge of the money expended in his behalf prior to the election last year, will explain to the Frawley Committee at the proper time the failure to file with the Secretary of State information concerning the Schiff check for $2,500 and the Elkus contribution of $500. It is believed that the Governor's defense will be, despite the language of the statute, that there is no law requiring him as a candidate to account for money received by him, but only that he was prohibited from expending more than $10,000.

His friends now admit that he made a mistake in certifying to any amount of receipts and expenditure, and that he should have left that to the Campaign Committee, which had charge of the matter. Lawyers who have been advising him declare that as a candidate he was not required to account for money contributed to him.

That the official relations between Gov. Sulzer and Attorney General Carmody are not congenial is shown in the letter of Mr. Carmody which accompanied his opinion in answer to the questions propounded by the Governor as to the legal existence of the extraordinary session of the Legislature, and as to the legality of the Frawley committee's investigation of the Sulzer campaign fund. In the Governor. The letter follows:

Attorney General's Office,
Albany, Aug. 2, 1913.

Hon. William Sulzer, Executive Chamber,
Albany, N. Y.:

My Dear Governor: On July 29 I had the honor to receive from you two separate communications requesting my opinions in writing as to the present status of the extraordinary term of the Legislature and as to the powers of the Legislative Investigating Committee. Previous to the receipt of these communications I had noticed in the public prints statements to the effect that you had determined to your own satisfaction that the legislative session had in effect been abandoned, and that the Investigating Committee had not power to make inquiry as to the collection and distribution of campaign funds by candidates. I had also called to my attention an extensive opinion by your counsel touching upon both of these subjects, but principally upon the powers of the Investigating Committee.

In view of this public statement as to your position in the matter, the inquiries made to me seemed somewhat unusual, and I have given some consideration as to the propriety of my acting in the matter under these conditions. The Attorney Generals of the State have acted as legal advisors to the Governors for many years, and have furnished them their opinions as to legal questions submitted. This was, of course, to aid them in the solution of questitons where propositions of a legal nature were involved concerning which they were in doubt.

I am not entirely clear as to why my opinions should be asked for in this instance, after the Governor himself has taken a position in the matter. It is not consistent with the dignity of this office that my opinion should be sought for merely to obtain information as to my views. The time of myself and deputies should not be devoted to consideration of questions merely academic, and thus our attention diverted from discharge of practical duties imposed upon us by law. I am and always have been willing at all times to state my views upon legal questions if thereby I can assist you in the discharge of your important duties. It is in the belief that, notwithstanding your public utterances on these subjects, you are not entirely clear as to the legal questions involved, and have therefore requested my opinions. For these reasons I herewith submit them for your consideration.

Hoping they may be of assistance to you in determining your future action concerning the subjects involved, I am, very truly yours,

THOMAS CARMODY,
Attorney General.

FIRE DEATH LIST MYSTERY.

31 Bodies Buried at Binghamton; Only 29 Employes Perished.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 3.—A mystery surrounds the number of victims of the Binghamton Clothing Company fire. From the recovered payroll it is known that twenty-nine employes lost their lives, no more. There have been thirty-one bodies buried, and the undertaker in charge declares that each casket contained a pelvis.

The forewomen are positive there were no visitors in the factory when the fire started. It is their belief and the theory of officials that when the alarm was given and one of the girls was carried fainting from the stairs two strangers, possibly traveling men on their way to the post office, ran up the stairs to assist the girls and lost their lives. No missing persons are reported in Binghamton.

ASKS FAIRNESS FOR ROADS.

Kruttschnitt Says They Are Crippled by Laws and Labor.

Julius Kruttschnitt, Chairman of the Southern Pacific, writing on "The Railway as a Public Servant" in the forthcoming issue of Leslie's Weekly, makes a plea for its better treatment by its master, the public.

"It is evident," he says, "that if the public is to get satisfactory results from its servant, the railway, it must take care that it be so treated that it will be kept in vigorous health. The railway cannot maintain vigorous health if it is not allowed sufficent earnings to sustain it in good physical and financial condition, or if burdens are imposed on it which are too heavy for it to bear.

"The immediate determination of what earnings it shall be permitted to receive and what burdens it shall have put on it is in the hands of the other servants of the public mentioned, chiefly the commissions and Legislatures. It the railway is guilty of acts of omission or commission which are inconsistent with its public duty, these other servants of the public should adequately restrain and punish it. But when the railway is doing its best to perform its duty it is obviously contrary to the interest of the public for it to be subjected to unnecessary restraints and penalties."

Mr. Kruttschnitt discusses the wage increases in the last few years, largely enforced by arbitration under the Erdman act; legislative requirement of more men to a train, changes in equipment required by law, involving the abandonment of others in use; laws limiting the hours of service and requirements "in the nominal or real interest of safety." Of the "full crew" legislation he says:

"The Legislatures have, in effect, robbed the railways and given the spoil to unnecessary employes in order that the members of the Legislatures might get the votes of railway labor. In allowing one servant to be thus robbed of the fruits of his thrift by a fellow-servant, has not the master been clearly at fault? Has he not disregarded not only the rights of the servant who has been robbed, but his own interest?"

Of laws requiring different headlights in place of those in use he says:

"The railways using these efficient and expensive devices were forced to discard them and incur heavy additional outlay for specialties promoted by inventors and private corporations whose claims were strongly advocated by lobbies of promoters and labor representatives whose disinterestedness had not always been above suspicion."

The railway, Mr. Kruttschnitt concludes, "cannot render the service its master expects and demands without sufficient means. There is not a railway manager in the country to-day who is not fearful that under the press of increasing demands the transportation system of the country will in a few years break down unless the railways are allowed to earn larger funds wherewith to build it up. They must have more double tracks, terminals and yards; new and larger stations; they must eliminate grade crossings and make other improvements, to handle the increasing density of traffic resulting from the growth of population and wealth.

"There are vast sections of the country, especially in the West, where more railroads are needed, and they cannot be built unless the railways can raise new capital. Now, there never was such a world-wide demand for capital as there is at this time. And what are the facts as to the ability of the railways of the United States to get capital? There never was a time when railroad investments were more unattractive. The interest rates that the railways must pay are very high and they are steadily increasing.

"It was justifiable and necessary that the public should assert itself to stop the abuses. But it is not necessary in order to stop misconduct on the part of railway managements to destroy the efficiency of the railways and sap their financial strength. The public should understand that in exercising the power it cannot shirk the responsibility of the master. The welfare and health and strength of the servant must be conserved if he is to render the service which the master expects and needs."

BARNES CHARGES WASTE.

Expenditures by Democratic Legislature Analyzed by Republican Leader.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 3.—William Barnes, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, in a statement relative to the warring factions of the Democrats takes up the matter of increases in the annual payrolls in State departments.

"It must not be forgotten that although now the Democratic Legislature and the Governor are at swords' points they did unite for the passage of unnecessary and expensive legislation," says Mr. Barnes. "Take the Bureau of Efficiency and Economy, which so far as any one knows has accomplished nothing and has an appropriation of $274,990. Other new commissions have been created this year, at an expense of more than $700,000, although Gov. Sulzer, in his annual message, advocated consolidation and abolishment of useless commissions.

"Two hundred and thirty-one new places have been created by statute, exempt from the civil service, with an annual payroll of $443,780; $25,000 has been voted, for example, to investigate the question of giving free textbooks to school children, whereas it is purely a matter of public policy whether it shall be done or not, and required no investigation

"In his first annual message Gov. Sulzer advocated reduction in the expenditures of the State, and appointed a committee of inquiry into the State's expenditures, which outlined specific reductions. The Legislature promptly passed bills increasing the expenditures of the last year about $7,000,000, and the Governor signed enough of them to increase the expenditures of the State more than $3,000,000.

"The attempt to rob the sinking fund of the State in order to prevent a direct tax was ignorantly advocated by the committee of inquiry and seized upon by Gov. Sulzer as a delicious scheme to save expenditure by repudiating contract obligations made by the State. This proposition was finally abandoned by the Governor when he came to realize that the proposal was unconstitutional and that the faith and credit of the State were being impaired by the proposed ruinous financial policy."

His cry for help was heard by Andrew Bingtson, 16 years old, of 113 Amsterdam Avenue. Stopping only long enough to remove his coat and kick off his shoes, Bingtson plunged in and swam to the spot where the boy was sinking for the second time. He had to contend against a strong tide, and when he reached Milton the drowning boy struggled so violently that Bingston was forced to strike him a hard blow on the chin. But he did not hit hard enough and both sank.

Coming up again, Bingston struck the lad a harder blow, rendering him unconscious this time, and brought his limp form safely to shore. Other boys pitched in to revive Milton, and were just succeeding beautifully when Patrolman Douglas of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station happened along.

At sight of the bluecoat, the boy's rescuer took to his heels, knowing that it was forbidden to go in swimming at that point and fearing the consequences. When he reached home, he said, in answer to his father's questions regarding his dripping clothes, that he had just "pulled a poor little bit of a dog out of the river."

But Bington's boy friends told Policeman Douglas, who had rescued the little boy, and instead of being punished for going in swimming to effect the rescue, as he had apparently feared, he received congratulations on all sides.

James Smith, 65 years old, a laborer, of 125 Bowery, was sunning himself on the stringpiece of the pier off Catherine Slip yesterday afternoon when he fell asleep and toppled into the river. More than 200 persons who saw Smith's sleeping dive shouted for help and attracted the attention of Patrolman McElliott of the Oak Street Police Station.

Smith had gone down twice and was fast being swept out into the river by the strong tide when, without even stopping to take off his cap, let alone shed his coat, Patrolman McElliott dived after the drowning man, and, clutching his clothing, hauled him to the surface. Persons on the pier than manned a rowboat and put out to where, fifty yards from the pier, the two were struggling. Both were hauled into the boat and brought safely to shore.

When Dr. Robinson arrived from Gouverneur Hospital in response to an ambulance call, Smith insisted that he wanted no medical attention and went home. McElliott reported sick at his station and also went home.

While watching a number of boys swimming in the river off the foot of East Forty-ninth Street yesterday afternoon, Thomas Quirk, 4 years old, of 306 East Forty-ninth Street, lost his balance and toppled into the water, the strong tide carrying him swiftly away from shore. Edward O'Brien of 501 East Fifty-fifth Street dived after him. With the frightened child struggling in his arms O'Brien tried to buck the tide and swim back to shore, but could make no headway. Thomas McDonald of 306 East Forty-ninth Street, who is employed as a watchman by the Dock Department, saw O'Brien's plight and swam to his rescue. Between them they suceeded in bringing the boy safely ashore. McDonald's help was timely, as O'Brien was nearly exhausted from his struggles against the swift tide.

Bertha Goldberg of 308 East Fifth Street, Manhattan, ventured out beyond the lines at the College Baths, at Rockaway Beach, yesterday afternoon. She struggled against the strong tide for several minutes, and then shouted for help. Samuel Finkelman, an expert swimmer, swam out to her and brought her safely to shore.

Daniel J. Callahan, 24 years old, of 544 Third Avenue, Manhattan, was in bathing at the foot of West Third Street, Coney Island, yesterday afternoon, when he got into water that was over his head. Callahan could not swim. His cries of help attracted one of the bathers at that place, who dragged him ashore. He was taken to the Coney Island Hospital, where he was treated for shock and submersion.

Louis Rutchik, 18 years old, of 12 Scholes Street, Brooklyn, was in bathing with friends at Seaside Park, at the east end of Coney Island, yesterday afternoon. Rutchik could not swim, but he was told by his companions that he could acquire the art by jumping off the end of one of the jetties there and trusting to luck. He walked out to the end of a jetty at the foot of Ocean Boulevard and jumped ino the water. Rutchik found that he could not swim, and his cries for help were answered by Policeman Gilmartin of the Coney Island Police Station, who brought him safely to shore and took him to the Red Cross Tent, where it was said that he was very little the worse for his experience.

OUR FLEET OPENS 'ATTACK' ON CITY

"WAR" TO END SATURDAY

Major Gen. Barry, with 2,200 Men, Defending New York Against Rear Admiral Badger.

The United States Atlantic Fleet at one minute after midnight this morning began a mimic attack on the defenses guarding the Long Island Sound approach to New York, and the metropolis may be in the hands of the "enemy" before the week ends without New York citizens knowing it. Theoretically the Sound has been mined by the coast artillerymen of the regular army, and the commanders of Fort H. G. Wright on Fisher's Island, Fort Terry on Plum Island, and Fort Michie on Great Gull Island are busy planning a welcome that will (in theory) send the great fleet under Rear Admiral Badger to the bottom of the Sound.

In addition to the 18 battleships of the Atlantic Fleet, the "enemy" also has several flotillas of torpedo boat destroyers and submarines, and, like the battleships, these deadly little ships are all busy in the effort to capture New York to-day. Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commanding the Eastern Division of the army on Governors Island, is directing the defensive operations, and has under him twenty-two complete companies of coast artillerymen from the various fortifications in New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Massachusetts.

During the joint manoeuvres Gen. Barry will make his headquarters on the mine planter Gen. Frank, while Admiral Badger will direct the assault from the bridge of the superdreadnought Wyoming, the flagship of the Atlantic Fleet. Col. William G. Haan is Gen. Barry's chief of staff, while Commander Charles F. Hughes is acting in a similar capacity for Admiral Badger.

WAKES AFTER TWO MONTHS.

Woman Apparently Well After Being in Coma a Long Time.

Special to The New York Times.

PENN YAN, N. Y., Aug. 3.—After two months of lying in a comatose condition, her relatives thinking she might die any minute, Mrs. Clarence Andrews, 25 years old, wife of a prominent paper manufacturer, awoke suddenly last night, spoke to the nurse in a rational way and wished to get up. Her physician was called. He was amazed at the sudden recovery.

Mrs. Andrews in her unconscious period had to be fed with a tube.

CASTRO REPUDIATES CASTRO

Lorraine Passenger Gets Off Ellis Island by Doing So.

Victor Castro, who arrived from Havre on the French liner Lorraine on Saturday, was at once taken to Ellis Island and questioned as to his knowledge of conditions in Venezuela, where ex-Dictator Cipriano Castro, who recently made a long stay on Ellis Island, is trying to get back into power by overthrowing the Gomez Government. Ellis Island may have had angrier involuntary visitors than Victor S. Castro, but if so the immigration authorities are unable to recall them.

When Castro was told that he would have to go to Ellis Island his indignation was great. He knew, he said, and the immigration inspectors did not deny it, that it was his name alone that was responsible for his detention. He had admitted that his destination was Venezuela, and that, of course, complicated matters.

When called before a special board of inquiry he said his name was Victor Sita Castro, and when asked if he was a relative of Cipriano Castro he answered with an oration that would have made the ex-Dictator wince had he heard it.

"Gentlemen," said Victor Sita Castro, who speaks English well, "you wound me deeply, you pierce my heart with that question. Me a relative of that man—that Castro who was a peon, and then a wagon driver, and who now makes trouble in Venezuela? Never was such a thing true. The question is an insult. I am an aristocrat, a gentleman of means and leisure, while Cipriano Castro—but why talk of him? Bah!"

The members of the special board of inquiry were impressed with the earnestness and evident sincerity of the man, and they voted unanimously in favor of permitting him to land. He left the isldan with the assurances of the immigration authorities that they regretted exceedingly the circumstances which had caused him annoyance and delay.

LAMENT CASTRO'S RETURN.

Parisians Think It Means New Disturbance for Venezuela.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—Cipriano Castro's reappearance in Venezuela is regarded in this capital as the reopening of the era of disturbance in that republic. Venezuela has been quiet under President Gomez's régime. The country's foreign policy has not been marked by the fantastic proceedings characteristic of the rule of Castro.

La Liberté expresses to-night a hope that the restoration party's plans will fail, in order that Venezuela may be spared another period of agitation injurious to foreign interests.

Boat Sinks with Campers; 3 Drown.

HARRISBURG, Penn., Aug. 3.—Three members of a camping party on their way back to camp along Conondoguinet Creek, near this city, were drowned late last night by the filling of their boat in a deep part of the creek. Frank Hartz, Lewis Stapf, Addison H. Landis, and John Hood were in the boat, and Hood was the only one who could swim. He saved his life with difficulty.

Saks Suits for Men and Young Men
at $14
reduced from $25, $23, $20 & $17.50

¶ We are always reluctant to reduce a Saks garment to fourteen dollars—not because we are averse to giving our friends a bargain, but because fourteen dollars is apt to convey an erroneous impression unless a man remembers that the occasion is a semi-annual sale, and not a habitual thing. For, as a matter of fact, it is a triumph of tailoring and economy that the suits in this sale can be produced to sell at the former prices named. And to buy them at $14 is an opportunity the like of which never occurs outside of Saks'.

¶ The assortment is composed of three garment models, in all the season's most popular fabrics and colorings, in regulation styles, and in those dapper English effects, which have received their cleverest interpretations at Saks'. Eighth, quarter or half lined.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—James Keir Hardie, speaking to-day at Dowlais, said that when the time came for him to lay aside the harness—and he had been told that it might come suddenly—he hoped that those who remained when he passed into the shadows would be able to say that, whatever old Kier Hardie was, he remained faithful to the class from which he sprang.

MILITANTS' CHANT DISTURBS ST. PAUL'S

Suffragettes Interrupt the Litany with a Prayer for Mrs. Pankhurst.

HAVE $760,000 WAR CHEST

London Times Shows That Fighting Organization's Funds Are Steadily Growing.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Monday, Aug. 4.—St. Paul's Cathedral was the scene of a suffragette demonstration yesterday morning. Forty militants disturbed the congregation during the service by loudly intoning a series of prayers for the woman suffrage cause. The interruptions took place during the Litany.

The women, who had front seats in the centre aisle, chanted:

" Save Emmeline Pankhurst!
Spare her! Spare her!
Give her light and set her free!
Save her! Save her!
Hear us while we pray to Thee! "

Evidently the prayer had been carefully rehearsed. It was set to the same chant that the choir had been singing. When the women began their chant ushers rushed toward them from all parts of the cathedral, but in spite of remonstrances they repeated it several times. Finally the suffragettes retired, at the instance of a verger.

Only a single policeman was present, the special officers who used to guard the cathedral at the height of the suffragette campaign having been recently withdrawn.

The incident is likely to be repeated at any church, as the suffragette prayer has been printed and circulated among the militants for Sunday use.

The Times says it has ascertained that the accounts of the Woman's Social and Political Union for the first months of 1913 when published will be found to show that more than $55,000 was received during that period toward the principal fund of the union, known as the "Quarter-Million-Pound Fund." At the close of 1912 this stood at £141,000, ($705,000.) On June 30, 1913, that total was more than $760,000. For the first quarter of the year the receipts varied from about $1,500 to $1,750 per week, but since April they have been steadily rising, the total receipts in June amounting to nearly $17,500. During July some $4,000 was collected at the Pavilion meetings, which the police have now stopped.

The figures are in direct contradiction to the statements recently published in The Daily Mail to the effect that the militant funds are decreasing.

NEW PUCCINI COMIC OPERA

To be Written Around a Theme of African Exploration.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—It was announced this morning that Puccini was about to compose a comic opera, with the libretto by Tristan Bernard, in which a party of European explorers and scientists in Africa are forced to save their lives by dancing and screaming in a native settlement in imitation of the performances in which the blacks humiliate themselves at European fairs. One scientist is made to perform the danse du ventre.

The idea is that the blacks thus obtain revenge for the indignities which they are forced to undergo to earn a living in Europe by cutting Corybantic capers for the amusement of the whites.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Arthur Bourchier, the well-known English actor and his wife, whose stage name is Violet Van Brugh, have just returned from Germany where they played "Macbeth" for cinematograph purposes. It is understood that the couple received $5,000 for their work which occupied a week.

High tough the remuneration was, Mr. Bourchier found the task not so easy as he had expected it would be. He complains that he had to get up at 4 o'clock in the morning in order to catch the proper light, and that the necessity of waiting about in costume for hours was most unpleasant.

DISPUTE OVER PEARL THEFT

French Police Say It Must Have Occurred in England.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—The mystery of the $750,000 pearl necklace recently lost between Paris and London is involving the French police and those of Scotland Yard in an interesting controversy.

Soon after the theft was discovered and Scotland Yard and private detectives working on behalf of Lloyds had completed their inquiries in London, the French police were informed that in the opinion of the English authorities the robbery took place in France. The French police, however, politely retorted that the robbery must have taken place in London. They base their assertion upon the fact that the package delivered at Hatton Gardens, containing, instead of the necklace, a few lumps of sugar, bore seals which could have been affixed only in London.

Scotland Yard does not accept the French view, but it is understood that private detectives representing the underwriters are making inquiries in London based upon the theories put forward by the French authorities.

CANTON MUTINOUS; WARSHIPS GATHER

American Vessel Joins the Fleet Assembled to Guard Foreigners.

NORTHERN ARMY COMING

Siege of the City Is Expected—Thousands of Refugees Arriving.

HONGKONG, Aug. 3.—The situation in Canton is very serious. The electric lights are cut off at midnight, and the people are fearful of a mutiny. Trains and vessels leaving the city are packed with refugees. A siege of Canton is expected with the arrival there of Gen. Lung Chi-kuang, commander of the Government forces in the Province of Kwang-Si, who is moving southward on the city with his army.

Soldiers are patrolling the streets of Canton, as the police there are unreliable. Seventy traitorous soldiers were shot in that city on Friday. A reward of $60,000 has been offered for the head of Gov. Chan of Canton.

Men with guns from British and French warships are guarding the Shameen or foreign quarter of Canton, where valuables worth millions of dollars are stored. The international fleet lying off the city has been augmented by the arrival of American, German, Japanese, and French men-of-war.

Soldiers have been sent from Hongkong to Canton, and three naval vessels are ready to start thither, at a moment's notice, with stores and additional troops.

Missionaries who have been recalled from disaffected districts are arriving in Hongkong by hundreds. Fifty thousand refugees came into this city last week.

Gen. Lung Chi-kuang is a German-trained soldier. The Cantonese troops are made up of untrained rabble. They are demanding double pay for their services.

AMOY, Aug. 3.—The cruiser Hai-chen, which has been in the hands of the southerners at Foo-chow, has deserted their cause.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 3.—Having bombarded the Wu-Sung forts early Saturday morning and then sailed away, the Government warships commanded by Admiral Tseng returned to the attack for a brief period later in the day, with the apparent object of hastening the negotiations for the surrender of the rebels who are holding the forts. The Northern Admirals are undertaking a large, sweeping movement, with a view to cornering all the revolutionists in Wu-Sung.

The rebels at Su-Chow are retiring to their former position on the Hwai River and toward Pukow.

BUSINESS LIFE ARRAIGNED.

Archbishop Nuttall Says It Is Trying to Christian Character.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Dr. Nuttall, Archbishop of the West Indies, preaching in Westminster Abbey today, said that modern business life was exceedingly trying to the character and temper. It was very difficult to be truthful, honest, and upright and to manifest Christian temper and depertment at all times.

Therefore many people who were conscientious determined that, as they could not profess piety without practicing it, there was no use in trying. They felt that religion and modern business life did not fit together.

Some Persons "Flinch" When Truth Hunts Them

"If any man is able to convince me and show me that I do not think or act right, I will gladly change, for I seek the truth, by which no man was ever injured."—Marcus Aurelius, Roman Emperor.

Some shrink and try to close their eyes and ears to the haunting fact that the little 2½ grains of Caffeine in every average cup of coffee is the demon which relentlessly pursues and starts various ailments, such as biliousness, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bowel trouble, heart failure and a long string of aches and ails, taking one form in one person and another in another.

The effect of repeated doses of coffee, on those who are susceptible to caffeine poisoning, is so complex that it is difficult to foretell where its hurt will be most serious; in Heart, Head, Eyes, Nerves or where.

The stroke of trouble will come somewhere if the daily doses are persisted in.

Of course if anyone prefers to treat his body in that way it is useless to suggest relief.

Let him "follow the trail" until badly wounded.

Some go so far they can't get back to health. Others quit the foolish, losing game before fixed chronic disease sets in.

There is a mighty army of sensible ones, however, who have bravely tested the truth with their own bodies to see whether or not it was the truth that coffee caused their ailments.

It's an easy test. Quit coffee absolutely for 10 days. Take Postum hot and well-made and keep track of the change toward health day by day.

It's the most exquisite pleasure in the world to be perfectly well with all the delicate and beautifully adjusted machinery of the body working in harmony, not interfered with by drugs, one of the most insidious and deceptive of which is caffeine in coffee.

This is Truth.

Meet it bravely with head up and a hearty handclasp.

Truth thus made welcome will prove your best friend.

These are facts without regard to our own opinion, or to whether or not you use Postum.

However, it is well to consider that famous food-drink because it supplies a hot beverage of the deep seal-brown color of coffee which turns to the rich golden-brown when cream is added.

It has a snappy flavor much like the old-time real Java, but there is no "sting" in it, no caffeine or other drug of any sort. It is skilfully manufactured of wheat and a trace of New Orleans molasses.

It comes in two forms. One called Regular Postum, must be boiled full 15 minutes.

The other, Instant Postum, is in powder form and a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes the beverage instantly. Grocers keep both kinds.

CUBS DEFEAT BROOKLYN---YACHTING---TENNIS---BOXING---ATHLETICS

BROOKLYN VICTIMS OF CUBS' BATTING

Dodgers Badly Beaten in a One-Sided Game by the Score of 12 to 5.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 3.—By producing hard drives with athletes on the runways, the Cubs this afternoon easily defeated Dahlen's Dodgers, the combat being an exact imitation of an old-fashioned slugfest in which the two teams equally divided thirty blows. The score was 12 to 5. Jimmy Lavender, on behalf of the locals, lasted throughout the bombardment, but the visitors used a pair of pitchers, Pat Ragan and "Bull" Wagner. Ragan yielded seven safeties and five tallies during his stay and had not he been lifted when he was the chances are that the Cubs never would have been retired. Wagner did fine for two sessions, but in the fifth, sixth, and seventh was hit for seven hits, two of which were home runs and two doubles, the combination resulting in the other seven Cub counters.

Old Tommy Leach and young Fred Williams were the stellar batters, each getting three hits, one of which was a home run. Leach also drew down a double, but Williams was content with a pair of singles. Needham contributed a triple and a double, and was responsible for six runs, his safeties driving in four, and the other two being registered by himself.

Cutshaw and Fisher were the leading Dodger hitters, each securing a triple and two singles. Charley Stengel only drew a pair of safe ones, consisting of a home run and a triple.

Umpire Bill Brennan apparently was badly rattled by the continued heavy firing, for at times he rendered decisions that were so palpably wrong that, although they favored the Cubs, the fans jeered him. He gave Schulte a home run on a ball that struck the right-field fence on the first bound, insisting that it had hit the wall on a fly. Schulte had stopped at second when Bill told him to continue, and the entire Brooklyn team could not persuade Brennan that he was wrong.

Lavender pitched a peculiar game. Outside of the fourth, when Stengel led off with a home run, and three hits in a row followed, the majority of hostile hitting appeared after two were out. Besides the multiplicity of hits, the combat was featured by the length of the drives. Four circuit smashes, four triples, and two doubles were included in the afternoon's output. Cutshaw might have had a round-trip punch to his credit as his triple went all the way to the left-field fence, and the second sacker could easily have scored, but was held at third by poor coaching. CINCINNATI, Aug. 3.—Cincinnati, by bunching hits, easily won the first game of the series from Boston to-day, 8 to 5. It was an even battle up to the seventh, when Dickson weakened, and Cincinnati batted out a victory in the seventh and eighth innings. Boston also made a rally in these two innings, but was only able to score two runs. Packard was wild, giving five bases on balls, but only one of these counted for a run. Phillies Keep Up Winning Stride.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3.—Philadelphia bunched hits for enough runs in the first three innings to win from St. Louis this afternoon. The score was 5 to 3. Paskert's triple and a single by Knabe started the scoring in the first inning for the visitors. Successive singles by Doolan, Killifer, and Brennan counted one more in the second. In the third inning Knabe singled and was sacrificed to second. Cathers's two-base muff of Magee's pop rallied the second baseman. Magee scored when Luderus singled. Sallee was relieved by Geyer, who pitched fair ball for six and two-thirds innings, yielding but one run. St. Louis tallied its first runs in the second inning on Cathers's triple, Mowrey's double, and a single by O'Leary. In the fourth inning Konetchy was safe on Knabe's error. He stole second and went to third when Doolan, angered at a decision, threw the ball away. He scored on Wingo's out. The score:

BROWN FAILS IN SWIM.

Life Saver Abandons Effort After Swimming 29 Miles in 8 Hours.

Commodore Alfred Brown of the American Life-Saving Society failed to swim from the Battery to Sandy Hook yesterday, but he broke all former records at various points en route, and stopped six miles off the Jersey shore, after swimming twenty-nine miles in eight hours.

Brown began his swim at the Battery at 10 A. M., after Commodore Spalding of the same organization had tested the water. Brown swam with such speed that, despite the heavy traffic in the harbor, he reached the lower point of Governors Island, two and one-half miles from the Battery, at 10:42. He passed Erie Basin, swimming a fast trudgeon stroke, at 11:07, which is four miles down the bay.

Off Bay Ridge dock, in the Narrows, he was timed in 12:13, about seven miles from the starting point. He was nearly half an hour ahead of Charles Durburow's record at this point. His form was remarkable. When Swinburne Island was passed at 1:25, thirteen miles had been covered in 2 hours 25 minutes. He reached Romer Shoal at 3:30 P. M., when, after swimming another mile, Brown changed his plans and headed for the New Jersey shore.

After three miles had been covered, the swimmer struck hard luck again. Tar, oil, and other refuse from the Standard Oil plant at Bayonne, N. J., and schools of driftwood halted his progress. He swam a mile through it, but had to stop. To prove that he was fresh, he swam about a hundred yards, and was timed in 1 minute 12 seconds. This after he had covered twenty-nine miles in eight hours.

'Iron Man' Coombs Rejoins Athletics

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—Manager Connie Mack of the Athletics announced to-night that "Iron Mack" Jack Coombs would rejoin the club to-morrow and would stop the victorious rush of the Cleveland team, which opens a four-game series here on Monday. Coombs has been at his home in Maine for the past two months recovering from a general breakdown, which followed an injury early in the season. Coombs has fully recovered his health and Manager Mack expects that he will be a great help to the White Elephants through the rest of the season.

MANY YACHTS IN LARCHMONT CRUISE

First Run Will Start This Morning for Morris Cove to Join New York Y. C. Fleet.

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT YACHT CLUB, Larchmont, Aug. 3.—More than fifty Captains attended the meeting on board the flagship Muriel this afternoon and discussed the first cruise that the Larchmont Yacht Club has planned in years. The rendezvous for the important event was at 5 o'clock, and at that hour the harbor was crowded with sail, steam, and power craft.

Commodore Charles Smithers announced that the plans of the cruise would be carried out according to orders already announced. The first run will start to-morrow morning, and the destination will be Morris Cove, the harbor of New Haven. It is expected that about sixty racing craft will take part in the run, including a half dozen big schooners and all of the fifty-footers with the exception of C. C. Rumrill and George F. Baker, Jr.'s, craft.

Among the boats that will race to-morrow are the two big schooners, Elena and Irolita. Both were at anchor here to-day. Other double stickers that will compete for the cups are the flagship Muriel, Ariel, Miladi, and all four of the Stamford one-design craft. In the fleet at anchor are Medora, which has not raced before this Summer, and Dorello, which is making her first appearance of the year in metropolitan waters.

With the exception of Sayonara II., which has returned to Eastern waters, all of the little P boats will start to-morrow. The fleet will include Stranger, the Narragansett Bay boat that did so well during the Larchmont race week; Josephine, the champion P boat of the year; Windward, Joyant, and Corinthian. At the end of the Larchmont cruise, these boats will continnue with the squadron of the New York Yacht Club and race for a special cup.

The big fifty-footers were not here to-day. The majority are across the Sound at Glen Cove, and will arrive here in time to start to-morrow. The fleet will be made up of Acushla, Iroquois II., Spartan, Carolina II., Grayling, and Sumari. The thirty-footers here to-day are Okee, Phryne, Rowdy, and Nepsi. Harry Maxwell's Avenger also will start among the large sloops.

The Regatta Committee, made up of Horace E. Boucher, Lawrence Dalley, and Errol Kerr, will use the steam yacht Christina, the property of F. Fletcher. Other steamers that will be in the squadron are Leonard Richards's Carola, Emeline, Narada, and Mareva. Vice Commodore Wilson will entertain a party on his flagship, Sumida, and Rear Commodore Morgan will sail on his schooner, Grace II.

N. Y. Y. C. ANNUAL CRUISE.

Yachts Will Start from New London To-morrow in Series of Races.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 3.—The New York Yacht Club, the oldest organization of amateur sailors in the country, now well on its second half century, will hold its annual cruise this week and next, along some 200 miles of New England seacoast.

Starting on Aug. 6 from the mouth of the Thames, the fleet will visit five other famous ports, Newport, Vineyard Haven, Provincetown, Gloucester, and Marblehead, reaching the last-named port for a final anchorage on Aug. 14.

There will be races every day except Sunday, Aug. 10, when the yachts will lie over in Vineyard Haven, or what was called Holmes Hole when the first New York yachtsmen put in there sixty years ago.

The fleet will pause two days at Newport for the Astor and Kings Cup race, and before going to Gloucester will stop over for a night in Marblehead, returning there for the disbandment ceremonies on Aug. 14.

Two other well-known clubs, the Larchmont and Eastern Yacht Clubs, will join in making the cruise a success. The Larchmont Club's two days' cruise under Commodore Charles Smithers will start to-morrow at the head of the Sound, and end here Tuesday afternoon.

Wahkan II. Wins Lightship Race.

Wahkan II., the property of H. A. Robbins, won the annual lightship race of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club yesterday afternoon. For the first time since the race was instituted the struggle was open to all boats enrolled in the Yacht Racing Association of Gravesend Bay. There was little or no breeze for the yachts. The first half hour was a drifting match. Then a little wind came from the northeast that helped the craft to reach Scotland Lightship, the first mark of the contest. The second leg was to Ambrose Channel Lightship. The wind followed the boats, and the yachtsmen had another run to the second mark. On the way home the wind hauled into the southwest, and again the craft had a fair breeze. With no windward work for the entire 29 miles, the Wahkan II. had no difficulty in winning easily on corrected time.

Marblehead Race Week Begins.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 3.—The Marblehead race week programme, one of the popular events for small boats in New England, will attract yachtsmen during the next six days. The sport will begin with an open race by the Eastern Yacht Club to-morrow, but the burden of making the week a success will fall on the Corinthian Yacht Club during the remaining five days. It is expected that an average of 150 yachts of all descriptions, from fifty-foot schooners to the Nahant Bug and Swampscott dory classes, will start each day and that before the week is over the Regatta Committee will have sent away a record-breaking fleet of 200.

Brooklyn Loses Protested Game.

President Lynch of the National League, in a decision announced yesterday, held that the result of the protested Brooklyn-Cincinnati game of July 11, which Cincinnati won, 5 to 3, stands as played. The Brooklyn Club protested because of a decision by Umpire Quigley, who allowed Player Moran but one base on a wild pitch, on which misplay Moran had advanced from first to third base. The evidence submitted by Umpire Quigley and Capt. Hoblitzell, according to President Lynch's decision, showed that on the first day of the Brooklyn-Cincinnati series Manager Dahlen had made a ground rule allowing but one base on a pitched ball that hit the grand stand. As both clubs agreed to this rule, President Lynch held that the protest of the Brooklyn Club had no force.

DAVIS SPRINGS SURPRISE.

Brooklyn Rider Defeats Chapple in Special Motor Cycle Race.

One of the big surprises of the season at the Brighton Beach Motordrome was furnished last night before a crowd of 6,000 people, when Charles Davis of Brooklyn defeated Arthur Chapple in straight heats in the two-mile special race. The chance to oppose Andre Grapperon, the French champion, who arrives here to-day, hung on the victory, and Chapple was a big favorite. Davis, however, outgeneraled the New Yorker in each heat, coming from behind in the last lap of the opening heat and setting the pace all the way after the first lap in the second heat. Chapple made a determined effort to come from behind in the second heat, but Davis held him off successfully and won by a wheel's length.

Mike Costello led the field home in each of the three heats of the four-mile race, which was scored on the French point system. Pete Cronin of Brooklyn, with two firsts and a third, nosed out Bert Sayre of Newport by a single point in the two-mile invitation race, also scored by the French system.

Charlie Davis proved unequal to the task of overcoming a half-lap handicap in the free for all, in which he conceded that distance to Mercier, Costello, Veditz, and Sperl. The summary:

Two-Mile Race, First Winner of Two Heats.—Won by Charlie Davis, Brooklyn, in straight heats; Arthur Chapple, New York, second; Paul Ohne, Brooklyn, third. Time of heats—1:20 1-5; 1:29 4-5.

Four-Mile Professional Race, French Point System.—Won by Mike Costello, New Rochelle; George Sperl, Brooklyn, and Ray Veditz, Philadelphia, tied for second place. Time of heats—3:02 1-5; 2:59 4-5; 2:58 2-5.

Two-Mile Invitation Race, French Point System.—Won by Peter Cronin, Brooklyn; Bert Sayre, Newport, second; Martin Kessler, Newark, third. Time of heats—1:34 2-5; 1:30 1-5; 1:30 1-5.

Free-for-All Handicap, Distance Five Miles.—Won by Mike Costello, New Rochelle; Ray Veditz, Philadelphia, second; George Sperl, Brooklyn, third. Time—3:43 2-5.

CLARK DEFEATS GOULLET.

Australian Cyclist Wins Match Race at Newark in Straight Heats.

Jackie Clark of Australia continued his victorious riding at the Newark Velodrome yesterday, when in a special mile match race he defeated Alfred Goullet in two straight heats, and then went out in the ten-mile open race and won from the field composed of the best bicycle riders in the world to-day.

Just as Clark distinguished himself so notably among the professionals, Donald McDougall, the New York A. C. rider and national amateur champion, monopolized the honors in his division. McDougall in winning the two-mile national amateur championship race scored his fifth straight victory in a titular event. McDougall further gained prestige as a champion when he won the mile handicap, in which he started from the scratch mark. The summary:

Half-Mile Handicap—Professional. Won by Frank L. Kramer, East Orange, (scratch;) Floyd Krebs, Newark, (45 yards,) second; Martin Ryan, Newark, (30 yards,) third. Time—0:54 4-5.

Half-Mile Novice—Amateur. Won by F. Thompson, Newark; M. Kohlhoffer, Newark, second. Time—1:06 3-5.

Two-Mile National Amateur Championship—Won by Donald McDougall, New York A. C.; Aubrey Taylor, Australia, second; Edward Madden, Newark, third. Time—4:24 4-5.

Miss-and-Out Invitation—Professional. Won by Paddy Hehir, Australia; J. Gordon Walker, Australia, second; Norman Hansen, Denmark, third. Time—3:28 2-5. Distance, 1 2-3 miles.

One-Mile Match Race—Professional. Between A. Lackie Clark, Australia, and Alfred Goullet, Australia. Won by Clark in straight heats. First heat—Time of last one-eighth mile, 0:12 2-5. Second heat—Time of last one-eighth mile, 0:12 1-5.

One-Mile Handicap—Amateur. Won by Donald McDougall, New York A. C., (scratch;) Aubrey Taylor, Australia, (15 yards,) second; Albert Krushel, Buffalo, (35 yards,) third. Time—2:04.

One-Mile Tandem—Open professional. Won by Alfred Grenda, Tasmania, and Paddy Hehir, Australia; Joseph Fogler, Brooklyn, and Alvin Loftus, Providence, R. I., second; George G. Cameron, New York, and Ernest Lokus, Newark, third. Time—1:49 3-5.

Ten-Mile Open Professional—Won by A. Lackie Clark, Australia; Paddy Hehir, Australia, second; Lloyd Thomas, Salt Lake City, third. Time—21:28 1-5.

TWO RIDERS FINISH RUN.

Segal and Neuman Complete Triple Century Ride in 35:56.

Sylvan Segal and Joseph Neuman were the only survivors of the triple century run of the New York Division of the Century Road Club Association, which finished at 7:06 o'clock last night. The pair covered the 302 miles from New York to Atlantic City and return in 35 hours 56 minutes.

Eleven cyclists started from St. George, S. I., at 7:10 A. M. Saturday morning, the route carrying them to Perth Amboy, Trenton, and Burlington. At the latter checking station J. Ryan and J. Burns of the Newark Division dropped out of the run on account of punctures. Camden was reached at 6:30 P. M., 11 hours and 20 minutes from the start. A broken frame compelled the retirement of G. Steppello at Camden.

With three riders eliminated the remaining eight continued their journey to Atlantic City, arriving at 2:45 A. M. yesterday. The return journey was by way of Manahawken, 200 miles from the start, where the riders checked at 8:30 A. M. At Mount Gretna, C. Piana dropped out, and when the seven survivors reported at New Brunswick, R. Lawson, who has been riding for nineteen years, withdrew on account of tire trouble. J. Maher dropped out at Metuchen, and the others between that point and St. George. Segal and Neuman finished the run with four minutes to spare.

French Motor Cyclist Coming.

The arrival of Andre Grapperon, the European champion from France, to-morrow will add interest to the motor cycle world, as the foreigner comes here with an enviable record and has been engaged to race against the stars of this country. A delegation of motor cycle fans will greet the Frenchman on his arrival. The riders at the big seaside track are anxious to see the Frenchman in a workout, so as to get a line on his form.

The first of a series of matches between the East and West will take place Wednesday night at the Brighton Motordrome, when Paul Lambert of Cleveland and Henri St. Yves will meet in the opening match. Now that St. Yves has found his stride, it will take record-breaking speed to unplace him. Another feature for Wednesday will be a six-mile handicap, with Charley Davis starting at scratch and giving the field a lead of two laps and a half. The card in general for Wednesday night is an attractive one, and a well-filled stadium should result.

She and Timothy Maloney of Lowell, who finished fifteen minutes ahead of her, were the only one of a party of four swimmers who succeeded in the attempt.

FLYNN VS. SMITH.

Heavyweights in Ten-Round Bout at Garden A. C. Friday Night.

After several weeks of marked duliness in boxing circles New York fistic followers are to be treated this week to a bout that is causing national attention. It is the ten-round affair between Jim Flynn, the Peubla fireman, and Gunboat Smith of California, which is to be staged Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Both men have been in hard training for the past ten days, Flynn at Dal Hawkins's camp in Westchester, and Smith at Sheepshead Bay. According to reports from the rival camps both men are fit for the struggle.

Smith is generally accredited as the logical successor to Luther McCarty as head of the white heavyweight division despite the fact that any title which McCarty owned went to Pelky. The latter had failed to show anything to excite boxing followers up to the time of his bout with McCarty, while Smith had been going along the line, knocking various contenders out of the running. His wonderful punching ability has made up for his lack of the scientific features of the game and his claim to the white heavyweight title is not generally disputed.

Two heavyweight bouts, one between whites and the other between negroes, will feature to-morrow night's show at the Atlantic Garden A. C., Canal Street and the Bowery. In the main event the contestants will be Jack Keating, who defeated Frank McGuinness last week, and George Gall, the ex-soldier heavyweight. McGuinness was originally signed for this bout, but after his defeat Keating was substituted. John Lester Johnson, who recently stood off Joe Jeannette for ten rounds, will oppose Bob Lee of Brooklyn in the semi-final.

The New Polo A. A. of Harlem will put on a special show to-night at the clubhouse, 129th Street and Park Avenue. Johnny Moran and Jimmy Paul will do the honors in the feature bout. Kid Green and Tommy Hopkins will come together in the other ten-round bout.

At the Rockaway Beach A. C. Thursday night Mike Glover of Boston, who claims the welterweight championship, will oppose Paddy Sullivan in the star bout.

The usual week-end shows will be put on Saturday night at the Fairmont, St. Nicholas and Atlantic Garden clubs of New York, also at the Irving A. C. of Brooklyn.

Notes of the Golfers.

From the time the five famous foreign golf professionals sail from Liverpool on the Celtic Thursday for the United States, all eyes in the world of golf will be centred largely on their doings. According to present calculations, Harry Vardon, Edward Ray, and Wilfrid Reid of England, and Arnaud Massy and Louis Tellier of France, will arrive here on Thursday, Aug. 14, hardly in time to see the finish of the metropolitan open championship, which will be run off over the Salisbury links, near Garden City, Aug. 13 and 14. It is even possible that the Celtic will arrive here on Friday morning, Aug. 15, which means that Vardon and Ray will scarcely have a chance to get their sea legs off before they meet John J. McDermott, the national open champion, and Gilbert Nicholls, former metropolitan open title holder, in a 36-hole four-ball match at the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club, near Philadelphia, on Saturday, Aug. 16.

From that time on all five of the famous foreigners will have plenty to do. They have promised to be at Shawnee on Aug. 22 and 23 for the open tournament there, while soon afterward Vardon and Ray are to appear in matches against prominent professionals at Atlantic City, Wilmington, Deal, Wykagyl, and possibly other clubs hereabouts.

Apropos of the metropolitan open championship, Frederick H. Thomas, Secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, calls attention to the fact that the entries close with him at 71 Broadway, on Friday, at noon. The entrance fee is $5. There is every likelihood that the field for this tournament will be one of the largest, for it is the time of the year when the professionals have more opportunity to prepare for events of this kind. In fact, several well-known players, who did not compete last year, have signified their intention of teeing up at Salisbury.

M'LOUGHLIN MAY PLAY FOR TROPHY

Tennis Champion Expected to Arrive in Time to Meet Winner of State Tourney.

Only one match was played in the New York State tennis championship in singles yesterday on the Crescent Athletic Club courts at Bay Ridge, when William M. Johnston, the Pacific Coast schoolboy, defeated Walter L. Pate in the fifth round in two straight sets by the score of 6—3, 6—4. Pate put up a hard contest, and made a number of clever shots, but he was no match for the Western racquet marvel, who will play the winner of the F. C. Inman-R. Le Roy match in the next round.

Johnston ran up a lead of 4—0 on games in the first set before Pate steadied. Then after a long series of rallies Pate managed to win a game by consistently placing the ball low to the boy's fore or back hand. In this manner Pate picked up three games in a row, twice breaking through Johnston's service. At this the youngster began to place prettily, and his ingenuity at forcing tactics helped him through the rest of the match.

In the second set Pate led at 3—1 and 4—2 on games at which the Californian began a brilliant session at net play which smothered Pate and won the match.

No other competitions in the singles were decided, and the committee postponed the beginning of the matches of forty-five pairs drawn in the doubles until to-day.

Gustave F. Touchard defaulted his match to Le Roy, owing to his being compelled to leave for Chicago, where this week, with W. M. Washburn, he will represent the East in the sectional doubles championship, the winner of which will play McLoughlin and Bundy, the national champions, at Newport in about two weeks.

Competition for the Crescent Bowl is now narrowing down to the ranking players. H. W. Stocum, Theodore R. Pell, William M. Johnston, Alrick H. Man, Jr., and Maurice Galvas, the German player, have won their way into the fifth round, and to-day will be joined by the winners of the F. C. Baggs-H. S. Parker, C. F. Watson, Jr.-S. Howard Voshell, and F. C. Inman-Robert Le Roy matches. The four winners in this round will qualify for the semi-final round.

Tennis experts generally agree that Johnston, the schoolboy, will prove the winner of the tournament, although several of the other players are in splendid form.

Myles S. Charlock, Chairman of the Crescent Athletic Club Tennis Committee, said yesterday Maurice E. McLoughlin might defend his State title. It was officially announced that McLoughlin and the other members of the Davis Cup team are on the Imperator, which is due to dock Wednesday. This would give the national champion a couple of days to get into shape for the challenge round. McLoughlin had planned to leave England this week, but owing to President Wrenn's sudden determination to sail ahead of time, McLoughlin decided to cut short his stay on the other side.

McLoughlin will enter the Meadow Club tournament at Southampton, which opens Monday, Aug. 11, and begin his final preparations for the singles and doubles championships, which start at Newport, R. I., one week later. T. C. Bundy, his doubles partner, will join the Californian at Southampton. R. Norris Williams, H. H. Hackett, and Wallace F. Johnson will also compete at Southampton. The summary:

Men's Singles.—New York State Championship, Fourth Round—Robert Le Roy defeated Gustave F. Touchard, by default.

Miss Cassell Wins Tennis Cup.

Miss Clare Cassell easily captured the Woman's Singles Tennis Cup yesterday on the Woodmere Club courts at Woodmere, L. I., defeating Miss Erna Marcus in straight sets by the score of 6—4, 6—0. Miss Cassell outplayed her opponent throughout the contest, although Miss Marcus made a plucky fight against overwhelming odds in the first round. Miss Cassell played the side lines with great accuracy and experienced little difficulty in passing her opponent.

The open tournament of the Woodmere Club for men's singles and doubles begins on the club courts Thursday. Entries close with the Tennis Committee at the clubhouse on Tuesday. G. A. L. Livinne, Captain of the West Side Tennis Club, has two legs on the cup, and a third victory will give him absolute possession of the trophy. The summary:

Woodmere Women's Singles, Final Round—Miss Clare Cassell defeated Miss Erna Marcus, 6—4, 6—0.

ATHLETICS AT ULMER PARK.

R. W. McDonald, Irish-American A. C., Timed Fast in Century Dash.

The Socialist Party of Kings County held a set of sanctioned athletic games yesterday at Ulmer Park, Bensonhurst, in which a number of the lesser lights of the A. A. U. world engaged, with some fair results obtaining. J. M. Rosenberger of the Irish-American A. C., who was scratch man in the short sprint at 100 yards, was beaten but a narrow margin by R. W. McDonald and H. A. Boun, and the time announced as 9 3-5 seconds, which was admittedly wrong.

The announced ten-mile novice race did not take place, lack of entries being announced as the cause. The longest event on the card, the two-mile handicap, was accounted for by J. Pietilio of the Kaleva A. C., a Finnish organization, who had 200 yards.

Denny Mann, the former champion, won the one-mile walk from the 38-second mark in 7:35, while Willie Plant, Long Island's, 12 seconds, was second. Johnny Burkhardt, a son of the one-time titleholder, W. R. Burkhardt, finished third from the limit handicap of 60 seconds. The summary:

100-Yard Dash, Handicap.—Won by R. W. McDonald, National A. C., (2½ yards;) H. A. Boun, Union Settlement A. C., (7 yards) second; J. M. Rosenberger, Irish-American A. C., (scratch), third. Time, 0:09 3-5.

Two-Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by J. Pirtillo, Kaleva A. C., (200 yards;) N. Glanicopolis, Mercury A. C., (125 yards), second; W. T. Cleary, Glencoe A. C., (225 yards), third. Time, 9.40.

1,000-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by W. Gordon, Hollywood Inn A. C., (35 yards;) J. A. Peterson, unattached, (5 yards), second; M. Pietilio, Kaleva A. C., (30 yards), third. Time, 2.20 3-5.

One-Mile Walk, Handicap.—Won by D. Mann, Glencoe A. C., (38 seconds;) W. Plant, Long Island A. C., (12 seconds), second; J. Burkhardt, Bronx Church House (60 seconds), third. Time, 7.35.

300-Yard Run, Handicap.—Won by A. P. Shea, Ozanam Association, (3 yards;) J. Purtell, Glencoe A. C., (10 yards), second; H. Seney, Bronx Church House, (6 yards), third. Time 0.32 1-5.

Putting 12-Pound Shot, Handicap.—Won by L. Jackson, Glencoe A. C., (7 feet), with 47 feet 8 inches; J. Matsukes, unattached, (3 feet), second, with 46 feet 10 inches; V Uhola, Kaleva A. C. (6 feet), third, with 46 feet 10 inches.

THE ADVISORY BOARD.

The labors of the House Banking and Currency Committee upon the Owen-Glass bill continue to give cause for great satisfaction. The progress made is real, the amendments to the bill are substantial, and nearly every one of them, we think, has made the bill better and sounder. Especially gratifying is the fact that the committee turns a denying countenance upon the impossible proposals of its more radical and ignorant members. The suggestion of a currency based on farm produce has been rejected, and the foolish prohibition against a Director of a national bank being a member of the board of another bank has met a similar fate. Some safeguards have been thrown around the exercise of the authority vested in the Federal Board to require Federal reserve banks to rediscount the paper of other reserve banks, the changes being of a nature to make the power less arbitrary, and to insure its more careful exercise. Nevertheless, the Federal Board would have the power to "require" such rediscounts. The lowering of the reserve requirement in reserve cities from 25 to 20 per cent. within sixty days after the act goes into effect has an obvious relation to the requirement that national banks shall provide the capital for the district reserve banks. This is not a very wise or safe way to make the raising of the required capital easier, but it is evidently the expectation of the committee that a 20 per cent. reserve against deposits would be found adequate under the new plan of a more centralized control of reserves.

The amendment creating a council of advisors to the Federal Board, made up of one member from each reserve district, is important and helpful. It gives assurance at least that the members of the Reserve Board, all political appointees, would not be without the advantage of the advice of practical bankers. But the amendment as drawn defines the "powers" of this advisory council. It would have no powers. It would have the privilege to meet and offer its advice to the Federal Reserve Board on general business conditions, to make "representations," concerning any action taken or proposed, and it could call for information. But the Federal Reserve Board is not required to accept its advice or to be guided in any way by its recommendations. The merit and value of the advisory council lies in this, that the Federal Board would run a grave risk and would incur public censure if it should act contrary to the substantially unanimous advice of the representatives of the district reserve banks. In some measure, respect for public opinion would doubtless incline the Federal Board to pay heed to the advice given. But there would be no certainty about it, and public opinion upon technical matters of banking is much less easily aroused and interested than when questions of currency, particularly the volume thereof, are under discussion.

We are still entirely confident that a better way would be to provide that four members of a board of eleven should be appointed by the President from a list of names submitted by the reserve banks. Practical bankers would then take part in the deliberations of the board, and they would have votes, although the actual control would still remain in Federal hands.

WHY CHANGE?

It is reported from Washington that President Wilson is considering very anxiously whom he shall appoint as successor to W. Cameron Forbes as Governor General of the Philippines, and the names of some very able men have been mentioned as under consideration. But why make any change at present?

We are confident that the President is very desirous to make no change in the policy of the United States toward the Philippines until he thoroughly understands the whole situation there, and he can hardly have achieved that yet, pressed as he has been by urgent matters. It is of the utmost importance that the work there shall be consistent and continuous until a change is fully determined on, if any shall be, which is by no means certain. Gov. Forbes has given ample proof of his fitness for his duties. He has been nine years in the islands—as Secretary of Commerce and Police, as Vice Governor, and for four years as Governor. He has little to learn as to the islands and nothing to unlearn. Why should not the President retain his valuable services, at least until a new policy shall have been shaped, or—better still—indefinitely?

BRITISH POLITICS AND THE PANAMA EXPOSITION.

It is reasonable to infer that the British Government took into consideration the political effect of its decision to refuse the invitation to take part in the Panama Exposition, and it is not unreasonable to think that it miscalculated that effect. The Government watches closely the sentiment of the radicals and the Labor Party. It did not appear favorable to the fair. The radicals are suspicious of the great industrials, the captains of industry and the leaders in commerce, whose sympathy with Lloyd Georgeism has been cooling rapidly of late. The Labor Party is still more suspicious, and dreads anything that diverts attention from its own rather narrow aims. The general tendency of the Liberal Party is toward "Little England" notions and policies. It was natural that the Government should think that the Exposition was really unpopular among the classes on whom the Government chiefly relies.

Probably it is. But the Government did not reckon with other classes of even greater importance, and with the instinctive sentiment of Englishmen generally, as to an occasion of this sort. The spirit of the "Gentlemen Adventurers" of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is by no means dead in the English people. The hunger for conquest of markets, if not of foreign lands, has not ceased because of the immense acquisitions achieved. It is rather stimulated. The Exposition which celebrates the linking of the oceans, the opening of the "passage" which the most eager minds and the stoutest hearts of Britain sought for centuries, does not fail to appeal to the descendants of Hudson and Magellan and Capt. John Smith. And the Government which kept its anxious gaze fixed on too small things too near at home awakens to the fact that it has erred.

The officials do not make matters any better by saying that they were disappointed in the feeling manifested by the business men, who seemed timid. The trouble was they asked too few and not the right ones. It is quite possible that the decision may be reconsidered.

A MAN AND A JOB.

Charles Francis Adams writes to The Springfield Republican a characteristic letter urging the Republicans of Massachusetts to name for Governor Samuel W. McCall, for the single purpose of securing his powerful aid in reforming the muddled tax system of the State. Since the party omitted to make Mr. McCall United States Senator, as it should have done, no better use of that accomplished statesman's unusual gifts, high character, and long experience in public life could be made.

And certainly the task as described by Mr. Adams is important and urgent. The tax system of Massachusetts conforms to lines laid down in the State Constitution more than a century ago. It was fairly effective and suitable to the conditions then existing in a rural community, with no large cities, simple and few industries, little accumulated wealth, and limited commerce, domestic or foreign. It is not suited at all to present conditions, which were not and could not be foreseen, all these important elements in the economic situation having greatly changed. The case, of course, is only one of a multitude when political institutions and methods have been completely outgrown owing to the rapid increase of population and wealth and the immense and varied development of trade and manufactures.

There is a cause also for the neglect of a task so obviously serious and urgent. For many years Massachusetts Republicans have adhered with blind fidelity to the policy of protection, and their action in State matters has been guided by its effect on this policy. The interests of the State have been habitually sacrificed to maintain it. Partisans have labored, not to secure the best State Government, but to secure the safe domination of the protectionist party in the nation. The operations of the Republican machine, deeply influenced by the organized efforts of the favorites of the tariff, have absorbed the energies and engaged the thoughts of the Republican voters to the exclusion of State matters.

The protectionists are now enjoying—or having, whether they enjoy it or not—a period of enforced leisure in which they cannot do much to promote their pet policy. So far as Massachusetts is concerned they could not better employ this leisure than by electing Mr. McCall to superintend the work of tax reform. He is sufficiently orthodox as to protection to escape the animosity of the narrower partisans, and he is so conspicuously able and trustworthy that he would draw support from business men of Democratic affiliations. It would be an interesting spectacle for the rest of the country to watch the old Bay State really taking thought about its own business.

THE BALKAN KINGS.

We venture to think that the German Emperor has been misreported, or misunderstood, in his alleged sarcastic remarks as to the monarchs of the Balkans. He is alleged to have said that all save his brother-in-law, Constantine of Greece, stayed at home and "combed their dogs." That is not quite true. Czar Nicholas of Montenegro might possibly have served his country better had he confined his attention to the toilet of his canine pets, but as a matter of fact he was at the front and went there before his allies were ready to act. And though Constantine was with his troops much of the time, and is loyally credited with their triumphs, these were quite as much due to the masterly diplomacy of M. Venizelos, the gifted Premier of Greece, whose tact and foresight and firmness brought about the combinations which first made the alliance possible and then made possible the terrific defeat visited on Bulgaria by Greece and Servia.

The French have a maxim, "n'est pas soldat qui veut"—not every one who wishes can be a soldier—and, if Constantine really be one, (reports differ as to that;) his greatest gift to his subjects has been in his cordial co-operation with the sagacious statesman, the responsible head of his Government. The day for monarchs, as monarchs, to lead their armies in person is past. Forty years ago Napoleon III. made a terrible botch of that business, and some German authorities hold that Wilhelm I., on the field of battle, was rather a hindrance than a help. At Gravelotte he had to be urged, and almost forced, from a post of great peril to himself, where he was by no means serviceable to the commander on whom the responsibility really rested, nor must it be forgotten that the present German Emperor has brought his country to its actual position of military primacy in Europe by the steady building up of a stupendous army, which, with rare intelligence, patience, and skill, he has kept from firing a single shot. Should the time ever come when he would have to summon it to fight, we doubt very much that he would undertake to lead it.

FEDERAL LEADERSHIP.

President Wilson is making a determined effort to establish an effective leadership of his party in Congress. With the means he employs or contemplates, or with the use he may make of his leadership if he secures it, we are not now concerned. But it is worth while pointing out that our legislative system has long suffered for something of the sort, has lacked responsible guidance, has become clumsy, inert, and confused, and has been exposed to serious errors in times of excitement. It is to be noted, also, that the experiment of Executive leadership has been undertaken, in differing spirit, by two of our recent Presidents.

Mr. McKinley, in his first term, lived up very faithfully to the old notion of the relations of a President to his party. He tried to keep his party united, and when he could not quite do that he took what seemed to him the stronger side. But in the few months of his second term that were permitted to him his policy underwent a significant change. In his last public utterance he showed that he had done what he urged his party to do—he had turned his face toward the future. Had he lived, there is no doubt that he would have used all his powers of persuasion and his rare skill as a politician to bring his party into line with what he saw to be the steady advance of public sentiment toward the emancipation of business and industry from the outgrown restraint and interference of the tariff. The bullet of a crazy anarchist blocked that change and brought into the Executive office a man far more bent on leadership than any of his predecessors, and on leadership of a different sort from that of the patient and unselfish McKinley.

Mr. Roosevelt abandoned without hesitation the aim of commercial emancipation which Mr. McKinley cherished, and turned his energies toward a leadership which depended for its success mainly on its appeal to popular feeling. He did not neglect—far from it—the use of influence upon Congress, but he found that method tedious and not as pleasing to his temperament as the arousing of popular excitement centred on his own personality. The net result was the disorganization of his party in Congress and its utter demoralization in the country at large. The orderly advance which Mr. McKinley had undertaken to guide was turned into a wild scramble, a free fight raging around his personal banner. It is idle to speculate what may be the ultimate outcome, for Mr. Roosevelt is a man of large, though not varied, resource and of tireless energy; but for the present, not yet a year from the close of his whirling campaign, his following seems in the process of progressive dwindling. Certainly his experiment in Executive leadership has not left the situation in Congress improved, has contributed nothing to the orderly evolution of popular representative government. Quite the contrary.

Mr. Wilson, we think, sees the problem and has his own ideas as to how it shall be solved. Apparently his mind is fixed, though not narrowly, on the British system, so clearly described by Professor, now President, Lowell, in which the initiation of all material legislation, as well as its guidance through the Legislature, is in the hands of the Executive. That system has very great advantages, as it has been worked out through centuries of experience. But its advantages depend largely on a permanent machinery for the preparation of bills and upon the direct presence and activity of the members of the Ministry in the two houses of Parliament. The latter we have not, and can hardly get without a radical change in the Constitution. The former we could adopt, but the task would be exceedingly difficult. Mr. Wilson, it seems, is inclined not to wait for it, but to do what he can to guide and influence Congress through consultation with committee leaders and, when occasion requires, with leaders, or would-be leaders, in the party caucus. This he supplements in a significant fashion by his policy of personal appearance in the Hall of Congress to lay before its members, not so much his specific recommendations but the general considerations on which they are based.

It is an important and intensely interesting experiment. It is too soon, of course, to predict its outcome. So far it has worked better than could have been expected. For one thing, it has made the President in some respects more conservative than strictly logical interpretation of some of his earlier utterances led the country to expect, though by no means so conservative as still earlier utterances indicated that he then was. It is to be remembered, also, that in this big game he is, in a sense, playing a lone hand. He has no single strong man in his Cabinet to aid him, and the strongest is there mainly to keep him from opposition.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Contrasting North and South.

R. C. Barrow, a colored man living in New Iberia, La., recently came North as delegate of a fraternal society, and in a very well written letter to The Enterprise, his home paper, he makes an interesting comparison of the treatment received by his race in the two sections of the country.

His first generalization is that in the North the negro with money to spend is permitted to go—for that particular purpose—wherever a white man can, but his opportunities for earning money are far less than in the South, practically all sorts of employment being closed to him except those which nobody else wants. Of these statements, neither would go far toward establishing for this observer a reputation for accuracy. In spite of our anti-discrimination laws and our promises of equal rights and privileges for all, chance or inclination must have strangely favored Barrow if he did not find here many places where his money would not buy a welcome for him—places whence, in practice if not in theory, he would be excluded, simply because of his skin and regardless of his behavior.

Concerning the industrial ban on negroes in the North, of course, he is more nearly right, though even in that he exaggerates reality a little, all the professions being open, after a fashion, to the Northern negro, his banishment from many of the skilled trades being more a matter of union rules and comparative competency than of racial prejudice on the part of employers. That high-class colored mechanics and artisans are far more numerous in the South than in the North, as Barrow says, is doubtless true, and he is fully justified in telling such men, as he does, to stay where they are, but he ignores the possibility that here, too, their experiences would be different from what are, anywhere, those of wanderers tending more or less to be shiftless or vicious.

Barrow went to Washington with a Northern friend, and when the two tried to see the Representative from the friend's district, they were told, he says, that the Representative had no time for any except white constituents. This sounds more like a deduction than a quotation, politicians not being wont to talk that way, whatever they may think or do. Anyhow, the travelers did not get in to see the great man, but when they called on Barrow's own Congressman, "a real Southern aristocrat," he received them courteously, talked with them for half an hour, and sent them away rejoicing. That can be easily believed, and presumably Mr. Broussard will have his reward the next time he comes up for election. So will the other statesman.

New England Consciences and Others.

Before writing a long essay on "The New England Conscience," Louis Wallis might well have let The American Journal of Sociology wait till he could demonstrate the existence, as a variant distinct from other consciences, of the one he wanted to discuss.

Some of us who have done more than pass a midsummer fortnight in the dextro-superior corner of the United States feel something between an impression and a conviction that the New Englanders, judging from their conduct in public and private, are a Separate People no more, and not otherwise than are the inhabitants of other parts of our dear country, like in size, and that he who says "New Englander" brings before the mind's eye—if the mind be a slave of assumption and tradition—a figure duplicated in the flesh no oftener in Massachusetts or Maine than in Oregon or Texas.

Mr. Wallis simplifies his task by premising that by "New England conscience" he means that earnest moral purpose which underlies all that is best in American effort! Thereat all New Englanders who combine the sense of humor with knowledge of themselves will have difficulty in keeping straight faces, for they are well aware that only in the census reports is recorded how many kinds of New Englanders there are. The very hardest kind to find is a good representative of the supposedly familiar and abundant type. Whoever threw a stone in Bangor or Boston or Bridgeport would be far more likely to hit somebody without than with the New England conscience of legend—and not a bit less likely than anywhere else to hit somebody without any conscience whatever except a bad one.

Of course the New Englanders as a group are no worse than other people, but they are no better, and such few peculiarities as they have in a remote approach to common are much more the result of climate and soil than of conscience. Several of their well-advertised virtues are merely the ingrained alternatives to starvation, and to avoid that, while judicious, implies no great degree of moral elevation. For the unparochial, talk about the New England conscience is more irritating than any talk except, possibly, that about Southern chivalry and Western enterprise. Oratory of these kinds and of all like them is bluff and guff, when it isn't slush and mush, and there ought to be a law against indulgence in it.

Wearing Out Another Man's Shoes.

Irving L. Meserve, a resident of Saco, Me., saw his wife, one day last week, walking in the street with a man whom he did not know. That he should have been interested in the spectacle thus presented is comprehensible, and there are conceivable reasons why it should have annoyed or even enraged him. The latter emotion is evidently the one it produced, but of the many things—including nothing at all—which interested or annoyed or angered husbands have said and done in like emergencies, Mr. Meserve said and did none. Instead he showed notable originality. Leaping down from the wagon he was driving, he ran briskly up to his wife, seized one of her feet, and in a loud voice made these impressive remarks:

> You're not going to parade in my shoes. I bought these shoes and paid for them. If that man is going to walk with you he can buy your shoes.

Having thus delivered himself, Mr. Meserve pulled off one of Mrs. Meserve's shoes, which were of the low and yellow variety, and was reaching for the other when her companion overcame his natural reluctance to interfere between man and wife and went into action. The hurriedly assembled spectators pronounced the fight a good one as far as it went, but a policeman, either from lack of the sporting spirit or because a dumb, driven slave of duty, too soon separated the warriors and dragged them both off to the police station. Later they were arraigned in court, where both were dismissed with a lecture which, though severe, was unsatisfactory, since it dealt only with the comparatively trivial matter of street fighting and left the deeply interesting and enormously important shoe question unsettled.

MEXICAN DISORDERS

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Revolution, and even brigandage, would have stopped in Mexico if arms and munitions of war had not been so freely furnished in the United States to those who now use them against the Mexican Government—against a friendly Government to the United States, a Government which has received recognition by the great powers of the world even though the White House has not extended official greetings.

This situation has caused the Mexican people to think that the United States must have some special interest in the continuation of the disorders in Mexico, which day by day are undermining all authority, sapping the life blood of the country and arousing every sort of hatred, envy, and evil ambition among the lawless elements. I firmly believe that this "special interest" must be centred entirely in Governmental circles by pressure brought to bear in Washington, and I likewise believe that it is indeed the result of "special interests," and not the desire of the American people at large, who are more desirous of developing the relations of their country by the path of friendship.

Unfortunately, there undoubtedly exists a small group of unscrupulous persons who use every means in their reach to agitate and foment the rebellion in Mexico. It is well known that in 1910 Francisco Madero had aid on this side of the Rio Grande to enable him to rise to be President of Mexico. He secured from the "powers behind the throne" at that time in Washington power, also in American territory arms in abundance, soldiers, and even general officers. These he transported from this side of the border, and it was in this country that he established his principal revolutionary base.

With the fall of Madero, the "Maderists" converted into "Carranzists" appealed once more to the American interests who had supported the Madero movement. Venustiano Carranza's first step was to establish a base of operations in Eagle Pass and San Antonio, Texas. Carranza and his party are making every effort to have their belligerent rights recognized by the American Government, and for that purpose they maintain numerous commissions in Washington. Meanwhile, it is reported that the Madero family is looking out for the financial end of the new political upheaval in New York.

In Sonora we have the clearest view of how matters stand; the Pesqueira party is dedicated entirely to war, bloodshed, and the destruction of property, and, like the Carranza movement, has established its bases of operations on American territory, notably in New Orleans, El Paso, Texas, and Douglas, Tucson, and Nogales, in Arizona. In these places the revolutionists have their juntas, and they buy arms and munitions of war and carry them across the border to the Mexican side. The revolutionists come and go as they please, without interference by the authorities, because it is reported that the vigilance exercised is for various reasons quite inadequate.

A new modification of the Monroe Doctrine as propounded by Mr. Roosevelt declared that "chronic disorder" in any of the countries of this hemisphere would justify intervention by the United States. The grave danger of this new doctrine is at once apparent, for who shall determine when a state of "chronic disorder" exists? And what if the "chronic disorder" be fomented from within the territory of the United States? When a situation which might demand intervention according to the above doctrine is of such easy production, who shall blame the countries that lie to the south if they continue suspicious of their powerful neighbor of the north?

Fortunately, the Government of President Wilson is the most resolute antagonist to the Monroe Doctrine. M. CERVANTES.

Incompetent Government Clerks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There are hundreds of inferior clerks in the classified Government service whose ambitions reach no further into the future than from one pay day to the next, whose activities are entirely foreign to the interest of the service in which they are employed, and, as a result of their lack of energy and interest, their salaries are very much more than they deserve, and, indeed, far in excess of their earning capacity with a private concern. Why are such persons allowed to remain in the service of the United States Government?

Mr. Mitchel and Tammany.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring again to the reported "backing by Washington" of Mitchel for Mayor as "a plan to defeat Tammany," I would remark my belief that Tammany discerns cause for mutual felicitations on the selection of Mr. Mitchel by the Fusionists, for the—to me—quite obvious reason that no one realizes better than Mr. Murphy and his followers the truth contained in the motto, "United we stand—divided we fall!"

Mr. Wilson is a great little politician.

A "BASIC" FOOD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Times's editorial article upon the banana tax strikes the nail on the head, but I would give that nail another stroke, and contend that the banana is a basic article of food, and as such should not be subjected to a tax.

The banana is the poor man's food as truly as the potato, rice, wheat, or bean, not to mention plenty of other articles. While it may not contain the fundamental constituents that the other articles do, to the same extent, yet we claim that it does contain them to such an extent as to warrant the banana being classified as an important article of food and should not be classed as a luxury, thus rendering it liable to taxation.

That a tax placed upon the banana would inevitably enhance the price of it to the consumer goes without argument; for it is the universal rule of barter and trade that all the seller wants is an excuse to enable him to ask more for his produce, specially where it is of a perishable nature.

I contend that this article of diet should be obtainable at the lowest possible price, not only for the benefit of the poorer classes, but for the benefit of all who desire to live as economically as possible and yet have in their menu the articles that are nutritious and enjoy as much of a variety as is within their reach.

ADVICE ON FARMING.

How Beginners May Prepare for Agricultural Work.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Attempting to answer the agricultural inquiries of "XX," I would say that it is impossible for any of your readers accurately to foretell now what would be his "chances of success" in farming—particularly because his letter does not indicate the amount of his energy and efficiency, nor of capital which he could invest or procure, nor whether he has had any experience whatever in gardening or other soil management. Yet a few general suggestions may be made, upon the assumption that this city inquirer has the necessary physical and mental energy to prepare himself for, and to persevere in, agriculture until successful.

First, he should read a few up-to-date agricultural books for beginners and for persons more advanced. The free Cornell reading courses, known as "Lessons for the Farm Home," sent for the asking to residents of this State from the State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, New York, are in the same class.

Secondly, he should take at least one Winter course in general agriculture or in horticulture, or some other twelve weeks' course, in the State College or a State school of agriculture.

Any of these college courses must be supplemented as advised by the Professor under whom he studies and performs his laboratory experiments. The most important supplement will be that of commencing in outdoor practical soil experience in the Spring, and getting as much of real farming experience as possible both before and after leaving the college. POLITICS AND FIRE HAZARDS.

Why Many Workers Turn from the Old Parties to Socialism.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you publish a brief correction of the sparkling and entertaining account of yesterday's meeting to protest against fire hazards in factories and non-enforcement of labor laws, which appears in your columns this morning?

Instead of urging the throng of workers to vote the Socialist ticket, I urged them to vote for that party whose platform and actions in the past gave the best earnest that it would protect the workers, whether it be the Republican, Democratic, Progressive, or Socialist Party. I am not a Socialist. I do not believe in ownership by the State of all means of production. I may be stupid, but I do not see why or how failure of Government even to regulate industry is prima facie evidence of Government's ability to run industry. I made no suggestion to any speaker to talk socialism, neither, on the other hand, did I, as Chairman, (unexpectedly so,) deny any speaker the right to express his or her opinion. I am a firm believer in freedom of speech, as well as the referendum on all questions of general public policy, and at yesterday's meeting invited any one in the audience to amend the resolutions as introduced or to speak to them.

That so many workers are to-day turning to socialism does not justify socialism's economics, but does damn the Democratic and Republican Parties in this State, and their adherents in public office.

"Handsel" a Better Word.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have lately seen in print what I had previously met only in conversation, the misuse of "christen" for "handsel," i. e., "use for the first time." Doubtless Webster is right in recording this as a "colloquial" use, for it is a dictionary's business to include whatever is in use, good or bad; but I have much sympathy with the Century Dictionary's attitude in refusing to record it. The use must have been started by some one who was ignorant of the word "handsel," which is an excellent word and produces a fine impression. "Christen" has already the well-established meaning "name," which produces constant ambiguities when the attempt is made to give it this other meaning.

Hurt by Street Games.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Some three days ago my wife was struck a sharp blow on the head by a "cat," which narrowly missed striking her in the eye.

Such experiences make one feel that boys should not be allowed to play baseball and "cat" in the streets. It is "tough" on the boys, but then others have rights which should be protected. From what I have seen of the boys playing baseball and "cat" in this neighborhood, the wonder is more people are not injured. C.

The Dark Cell.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It revolts the heart of man to know that at this time, if reports be true, all the dark cells in Sing Sing are filled with human beings. If they were animals, wild or tame, it would be cried out against by every man and woman who feels, and thinks, and really knows, what it is. It is criminal and barbarous to torture men in this way, many of whom could not do otherwise than they did.

BRAKES AND COLLISIONS

Mr. Westinghouse Points Out Their Relation to Speed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Coroner's verdict exonerating the New Haven Company and Engineer Dougherty from responsibility in connection with the rear-end collision at Stamford takes no note of the part the public plays in the matter of railway safety.

Railway officials are criticised by the public and various constituted authorities if trains are late, with the result that pressure is put upon operating officials, and through them upon employes, to bring trains into terminal stations on time. There is also a general feeling among railway managers that a public demand exists for fast service which, in the judgment of some of them, not infrequently calls for dangerous speeds. In the case under discussion both sections of the train were late, and the speed of the second section was undoubtedly very high. I have been informed, and believe it to be true, that some of the New Haven expresses between Boston and New York are scheduled at over seventy miles an hour on certain portions of the line in order to complete the journey in five hours. On this assumption it is not unlikely that speeds as high as eighty or even ninety miles an hour are sometimes reached.

When emergency brakes are set upon a train running at the rate of eighty miles an hour that train is still running sixty miles an hour 1,100 feet from the point of application, whereas, if the train had been running at sixty miles an hour, it would have stopped in 1,100 feet. This demonstrates the greatly increased risk of accident due to high speeds, and also suggests the complications encountered in providing a signal system that will furnish adequate protection as compared with what would be possible if maximum speeds were limited to something like sixty miles per hour. The same difficulties will extend to any kind of automatic train stops, the demand for which, upon the part of the press and the public, has been so urgent.

The public demand for the substitution of steel for wooden cars has been so insistent that the New Haven has already ordered a large number and has many now in service. That their introduction has been a distinct advance in many ways is not questioned; nevertheless, trains are about thirty per cent. heavier, due to the use of steel equipment, and this excess weight is an element of danger in cases of collision, because of the increased momentum of the heavier trains. This heavier equipment also increases the cost and difficulty of track maintenance, and track imperfections are a common cause of accidents.

In the Stamford accident an older car constructed of wood behind steel cars was crashed into by a heavy locomotive and the destruction which resulted has accentuated the demand for the heavier and safer cars. In an accident on a Western railway great damage was done by a wooden car being forced through the end of a steel car. As a matter of fact, if a train could be so solidly constructed that there would be no telescoping, then the impact of collision at high speed would be of such force that the occupants of the colliding trains would be injured, and probably many of them fatally, whereas, if a portion of the train yields or is crushed, the effect is to lessen the blow upon the remaining cars of the two trains involved, so that but few people in the remaining cars are injured.

The subject upon which I am writing has become so involved that in a letter of moderate length it is impossible to cover details essential to make clear the necessity that exists to-day for a readjustment of the ideas of the traveling public with regard to the composition of trains, their speed, signaling systems, automatic stops, and other detail features of transportation so freely dealt with by the press.

An official of one of our great railways said he never traveled upon the eighteen-hour trains which ran between New York and Chicago, always preferring a slower and more comfortable train. Such an opinion accentuates the importance to the public of their being satisfied with rates of speed which will insure safety as well as comfort.

The conclusion that one familiar with the problems involved inevitably reaches is that the first and greatest step to be made in the direction of safety is the limitation of the maximum allowable speed of trains, and to this end locomotives must be fitted with speed indicating and recording apparatus to show engineers the speed of the trains and furnish the operating officials a graphic record of such speeds. Such a device is available, and can be combined with an effective automatic apparatus to apply brakes when the maximum allowable speed is exceeded. Such speed limitation would enable signal engineers to arrange their signaling apparatus to be much more protective than when there is no speed limitation, and this lower and safer speed would greatly reduce the destructive action of heavier trains upon the permanent way.

It seems to me the time has arrived when the Interstate Commerce Commission, in co-operation with the managers of important railways, should make a careful and painstaking investigation of the subject of the safe operation of railways as influenced by modern equipment, high speeds, and other features, so that an authoritative report will very largely influence the traveling public in its attitude toward the great transportation properties of the country. In a recent decision of the California Railroad Commission I note the following two sentences:

> If the installation of these devices requires an increase in rates, the increase will be allowed.
> The traveling public has a right to be protected and should be willing to pay for such protection.

If the suggestions contained in this communication call for additional expenditure, the public cannot reasonably demand such expenditure by the railways without being willing at the same time to pay a just price for the introduction of such improved devices and methods.

The Fusion Ticket.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Has Tammany put one over through having five of the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment appointed as the leading candidates on the Fusion ticket, and keeping Borough President of Queens, Maurice E. Connolly, from being appointed?

It should be remembered that Mr. Connolly was the only member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment who voted against and denounced as a fraud the award of the contract for the construction of the tunnel under the Harlem River, which resulted in squandering sufficient of the public's money to pay the expense of fooling the people in the coming election by putting two tickets in the field, each of which will be subservient to grafting. BIG JULY DEFICIT AIDS BUDGET PLAN

Ten-Million-Dollar Shortage an Argument for Better System to Check Expenses.

RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

But Run Short of Payments—So That the Deficit Is $9,000,000 Above Last Year's.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The deficit of approximately $10,000,000 in current fiscal operations of the Treasury during the first month of the new fiscal year, which began on July 1, will be utilized by advocates of the national budget scheme as an argument for action upon that plan by the House of Representatives. Recently, in caucus, the House Democrats, by a close vote, turned down the budget plan which Chairman Underwood of the Ways and Means Committee advocated.

The pork barrel element and the good roads men in Congress, who are awaiting an opportunity to commit the Government to heavy expenditures for Federal highways, were lined up pretty generally against the idea of a national budget. If the budget plan should be adopted it might be difficult for the good roads men to persuade the members of the Budget Committee that the time had come for heavy expenditures on highways.

Since the opening of the new fiscal year the Government has been running behind daily in its financial operations. The total cash receipts each day have been above those for the corresponding day a year ago, but the pay warrants have been greater than last year, and consequently there has been a deficit of $9,682,682 for July. If the deficit were continued at this rate for the entire fiscal year 1914, it would range about $116,000,000. Treasury officials do not anticipate any such deficit, but everything points to a heavy deficit at the end of the fiscal year.

The surplus in the Treasury on July 31, over and above the fund of $150,000,000 as a gold reserve against United States notes and Treasury notes, was $132,263,619.46. That the deficit for the first month of the new year has not been due to a falling off in Government receipts, which amounted to $60,231,524 for July of this year, as compared with $59,536,333 last year, is considered as satisfactory in the face of a revision of the tariff, as there is always a falling off of importations just before a new tariff act is made effective.

The receipts from customs during July were $27,806,654. In July, 1912, the customs receipts aggregated $28,136,502. Internal revenue income shows an advance over the previous year. From ordinary internal revenue, representing taxes on tobacco, liquor, oleomargarine, and similar sources, the Government's income was $25,720,848 in July, as compared with $24,732,536 in July the year before. In July the corporation tax payments amounted to $1,853,722, as compared with $1,353,992 in July, 1912.

It is to the debit side of Uncle Sam's ledger that advocates of the budget plan are looking for their argument in favor of some systematic supervision over Federal appropriations. The Government's expenditures during July amounted to $69,914,206. The deficit for the first month of the fiscal year 1913, on Aug. 1, 1912, was $734,883. The deficit on Aug. 1, 1913, was approximately $9,000,000 greater. During July, 1912, the Government's expenditures were $60,888,074. The opening month of the current fiscal year shows an increase of $9,642,999 over the amount spent the first month of the last fiscal year.

Three-fourths of the increase in expenditures is charged against the army and navy and pensions. For the army during July the expenditures were $14,868,873 for military purposes alone, an increase of $3,683,791 over July of last year. The navy's bill for July of this year was $12,323,153, or $1,433,171 more than for July the previous year. The July pension expenditures aggregated $14,448,743, which was $1,679,753 more than was spent for pensions in July a year ago.

ANTIS EXPLAIN ATTITUDE.

Fighting for Exempting Women from Politics, Say Suffrage Opponents.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage made its first authoritative statement to-night as to its objects, particularly in explanation of why women were fighting women on the suffrage question. The statement reads in part:

"We, more than any other organization, believe in woman's rights. We are fighting for woman's rights. First in the catalogue of woman's rights is the right of exemption. By that we mean exemption from entrance into active politics and all that it involves. We have an abiding faith in both the justice and the necessity of this exemption, because by virtue of it woman is able to do her half of the world's work. Deprived of this exemption, woman becomes an incongruity. Called upon to do double duty, she will face the failure which is the fruit of an unnatural task.

"By no juggling of the phrase 'Woman's rights' can the suffragists, who number only 8 per cent. of the women of America, justify their claim that the lawmakers of this country should force the burden of the ballot on the remaining 92 per cent. who protest against it or are unwilling to have it.

"When the suffragists define the ballot as a woman's right they manifest a distressing ignorance of political economy. The franchise is not a right, nor a privilege. It is a duty, a stern duty imposed by the State upon that class of persons thought by the State to be best equipped to perform it. Most particularly is the franchise not a plaything to amuse idle women. It is not something which can be used or ignored at the will of the person to whom it has been given. The suffragists do not appear to realize this fact when they degrade their doctrine with the absurd declaration that those women who do not want to vote may remain away from the polls.

"As a matter of fact, we consider the franchise to be so big, so sacred and so binding an obligation, when once it has been conferred upon women, that we ask all our members and sympathizers in suffrage States to go to the polls at every primary and every election."

SHUBERTS TELL OF THEIR NEW PLAYS

Forbes-Robertson, on Farewell Tour Here, to Open Their New Theatre.

MAX REINHARDT SPECTACLE

Plays and players to be presented in New York by the Shuberts during the season soon to open were announced yesterday. There are a number of plays by American authors little known to fame, three Shakespearean revivals and some foreign successes which will be tried here by American companies.

They announce that Sir Johnstone Forbes-Robertson, with a company headed by his wife, will open the new Shubert theatre in West Forty-fourth Street early in the season. This will be Forbes-Robertson's farewell tour of America, and after his engagement here he will cross the continent playing in the principal cities. The famous English actor-manager will play his Shakespearean repertoire, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," "The Light That Failed" and G. B. Shaw's "Caesar and Cleopatra."

At the same time, it is planned to present E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe at the Manhattan Opera House in a revival of eight Shakespearean plays. They will open on Sept. 22 and will play for five weeks. They will offer these plays: "Macbeth," "Hamlet," "Romeon and Juliet," "As You Like It," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Taming of the Shrew," "Merchant of Venice" and "Twelfth Night." Later in the season, William Faversham, appearing under his own management at Shubert theatres, will again play "Julius Caesar" and will add for this season "Othello" and "Romeo and Juliet." Faversham is also to join in producting "Panthea," a new play by Moncton Horfe.

Of new American plays, the Shuberts announce that they will stage "A Modern Girl" by Ruth C. Mitchell. It is said to be a play of life in America to-day and to deal with a young girl brought up in luxury. Another American play is "The Warning" by Arthur J. Eddy, which is to be played before New Yorkers, and still another is "If We Had Only Known."

American Comedies Listed.

Two American comedies will be produced, the first a dramatization of the "Pa Flickenger's Folks," stories which appeared in the American Magazine and were later published by the Harpers. Bessie Hoover is the author of the stories, and they will be put on the stage under the title, "The Winning of Ma." The other comedy, by Albert Lee, is called "Miss Phoenix," and deals with modern New York life.

William Hodge, who played "The Road to Happiness" last season, will be brought to New York to give the same play.

Louis Mann will be seen in a play by Clara Lipman (Mrs. Louis Mann) and Samuel Shipman. The play is called "Children of To-day," and is a satirical comedy. Mr. Mann's leading woman will be Emily Ann Wellman.

The Shuberts will also bring Mme. Bertha Kalich back to the legitimate stage this year from vaudeville, and will present her in a translation of a German play which has already won success in Germany. It is by E. E. Ritter, and is called in the English version "Her Son's Wife."

A play called "Suttee," by Guy Bolton, to be presented here this season for the first time, is described by the producers as a problem play dealing with a woman who is married to a man who has wrecked his life. Guy Scarborough is the author of another play, "At Bay," which is to be presented with Guy Standing and Crystal Herne in the leading rôles.

The Foreign Plays.

Of foreign plays the Schuberts also plan to present Granville Barker and his English company in three plays, including one by Barker, one by Shaw, and one by John Galsworthy. "The Whip," which was in New York last season, is to be brought back and put on tour with the same company. With Arthur Collins, William A. Brady, and Comstock & Gest plans have been made for three Drury Lane plays—"Hop o' My Thumb," "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," and "Dreadnought."

A Max Reinhardt spectacle, "Turnadot," which was announced last season, will be presented during the year. A new version of the play has been made by Percy Mackaye. "The Ride to Hell" will also be presented in association with Winthrop Ames. The only French plays so far listed is Lucien Nepoty's "Les Petites," which will be produced as "The Little Ones" here.

Other plays to be given by the Shuberts and William A. Brady together are "The Family Cupboard," by Owen Davis, and "Believe Me, Xantippe." A number of the plays that succeeded in New York last season will be sent on tour by them, including "Romance," "The Five Frankforters," "Fanny's First Play," and "Little Women."

The first musical production, which will open the Casino, will have several members of the Gilbert and Sullivan company of last season, headed by De Wolf Hopper. This company will play "Lieber Augustin," given last season in London as "Princess Caprice." The music is by Leo Fall, who wrote "The Dollar Princess" music, and the book is by Ernst Welisch and Rudolf Bernauer. The company will include, besides Hopper, George MacFarlane, Arthur Cunningham, and Viola Gillette, all of the Gilbert and Sullivan company; May de Sousa, Grace Field, Rozsika Dolly, Fred Leslie, and Frank Farrington.

"Oh, I Say!" is another musical play to be seen here, though it was originally a French farce and is now running in London. Sam Bernard will be sent on tour in "All for the Ladies," and James T. Powers is expected to appear again in "The Geisha." For the Winter Garden Gaby Deslys has been engaged to appear in November, and to make a tour afterward in a new piece. The recent Winter Garden play, "The Honeymoon Express,' will be sent on tour again.

FIELD DAY FOR CHILDREN.

Twenty Thousand in Training for Interpark Playground Meet.

The largest Playground Field Day in the history of the city, according to William J. Lee, Secretary Treasurer of the Interpark Playground Athletic Association, will be held on Aug. 20 in connection with the Greater New York Fair and Exposition at Empire City Park, Yonkers. Not less than 50,000 boys and girls are keenly interested in the projected Fair Field Day, according to Mr. Lee, and 20,000 boys are now in training for the first interpark playground athletic championship of Greater New York.

The meet, which has been sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, will comprise fifteen events, and gold and silver watches will be given for first and second prizes, with bronze medals for third place. All entries must be indorsed by the instructor in charge of the playground, and there will be no entrance fee. Elimination races will be held at each of the city playgrounds on Aug. 5, and the first five boys in each event will be eligible to compete at Empire City Park. No expense of any kind will be incurred by the boys, as transportation to Yonkers will be provided for them.

On the same day a grand playground pageant depicting 300 years' progress in New York City, from the first settlement, in 1613, to 1913, will be presented by the Girls of the New York City Park Playgrounds. A cast of 2,000 girls will present a series of episodes, dancing, and tableaux. Mayor Gaynor, who has signified his intention to be present on Playground Day, will make an address and will make the presentation of a $300 saddle pony to the lucky girl taking part in the pageant who draws the winning ticket. The games and pageant are under the direction of W. J. Lee and his assistant, Miss Mary E. McKenna.

BABY LOST FOR A MONTH.

Stranger Took Him for an Airing and Kept Him Four Weeks.

The mother of three-months-old Joseph Price was sitting on the steps of her home at 1,197 First Avenue on July 3 when a women whom she had met casually the day before as a Miss Brennan came with the offer to take the baby out for the afternoon. The mother became anxious when nightfall came and the baby was not brought home.

Then began a weary search of institutions all over the city that failed to reveal any trace of the missing child. Yesterday, while the mother was away, the same woman brought little Joseph back, quite as though nothing had happened, and even announced her intention of taking him out again some day.

Mrs. Sarah Price, Joseph's grandmother, engaged the woman in conversation, and succeded in detaining her until a detective could be summoned. To him she gave her name as Katherine Plasco, and said she lived at 374 Bushwick Avenue, Brooklyn. He arranged for her examination in the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital.

It was his idea that she was obsessed with a fondness for children and gave that as the explanation of her conduct, but Grandmother Price had another theory. She gave it as her suspicion that the woman had taken the child as a means for providing herself with a vacation. There are many seaside hospitals where a poor woman with a baby can be taken care of for several weeks, and the little Price child came back yesterday so rosy with sunburn that Grandmother Price felt sure her theory would prove correct. The police theory, however, was strengthened by the woman's own admission that some time ago she had been discharged as cured from the Kings County Insane Asylum.

Meanwhile, during the baby's absence his mother and grandmother had quarreled, and the mother had gone downtown to live. Grandmother Price said the loss of the baby had worn on them both and engendered a great bitterness between them. With the little boy back in the home, she said, she would seek her daughter and try to bring her back.

INFANT DEATH RATE LOWER.

321 Fewer Babies Less Than One Year Old Have Expired This Year.

The Health Department reports show that 343 babies less than 1 year old died in this city last week, as against 298 deaths at that age in the week before. The ravages of continued hot weather among infants is shown by a comparison with the death rate for the last week in June, when 194 babies less than 1 year old expired. Last year 396 babies less than a year old died in the last week of July.

The record of the year to date shows that 321 fewer deaths of babies less than 1 year old have occurred than in the corresponding time last year, and while there is still a chance that extremely hot weather in August or September may cut down this lead the welfare workers feel that there is little danger of it.

AMUSEMENT NOTES.

Sam Bernard's "All for the Ladies" is being restaged under the direction of Edwin T. Emery, who last season was general stage director for Arthur Hammerstein and producer of "The Geisha."

The principal members of "The Whip" company, who have been spending their vacations at home, will sail for New York on the Oceanic, arriving here next week to begin rehearsals for the reopening of the play.

John Drew and a large company begin rehearsals to-day at the Empire Theatre of "Much Ado about Nothing," in which Mr. Drew will be seen as Benedick.

Frederic McKay has engaged Miss Marion Sunshine of the former team of Tempest and Sunshine for a part in Miss Blanche Ring's support in "When Claudia Smiles."

On Saturday night the Indian Players will end their long run in "Hiawatha" at Fieldston and leave for their reservation.

Relief Is Needed by Tired Mothers and Sick Babies.

These dwellers in attic, basement and rear tenement—the aged, the overworked, the anaemic—are suffering these hot days in the sultry shops and humid and crowded tenements. They are literally starving for air.

No medicine will help them. What they need is: a chance to breathe something pure and fresh—a taste of sunshine and outdoor freedom—an outing in the country or at the seashore.

Hundreds are appealing to us daily for a brief respite away from their stuffy homes.

Won't You Share Your Summer Pleasures with Some of These Families?

Here are a few suggestions for you:

$10.00 will pay a week's board for a tired mother and delicate baby on a desirable farm, or it will make a family of four happy for a week at Sea Breeze, and strong for many months, possibly years.
$20.00 will keep a mother and three children, or two "cash girls," (sisters,) at Sea Breeze for two weeks of fun and unaccustomed joy.
$100.00 will send fifteen hard working girls to the country, or ten mothers and thirty children to Sea Breeze for a week.

CREATOR A WOMAN, OLD TABLET SAYS

New Version of Genesis Found in Pennsylvania University's Nippur Collection.

DATE FIXED AT 2100 B. C.

Dr. Arno Poebel's Discovery Regarded as Oldest Story of the Creation of the World.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—It was a woman who created mankind, according to a tablet 4.000 years old just deciphered at the Pennsylvania University Museum by Dr. Arno Poebel, who is at work translating the tablets dug up in Nippur some years ago by the museum expeditions. This discovery is not only the most important in the history of the museum but in many respects the most important in the history of civilization.

About thirty-seven years ago George Smith, the English scholar and explorer, brought back from Babylonia the cylinders which gave a Babylonian account of the origin of mankind and much of his early history, and these not only excited great interest but had a profound effect upon the theological teachings. The parallelism between the Babylonian story and that of Genesis developed a new school in theological criticism. But the cylinders of Smith only dated back to the reign of Assurbanipal in the seventh century B. C. The university museum tablet dates back possibly to 2500 B. C., and it is reasonably certain to be no later than the reign of Hamurabi, about 2100 B. C.

The new account of the creation and the flood throws much new light on the early ideas of the Babylonians and Sumerians.

The striking novel features of the new tablet are these:

That it was a female deity who created mankind, known as "the black-headed," from the color of the hair.

That new deities or new characteristics of the gods are discovered in the original document, although they have been hinted at in other ways. The character of the female goddess is now made important from the earliest times and equal with the two male ruler gods. Later tablets speak of these as unimportant.

That the first seven predeluvian cities and the special god of each are discovered.

That the older Babylonian name of the Scriptural Noah is Ziugidda.

That deluge ruins of the predeluvian cities were not all destroyed, some not until historic times. There is historic basis to much of the statement in this epic.

Dr. Poebel has prepared a careful literal translation of the tablet. It originally was about seven inches square, but on such a surface the ancients could write in ideographic signs a long epic poem, and that is what this tablet contained. Like the first chapter of Genesis, the story opens with a grand poem on the origin of the heavens, as well as of the earth. It appears that Nintu, a female god, created mankind, and she is found lamenting that the other gods seem bent on the destruction of her subjects. She speaks of the human beings as "my creations." It appears that Anu and Enlil were the chief gods of power, although they were among seven of equal rank, the first being god of heaven and the second god of earth. Then comes the story of the creation:

"Nintu created the blackheaded," (human race.) * * * "The fields of the ground produced abundance, the cattle and the four-legged beasts of the field artfully they (the gods) called into existence."

The story then indicates that the wrath of the gods was kindled against men for some wickedness, and the narrative continues as follows: "At that time Nintura wailed like a woman in travail. The holy Ishtar wailed on account of the people. Enki (who was the god of wisdom) held counsel with Anu and Nintura over the proposed destruction of mankind. At that time Ziugidda was King and high priest of Shurappak, (meaning city of the last day of the flood,) and he made obeisance to the gods and prayed, prostrating himself in humility and daily and personally he was in contact with them by means of dreams, and conjured them daily by the name of heaven and earth."

The account continues with a description of "windstorms which possess great power, the rainstorms in their entirety went with them, and the storms were terrible. After seven days the rainstorm had stormed over the land and carried away the huge boat. Then the Sun-god came forth, shedding light over heaven and earth. Ziugidda opened the (roof) of his ship and the light of the Sun-god was let in to the interior of the huge boat."

After the storm and the waters had disappeared Ziugidda prayed to the gods of heaven with a loud voice and sacrificed an ox and a sheep. Evidently the prayer was answered, and it would appear that Enki and Nintu persuaded the gods not to continue their wrath further. As for Ziugidda, (Noah,) he is honored by being taken to an island in the Persian Gulf, where he lives in a sort of Paradise.

THE MACNAB MAKES HIS LAST SEA TRIP

King of Ships' Cats Drowns from the Caledonia, Though Sailor Dives to Save Him.

HAD SAILED 200,000 MILES

Mascot, Always the First to Land and the Last to Board Ship, Fell Jumping to Pier.

"Duffy MacNab," the champion long-distance jumping cat of the Anchor liner Caledonia, made his last jump yesterday morning, and great is the sorrow of the crew of the big Scotch liner. With the arrival of the Caledonia yesterday morning, Duffy completed his eightieth voyage across the Atlantic, and that he will never make another one is due to the fact that Duffy in his anxiety to test his shore-legs took a chance and tried to land ahead of the passengers by jumping from the forecastle head to the roof of the Anchor Line pier at the foot of West Twenty-sixth Street.

The sailors of the Caledonia always referred to the big black cat that had become a part of the liner's life as "The MacNab." No one ever called him Duffy MacNab except the passengers, and the reason they did so was because the full name was engraved on the little metal collar that he wore.

The Caledonia, which arrived with every cabin in use, steamed to her pier at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. The decks were crowded with passengers waving greetings to the hundreds on the pier. On the forecastle head stood the ship's mascot. The MacNab was looking at the roof of the pier and his attitude showed that he was figuring whether or not he could make the jump from the liner to the pier roof, a distance of some ten feet. The MacNab had jumped from the deck to the pier roof before, but never had he attempted to make it at a distance of more than four feet.

But The MacNab was in a hurry to get ashore yesterday, and so he threw caution aside and jumped. His black body glistened in the sunlight, and then like a broken aeroplane it began to drop. Rocket fashion it fell through the air, and a moment later The MacNab struck the water. The sound of the splash was heard both on the pier and on the ship.

Angus MacLean, they call him "The Kaid" on the Caledonia, saw the death-leap. The Kaid was an intimate friend of The MacNab, and it took him less time than it used to take The MacNab to shake his tail to go to the aid of the mascot. MacLean, who is a Quartermaster, hesitated not a moment. Overboard he went, and diving down deep under the pier, he reached about, trying to find The MacNab. But the cat had drifted away with the tide, and after swimming about for fifteen minutes, the grief-stricken MacLean was hauled back on board.

The sailors crowded about him. There were tears in the eyes of some of them. They had all loved Duffy MacNab. Purser Johnson and Dr. Jenkins, the ship's surgeon, went to the forecastle to find out what was the matter. The news saddened them, too, for the officers were just as fond of The MacNab as the seamen. Purser Johnson said The MacNab had traveled more than 200,000 miles on the Caledonia. He had been with the ship since her maiden voyage, he added, and had never missed a single trip either way.

"We shall never see his like again," said the purser, "for he was indeed a rare cat. So loyal to the ship, and with it all so intelligent. It is hard to lose him."

"Yes, indeed," spoke up Dr. Jenkins. "The MacNab was a most unusual animal. I have known cats in every port here and in Europe, but none of them could compare to poor old Duffy. Duffy was always the first to land when the voyage ended and the last to embark when one began. He was an aristocrat through and through. He would only partake of the choicest food and was unusual in that he preferred tea to milk.

"When we quit the ship after our arrival in port The MacNab would always go, too, and he would not, as a rule, be seen again until the day to sail rolled around, and then just before the gangplank was taken in he would come marching aboard with all the dignity and self-importance of the king of cats that he was."

FIREMEN RESCUE A CAT.

Carry "Caruso" from an Escape on Which a Mattress Was Blazing.

Some one on an upper floor threw a lighted cigarette on to a mattress that was airing on the fire-escape in the rear of the third floor of 196 West Tenth Street last night. On the mattress, "Caruso," the pet cat of the Rocco family, which occupies that apartment, was dozing. The mattress blazed up and the cat awoke. The animal found itself cut off from the window and got to the edge of the fire-escape.

An alarm of fire was sent in, and when firemen of Truck 5 arrived they found a crowd of excited Italians in the yard, while "Caruso" was howling as the flames singed his coat.

Fireman Yonholt and Probationary Fireman Egan mounted the fire-escape and, while Yonholt threw the blazing mattress to the yard, Egan rescued the cat. The damage amounted to only a few dollars.

WANTS REPUBLICAN JUDGES.

State Committee Seeks Two Candidates for Appeals Court.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 3.—The Republican State Committee has sent to the Republican press of the State "reasons why" the Republican State Convention should name two candidates for Judges of the Court of Appeals to be voted for in the next general election for the vacancies to be caused Dec. 31 by the retirement of Chief Judge Edgar M. Cullen and Associate Judge John Clinton Gray. The "reasons why" follow:

1. The Court of Appeals now stands six Democrats to one Republican.
2. To indorse nominees of other parties deprives voters of any choice, their constitutional right.
3. The independence of the judiciary has become a practical issue, and Judges of the highest court are demanded who stand for it without equivocation.
4. The candidates of the Republican Party will alone represent the choice of the people through direct primaries and a State Convention.
5. The Democratic organization has shown its ineptness in the selection of its own candidates for Governor, and should not be trusted to select any Republican candidate for the Court of Appeals.
6. The Progressive Party, with an enrollment of only 30,000, should not select a candidate for the Republican Party, with an enrollment of upward of 500,000.
7. No bar association is representative in character, even of the lawyers of the State, and its functions are not those of a nominating body.
8. No lawyer or Judge who has not taken a decided position on public questions would be a man of force of character sufficient to strengthen the Court of Appeals.
9. No lawyer who does not believe in the safeguards of life, liberty, and property under the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of New York belongs on the Court of Appeals.
10. The election of Republican candidates to the Court of Appeals this Fall will give the whole nation assurance that the forces of law and order are still strong to prevail over the forces of unrest.

"It is an honorable ambition in any lawyer to become a Judge of the Court of Appeals," a statement accompanying the "reasons" says. "As long as we have an elective judiciary that ambition can only be realized through nomination by political parties and the votes of the people."

Think Twice Before Investing

If your funds have been accumulated by frugality, or if you have fallen heir to a life insurance policy, or if you are dependent upon the income to be derived from your investments, you cannot afford to be influenced by the promise of big returns or large profits. To you the elements of strong security and prompt interest payment are of prime importance. You are certainly in no position to take chances, or to invite worry and anxiety. Besides, in times like the present, when you can get conservative investments to yield approximately 5% to 6%, why should you have anything to do with any other kind? And why should you not take advantage of this opportunity?

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION IN AMERICA AND EUROPE

It has been widely recognized that one of the most satisfactory features of the financial and business situation as a whole has been the fact that partly from necessity and partly from choice old obligations were being cleared up and the assumption of new ones avoided wherever it was found possible to do so. It was brought home to the markets of the whole world some time ago that the demands for capital had outrun the supply; that a check had to be put upon new security issues, and that readjustments were needed to restore equilibrium in the investment market. Many collateral influences contributed to the force exerted by this main factor. The readjustments which were required were set in motion and have for some time been in process of correcting the conditions which had put the money markets of the world under strain. It is to the interest of all that these readjustments should continue until such conditions are brought about as will again prompt the free movement of capital. One essential in this direction is that no artificial obstacle should be placed in the way of the free movement to market of the products of the soil upon which must depend the liquidation of many obligations in which credit facilities are now so actively employed. It is much to be hoped therefore that the offer which was made last week by the Secretary of the Treasury to deposit from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 in the national banks of the South and West shall not be seized as an occasion for a speculative withholding of agricultural products from market. It is to be assumed that no such purpose lay behind the offer made by the Treasury, and any inclination so to interpret it should be clearly discountenanced.

It was perhaps not humanly to be expected that New York bankers should have considered Friday's announcement regarding the Treasury's intention to place a large amount of cash at the disposal of the banks of the South and West entirely apart from the previous statement of the Secretary that the banks in New York were to all appearances engaged in a conspiracy to undermine the credit of the Government through a forced decline in Government bonds as a means of discrediting the Administration's currency bill. That charge seemed so wholly contrary to the facts and so unjust to the banks of this city that it was natural that it should have aroused much indignation. It would be easy to imagine some connection in the minds of Treasury officials between the two statements, but the one dealing with the purpose of the Treasury to increase the public deposits for the purpose of facilitating the movement of the crops deserves to be considered on its own merits. It may be taken for granted that in due course the earlier statement will be regretted, for it never should have had place among the public utterances of a responsible Government official. The second statement embodied a plan of action, and it behooves all concerned to lend to the carrying out of that plan whatever assistance may be at their command, to the end that the steps proposed be taken in the manner best calculated to do the most good.

Within forty-eight hours of the Secretary's announcement applications had been received from National banks throughout the West and South which more than covered the maximum of $50,000,000 offered by the Treasury. That fact alone does not perhaps indicate that all this additional cash is needed, but it does indicate a keen desire among the banks to obtain it. The details of the plan for the distribution of this money have not yet been announced by the Treasury. In deciding on those details it would be most desirable to bear in mind that in order to do the most good and to avoid doing harm this movement of cash from the Treasury should as far as possible be made to follow the purely natural movements of cash at this season. The cash should be released to the banks when and as it is actually needed for the work for which it is intended. It should neither be put out in a way which would result in its flowing back to the reserve centres, nor under conditions which would cause it to be diverted to the ill-advised holding back of soil products from the market. The former might well lead to a further gold outflow, as some bankers felt it might last week, and the latter would merely serve to increase in the long run the strain upon the credit situation. There have been indications that supplies of agricultural products which had been witheld from market out of last year's crops have lately been moving rapidly to market. That wholesome movement should be encouraged rather than retarded, and should be extended to the new crops as well. This distribution of cash, if handled as it ought to be handled, will doubtless serve a good purpose, and the Treasury's resort to this "facilitation of business" need not fulfill any of the misgivings which were entertained regarding it in some banking circles. The whole matter, however, needs to be handled carefully and in a very different spirit from that which was manifested in the public statement made by the Secretary of the Treasury a few days before he offered this cash to the banks.

That offer had, of course, at least a double purpose, and one of them was partly accomplished immediately. The price of Government 2s, which had been as low as 95 early in the week, rose to 98½ on Friday, partly at least in response to the demand which arose from banks which desired to place themselves in a position to obtain some share of the cash now offered by the Treasury by bringing their bond-secured circulation up to 40 per cent. of their capital. The step to which resort has been had in this effort to improve the market for Government bonds is in the nature of a temporary expedient, but it may well serve to sustain the market for these issues, while more comprehensive provision is being made to meet the conditions which gave rise to the decline in Government bonds below par.

The action proposed by the Treasury, although a factor of large importance in the general financial situation, was not a factor at all in last week's stock market. That was influenced in some directions by the news of the week, but the dominant influence was the reactionary tendency which followed as the natural sequel to the sharp advance which had previously taken place in the market. On Monday prices rose with a good deal of vigor, partly in response to the news which accumulated over Sunday, but in more important degree in response to an extension of speculative operations for the rise. That movement marked the culmination of the recovery for the time being, and on each subsequent day of the week the general level of quotations closed a little lower than it had the day before. Crop news played some part in this, although the damage reports were by most accepted as probably much exaggerated. Some influence was exerted also by the reduction which was announced in the dividend of the Illinois Central, but this adverse news was partly offset by the unexpectedly favorable showing made by the Steel Corporation for the second quarter of the year, and by the generally favorable character of the week's advices from the steel and copper trades. While the stock market was undergoing reaction further evidence was afforded of a gradual, if slow, improvement in the bond market. It seems hardly likely that any very broad demand for bonds can develop until later this year or early next year, when normally easier money rates are to be expected, but meanwhile the pressure of liquidation has ceased and the bond market appears to have entered on the opposite movement of slow absorption.

CHEERFULNESS IN LONDON.

All Departments of the Market Show an Improving Tendency.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—With general confidence that peace was practically assured in the Balkans, the collapse of the syndicalist strike on the Rand, and the improving money outlook, Capel Court went holidaymaking in a cheerful frame of mind.

Business throughout the week showed an improving tendency in all departments, and predictions that the long-awaited revival was at last at hand were made in many quarters. Regarding the monetary outlook, opinions remain divided. Those experts who expected a great money speeze in November are less pessimistic now, while the authorities who look forward confidently to a substantial decline in rates, followed by a reduction of the official Bank of England rate, point to the fact that the three months' rate, which now applies to November maturities, was on Friday under 4 per cent. The Bank of England's reserve, which last week was still below that of the same period in 1912, when the rate was 3 per cent., is likely this week to show a considerable increase. Altogether, the outlook is considered brighter than for a long time past.

PARIS FORESEES A BOOM.

Market Is Dull Now, but a Fall Revival Is Prophesied.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 3.—There was hardly a change in the tone of the Bourse last week. The markets were quiet, as is usual at this time of year, but firm, owing chiefly to the ease with which the settlement was carried through. The foreign political situation, being practically unchanged, was without influence. Operators are content to await the outcome of the Bucharest conference and the decision of the great powers. Satisfactory news from the Rand gave encouragement to the Kaffir market, but failed to influence the rest of the list. The strength of French rentes was a feature. The price has advanced 2 points since the middle of July. Another cheerful market was provided by Rios, which gained 50f. at this settlement.

According the opinion of prominent operators, the market is likely to remain more or less stagnant through August; but both bankers and economists agree in prophesying a boom in the early Fall.

BERLIN QUIET, BUT HOPEFUL.

Little Trading, but Boerse Firm with Better Balkan Outlook.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—The Berlin Boerse was quiet but fairly firm last week. Increasing confidence as to the European outlook and the expectation of an early settlement of the Balkan troubles again contributed to stability. Steel, iron, and other metals were somewhat firmer. Mining shares were generally weak.

The market was generally dull. The week closed with prices steady, but with little active trading.

At Fifth Avenue and Sixtieth Street, they are very near the "social center" of New York, and convenient for most people who live uptown.

Inspection and patronage are invited.

IN THE BUSINESS WORLD

New Haven Tobacco to be Higher.

It is thought that earlier samples of new Connecticut broadleaf tobacco will be on the market this week, and dealers expect a brisk demand. Representatives of large manufacturing concerns in Havana have operated heavily in Partido tobacco, having bought wrappers principally. More than 160,000 bales of the new crop have been brought into Havana and further heavy buying is anticipated during the next few weeks. Many Americans have already purchased extensively. The predictions regarding the quality of the crop have been verified, and it is now thought not unlikely that prices will range higher than was anticipated earlier in the year. Trading in the local Havana market, however, is quiet.

Will Use Foreign Dress Goods.

Several lines of Spring, 1914, dress goods will be opened during the next two weeks. Owing to the problems confronting corporations many are not ready and may not open the season before Sept. 1. The principal cause of delay is uncertainty as to what foreign houses will do. According to The Textile Manufacturers' Journal, so many houses have made foreign connections that some think that importations might total one-quarter of the goods sold. A shortage of desirable Fall goods is considered nearly inevitable by sellers. While buying has improved recently, many cutters have yet to cover a large part of their Fall needs. Chinchillas lead in the coating trade, and eponges, duvetyns, poplins and velours in suitings.

Carpet Yarn Prices Soften.

The market for worsted yarns is stronger, although prices, excepting in a few cases, remain unchanged. It is said that most of these yarns have reached a level at which foreigners cannot compete, and that dealers have nothing to fear during the present season. Fancy mixes are selling fairly well new, but a better business will probably be written during the next few weeks. Carpet yarns are quiet, as most manufacturers have filled their requirements. As a result prices are softening, a further drop being expected shortly. Current business in cotton yarns is on a par with what was expected at this season and considerable trading is noted in knitting as well as weaving yarns. A few sales ranging from 25,000 to 50,000 pounds of the latter have been made recently for future delivery. Spinners are firm and, in most cases, refuse to meet buyers' offers. Firm prices result from the scarcity of spot goods.

Hosiery Reported Scarce.

Some dealers in the hosiery market believe that fleeces will be scarce this Fall. Nearly all lines are in heavy demand now, and the production is unusually restricted because many mills that made these goods have changed to other lines. Cashmere goods ranging up to a dollar in value are moving freely. Domestic manufacturers of seamless hosiery have made such advances that their product is superior to similar goods made abroad, according to buyers who have had opportunities to examine foreign lines. A general hosiery scarcity is said to be denoted by the absence of retailers clearance sales, and it is thought that few will carry over any stock. Another factor which is said to be reducing the number of these sales is the tendency toward uniform weight hosiery for all seasons.

Apple Crop to be Lighter.

Compared with the abnormally large crop of 1912, the yield of apples this year promises to be lighter. The Fruit Trade Journal says that although it is too soon to predict with any degree of accuracy even the approximate output, there will be no scarcity or famine anywhere. The price feature of the coming trading, however, merits more than passing notice. California and Florida are credited with very large orange crops, and if apple prices are placed beyond the reach of the ordinary customer, there will be plenty of other fruits to supply his wants. Most dealers maintain that a reasonable price for Baldwins last year would be $1.50 a barrel, f. o. b. at shipping point, and that the cost of cold storage, together with that of labor and the loss from shrinkage, amounts to $1 or $1.15 a barrel. Thus apples purchased for $1.50 represent an outlay to the buyer of at least $2.60 when placed on the market.

Activity in Silk Shirtings.

Local silk dealers expect a large Spring business with shirtmakers. Several lines that have been shown have resulted in a fair amount of business. The demand for this class of merchandise has increased for the past two years, and last Spring witnessed exceptional sale advances. The chief difficulty, however, is the absence of a wide range of qualities from which to select. The cheaper numbers that are required in low-price shirts are gaining favor, and now manufacturers of better-grade fabrics are realizing the volume of business that can be developed in that field. They will, therefore, devote more looms to that kind of frabrics for the coming Spring business.

Imitating American Labels.

Cotton goods manufacturers in Italy are improving the quality of their products, making goods as nearly like American products as possible. Some believe that the effort will be partially successful, as every possible means is used to make the natives believe that they are buying genuine American goods.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

General Appraisers Dismiss Protest Against Tapestry Assessment.

The Board of United States General Appraisers has taken adverse action on protests filed by Strawbridge & Clothier of Philadelphia on importations described as tapestry material composed of silk and cotton. The goods were classified by the Appraiser as made in chief value of silk, yarn dyed, not weighted, and containing less than 30 per cent. in weight of silk. Duty was assessed at the rate of $1.25 a pound, but not less than 45 per cent. ad valorem, under Paragraph 399, Tariff act of 1909. Lower rates were sought by the protestants. The board found from an analysis that while the goods were composed of silk and cotton, cotton predominated. It was held that the Collector erred in his assessment, and that the proper duty imposed should have been at 50 per cent. ad valorem under Paragraph 326, as tapestries and other Jacquard figured goods. As the importers failed to make this point the protests were overruled.

TO ANY AND ALL PERSONS WHO FURnished labor, materials, or supplies to NEW YORK CITY RAILWAY COMPANY or to METROPOLITAN STREET RAILWAY COMPANY, and to any and all claimants whose claims against the estates of either of said companies have been allowed or are pending:

You are hereby notified that on the 29th day of July, 1913, an order of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York was made and filed in a cause now pending in the said Court wherein the Pennsylvania Steel Company and another are complainants and New York City Railway Company and others are defendants and in three other causes, respecting the filing of claims representing obligations incurred by New York City Railway Company for the purposes described in Article XV of the lease, dated February 14, 1902, made by Metropolitan Street Railway Company and Interurban Street Railway Company, (now New York City Railway Company,) for payments thereof out of the proceeds of the so-called Action at Law. The said order provides:

(1) That all claimants against Metropolitan Street Railway Company or New York City Railway Company, whose claims have been allowed by the Special Master appointed in the first of the above-entitled causes, or are pending before him, and all other persons whomsoever, who claim that the obligations, in whole or in part, held by them are obligations incurred by New York City Railway Company prior to the appointment of receivers on September 24, 1907, for the purposes described in Article XV of the lease dated February 14, 1902, made by Metropolitan Street Railway Company and Interurban Street Railway Company (now New York City Railway Company) and that they are entitled to payment thereof out of the proceeds of the so-called Action at Law, as apportioned by the order on mandate filed January 7, 1913, in the above-entitled causes, are hereby required to assert their said claims to such payment in the proceeding heretofore instituted by order filed December 2, 1910, as supplemented by order filed January 24, 1913, in the above-entitled causes.

(2) That all such claimants or persons shall file on or before September 20, 1913, with William L. Turner, Esq., Special Master, at his office, Room 84, in the Cotton Exchange Building, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, a written statement of their claims to such payment out of such proceeds.

(3) That no such claimant or person who fails to file such a statement of claim to such payment pursuant to subdivision (2) hereof, on or before September 20, 1913, shall thereafter be permitted to assert a claim to payment out of such proceeds.

(4) That William L. Turner, Esq., of the City of New York, having an office at Room 84, in the Cotton Exchange Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City of New York, be and he hereby is appointed Special Master under this order to take such proofs as may be offered by the said claimants, or persons, or any of the parties to the above-entitled causes, in respect of the said claims to payment out of said proceeds and to report thereon to this court with all convenient speed. That the first hearing upon such claims shall be held at the said office of William L. Turner, Esq., Special Master, on Monday, the 6th day of October, 1913, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. That the said Special Master may in his discretion hear and report separately on one or more of said claims.

(5) That the said Special Master be and he hereby is authorized and directed to give notice of this order by publication thereof for one day in a newspaper of general circulation, published in the Borough of Manhattan, in the City and County of New York, and by mailing a copy of this order, postage prepaid, by registered mail to every claimant who has filed with the said Special Master, as aforesaid, a claim that he has furnished labor, materials, or supplies to Metropolitan Street Railway Company or to New York City Railway Company, and whose claim has either been allowed by the said Special Master or is pending before him.

(6) That nothing herein contained shall prevent any claimant against Metropolitan Street Railway Company or New York City Railway Company or any person, (having furnished labor, materials or supplies to New York City Railway Company or to Metropolitan Street Railway Company,) who has heretofore filed with William L. Turner, Esq., Special Master, pursuant to an order made in the above-entitled causes on February 6, 1913, a statement of claim for preference in payment of a claim for such labor, material or supplies out of the assets of Metropolitan Street Railway Company or New York City Railway Company, from filing a statement of claim hereunder and asserting the same, as hereinbefore provided, for payment out of said proceeds of such claim for such labor, materials or supplies, nor shall the fact of his filing and asserting a claim hereunder prejudice him in any wise in asserting any claim for preference in payment, pursuant to said order of February 6, 1913.

(7) That the said order filed in the above-entitled causes on December 2, 1910, shall be deemed modified and enlarged in accordance with the terms of this order.

BENEFITS OF TAX SYSTEM

He Shows How Semi-Annual Collections Saves Money to City in Interest Charges.

Controller Prendergast has issued a semi-annual report, summarizing the financial operations of the city to June 30, 1913, paralleling in the principal tables and statements the 1913 amounts with the figures for the corresponding period of 1912. The report forms a continuation of the monthly reports which the Controller has been publishing this year.

The report shows that the collections of revenue receipts during the first six months of this year from taxes, assessments, water rates, and miscellaneous items aggregated $116,132,539, as compared with $113,292,925 for the same period in 1912. Of the loans contracted by the city, $75,793,819 was obtained from the issues of corporate stock and corporate stock notes, as compared with $86,788,692 during the first six months of 1912. In interest on deposits and in abatements of expense in the nature of cash refunds, $631,833 was realized during the six months to June 30, 1913.

From the 1st of January to the 30th of June of this year there was $123,697,178 of revenue bonds and bills sold to the public, and $117,377,671 redeemed, thus showing a net increase in this form of temporary debt of $6,319,507. The Controller explains that the comparatively small amount of revenue bonds and bills outstanding at June 30 was made possible by the collection to June 30 of $89,993,304 of taxes, of which $74,772,140 was from the tax levy of 1913.

New Tax System Advantageous.

He also explains that the large savings to the city in interest on short-term borrowings which have been effected during the past two years through the operation of the semi-annual payment of taxes instituted by him in 1912 may be indicated by the collection of nearly $75,000,000 of 1913 taxes before June 30, when, under the old conditions, the collection of these taxes could not have been begun until the first Monday in October.

The outgo included $7,947,032 of taxes to the State of New York, as compared with $4,301,345 in the corresponding period of 1912. In current administrative and operating expense there was $69,720,563 paid up to June 30, 1913, and the corresponding figures of 1912 aggregated $68,494,774. The outlays for public improvements amounted to $37,848,519, as compared with $36,851,775 during the first six months of 1912. During the month of June the Controller purchased from outside holders city securities of the par value of $5,455,330 at a total price of $4,943,661. Of these $4,556,830 was paid for before the close of business on June 30, and the remainder was covered into the sinking funds during the early part of July.

The report contains a table arranging the payroll expenditures, contract outlays, and open market order expenditures under a principal or functional classification or general purpose, and shows the separate amounts for each function or general purpose which were paid from appropriation accounts; from supplemental appropriations provided by special revenue bonds; from corporate stock funds, and from special accounts. In each instance the amounts expended during the month of June are shown in a column paralleled with the totals from Jan. 1 to June 30, 1913. The grand total of the payrolls for educational purposes, for health and sanitation, for protection of person and property, for the judiciary, for the Department of Docks and Ferries, and for the new Board of Water Supply aggregated $43,832,212, or 78.58 per cent. of the entire payroll expenditure for the first six months of the year.

Report Since Consolidation.

The report also contains tables classifying according to general purpose, the total amount of corporate stock and assessment bonds which have been issued each year since consolidation, the proceeds of which have been expended in public improvements and for funding deficiencies in taxes. These tables show that there has been a grand total of $839,917,809 of corporate stock and assessment bonds issued from Jan. 1, 1898, to June 30, 1913, of which $177,372,568 was for water supply; $95,258,416 was for rapid transit construction; for schools, colleges, and libraries, (construction and sites,) $113,610,131, and $87,110,584 in docks and ferries.

In the construction of interborough and other bridges and in the acquirement of property for approaches thereto the outlay has been $77,269,103, with an additional $15,590,582 expended, under the jurisdiction of the Bridge Department, in the construction, &c., of the new Municipal Building. For city parks, places, and driveways, $30.534,051 has been applied. In the construction, paving, &c., of streets, roads, and sewers, the total bond issue during the period under review amounted to $156,553,233, of which $34,902,133 was from assessment bonds, and $121,651,100 from corporate stock.

The outlays for buildings and improvements thereto for the Police Department, the Fire Department, the Department of Correction, Department of Health, Department of Charities, and for public buildings other than schools and libraries, have amounted to more than $76,000,000. There has also been $23,000,000 of corporate stock issued to fund deficiencies in taxes of 1904 and prior years, of which $20,000,000 was issued during the present administration.

Stock Issues Explained.

A comparative table of the report shows the general purposes for which corporate stock was issued by the city during the four-year period from Jan. 1, 1906, to Dec. 31, 1909, and during the three and one-half years from Jan. 1, 1910, to June 30, 1913. This table shows that from Jan. 1, 1906, to Dec. 31, 1909, there was $64,703,925 of corporate stock issued to provide for the construction of the water supply system and for rapid transit, while during the three and one-half year period ended on June 30, 1913, there was $129,613,716 expended for these purposes, or $64,909,791 more than in the preceding four-year period.

"In carrying out the new water supply system the present Administration has expended in three and a half years $40,387,025 more than was expended during the four-year period immediately preceding," says the report. "This outlay is the result of constructural obligations entered into by the city prior to the advent of the present Administration, and the increase in this particular outlay, as compared with what was done by the preceding Administration, reflects a purpose to complete this work as speedily as possible, thereby not only obtaining the additional water supply which this new Catskill system will give to the people of the city, but also increasing the municipal revenue by the additional cash receipts derived from the consequent increase of water revenue."

The debt added to the city by the issue of corporate stock for various municipal purposes during the three and one-half years ended June 30, 1913, was $10,011,778 less than the total amount issued for similar purposes during the four years from Jan. 1, 1906, to Dec. 31, 1909, according to the report.

The concluding table in the report shows the debt limit of the city on June 30, 1913, as $62,281,209.70, of which $15,000,000 is reserved for dock purposes and $29,739,170 is reserved for many separate authorizations for various municipal purposes.

RETURNS BATTLE-SCARRED.

Ex-Hotel Employe Proud of Wound He Suffered Fighting for Greece.

To use his own words, Angelos Vasilatos has "returned to New York a victor." Angelos Vasilatos was an elevator boy at the Hotel Wolcott when he heard the call of Greece, his native land, last October, and with two other employes of the hotel returned to join his countrymen at the front in the Balkans.

The other employes at the hotel, where Angelos had worked steadily for five years, remember how restive the young Greek was in the first months of the Balkan war; how eagerly he used to ask for the latest news from the front at the hotel newsstand; and how, day by day, it grew more difficult for him to keep away from the firing line. And finally, one day, he could stand it no longer, and he sailed with other Greek-American volunteers.

And Angelos Vasilatos has something to show for his victory. He has returned somewhat lame. Soon after his arrival in Greece, he was assigned to the Greek warship Averof, under Admiral Koulorioti. His ship took part with six other Greek ships in the battle of the Dardanelles, when eight Turkish warships tried in vain to break out of the Dardanelles, where the Greeks had bottled them up. Two of the Turkish ships were blown up in the engagement. Vasilatos and the other sailors on the Averof were celebrating their victory when a Turkish shell landed on the deck of the Averof, wounding seven men.

A splinter of the shell tore a hole in Vasilatos's right thigh, into which a reporter was able to put his fist. The war-furrow does not hurt Vasilatos now, but he suffered agony from it for the three months in which he was confined to the hospital. When the wound healed and he was able to walk again, Angelos felt that he had had enough of war and its triumphs, so he obtained an honorable discharge, and sailed for this country, where he arrived three days ago.

Just what he will do after he has finished telling the stay-at-homes about the glories they have missed, Vasilatos does not know. He hopes, though, to get back his job as elevator man at the Wolcott. As far as the work is concerned, says he, his thigh is as good as new.

Nothing has been heard yet of the two other Greek employes of the Wolcott who went to the front, but Angelos hopes that they are alive. Indeed, it is doubtful, he says, if either of them can show such war-marks as he carries with him.

SEA COULDN'T DROWN DUMKEE OF HOLLAND

Jumped Overboard in Midocean and Was in the Water for an Hour and a Half.

APOLOGIZED WHEN RESCUED

Tried Hard to Die, He Told Rotterdam's Captain, but the Ocean Wouldn't Let Him Sink.

For more than an hour and a half the Holland-America liner Rotterdam was halted in midocean last Monday while lifeboats cruised about trying to rescue John Dumkee, a steerage passenger, who had jumped overboard. The story was told when she came up to her pier yesterday afternoon.

At 11 o'clock Monday morning, when the decks were crowded and the great ship was proceeding at full speed, there suddenly came a cry from the bridge of "Man overboard!" There was a clanging of bells in the engine rooms, and the liner slowly came to a stop.

Second Officer Levinson, who was on the bridge had seen Dumkee jump into the sea from the steerage deck, and he promptly hurled a life buoy into the water near the place where Dumkee went down. Dumkee did not make any effort to get hold of the buoy, and in a minute or two disappeared from view.

Capt. Stentger caused the liner to make a circle to port and then another to starboard, and meantime ordered lifeboats lowered from both sides. The port lifeboat was launched within five minutes after Dumkee made his leap, and in less than ten minutes the starboard boat was in the water.

The lifeboat crews rowed about for more than an hour in search of Dumkee, but could find no trace of him, and then Capt. Stentger ordered the boats hauled on board and the liner put back on her course.

The Rotterdam had just got under way again when there came a warning cry from the lookout in the crow's nest, who reported that he thought he could see a man in the water some distance ahead.

"Looks as if he's swimming straight for us," the lookout called through the megaphone.

Capt. Stentger brought the liner to a stop for a second time, ordered another boat put over, and in a short time the boat was back alongside with Dumkee in it, very little the worse for his stay of an hour and a half in the water.

When Dumkee was hauled on board he was taken before Capt. Stentger.

"Why did you do this thing?" the skipper asked.

"Oh, I just wanted to drown, I guess," Dumkee answered.

"Well, how is that you failed to accomplish your purpose? You surely were in the water long enough."

"I just couldn't sink, Captain," said Dumkee, almost apologetically. "I tried hard enough, but the sea held me up."

"I think the poor fellow was temporarily out of his mind, Capt. Stentger said afterward, "but I don't know yet whether it was due to the heat, to a drink or two too much, or to family troubles. While we were looking for him we found a postcard he had left addressed to his wife in Holland informing her that he was tired of life and was going to drown himself."

When the Rotterdam suddenly described the circle to port following Dumkee's leap overboard there was great excitement among the steerage passengers. Many of them thought the liner had met with an accident and was putting back. They did not calm down until the officers went among them and told them what the trouble was.

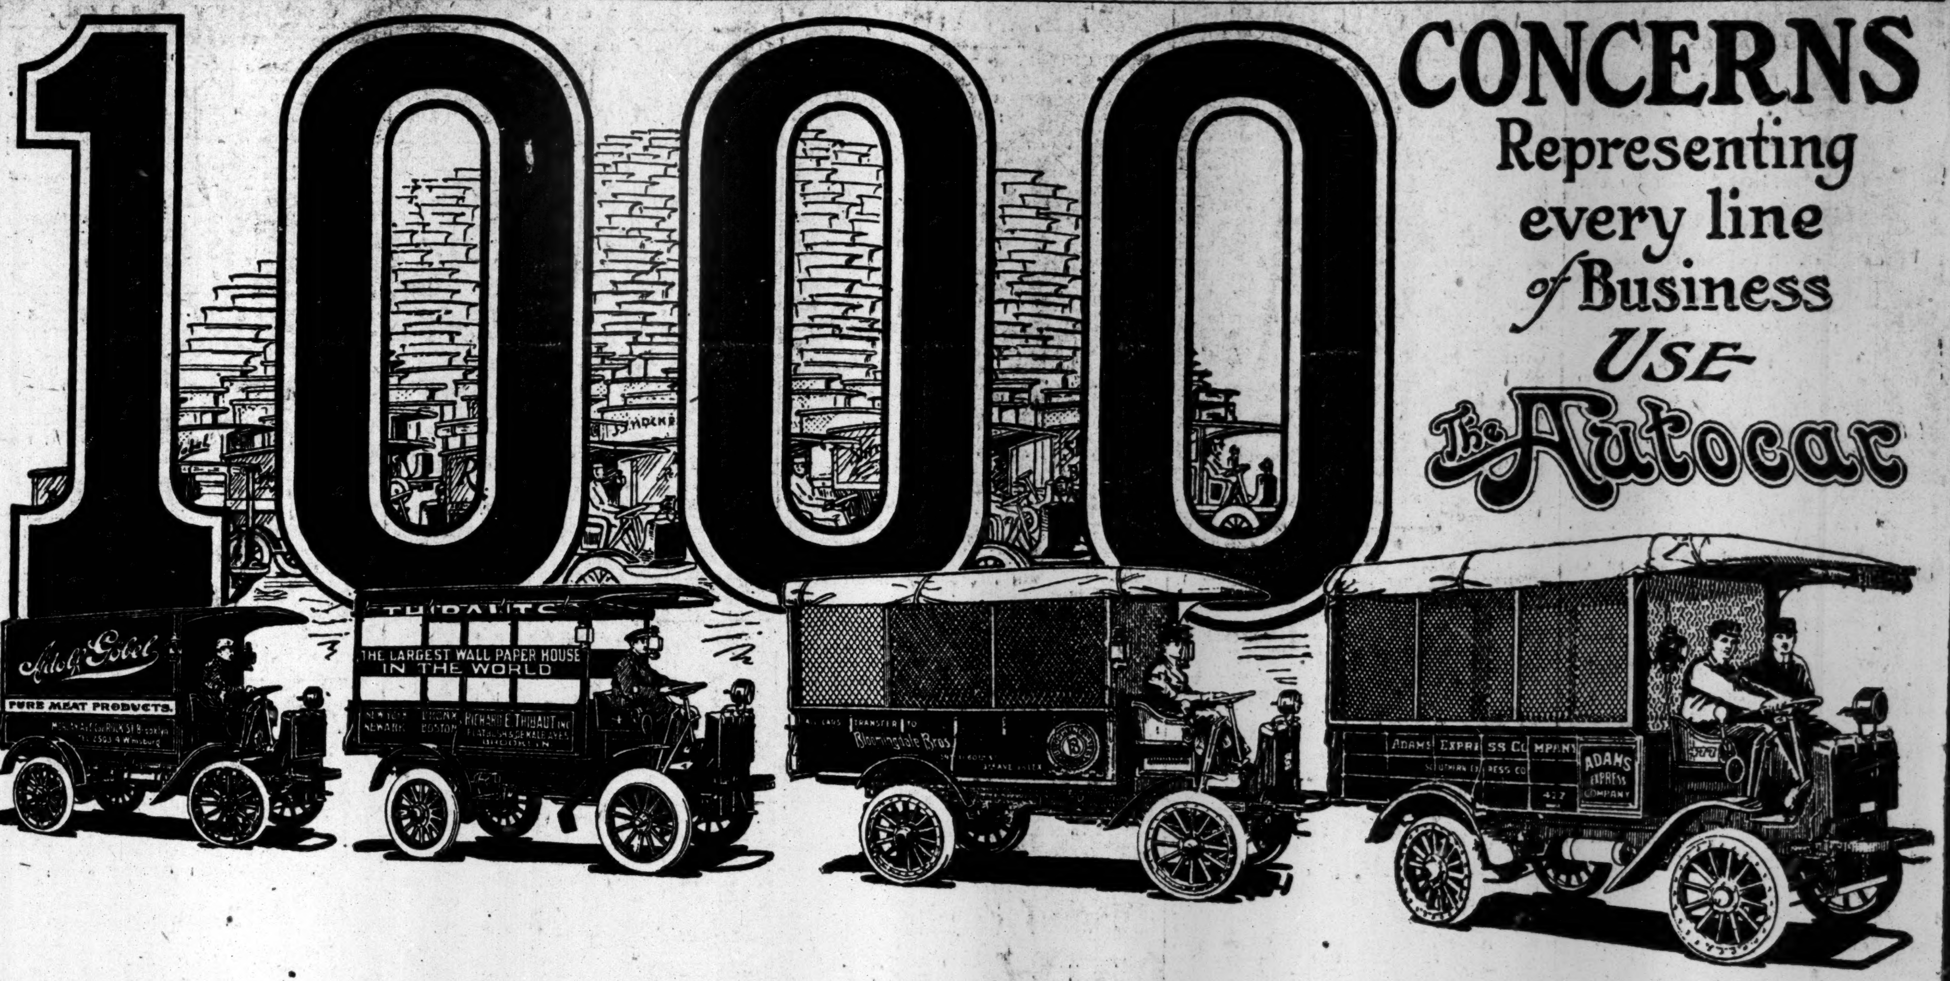
MISS WOSIN DETAINED.

Immigration Officials Thought Mrs. Ullman's Servant Was Chinese.

When the French liner Lorraine, from Havre, arrived on Saturday she had among her passengers Miss Tonki Wosin of Hanoi, Indo-China. The young woman was listed as the maid of Mrs. Paul Ullman, wife of a civil engineer who has been building railroads in Indo-China, and who with Mr. Ullman was among the saloon passengers. Owing to the fact that the party came from the Far East and that Miss Wosin admitted she was a native of Indo-China, but denied that she was a Chinese, the Immigration Inspectors questioned her closely.

She was taken to Ellis Island and examined by a Board of Special Inquiry, but she maintained that she was not a Chinese and could not be held under the Exclusion act. She spoke French fluently, and said that she could not speak any of the Chinese dialects.

Mr. Ullman said that he did not expect to be in this country more than eight weeks, and that the girl would depart with him. Miss Wosin was then allowed to land.



13,173 Horses Replaced by Autocars in the Service of more than 1000 Concerns

THE RAPIDLY increasing use of commercial motor vehicles by progressive firms suggests the following questions to those who have not yet adopted them:

1. Am I in a position to compete with merchants who have motor delivery equipment?
2. What make of car will provide me with the most dependable service and assist in enlarging my list of customers?
3. How many more people in outlying districts would buy from me if I were enabled to reach them daily by the prompt service of AUTOCARS?

More than 1000 business houses have satisfactorily answered these questions by purchasing the AUTOCAR —built by motor delivery car specialists. Repeat orders from a large proportion of them testify to the correctness of their judgment. Now is the time to modernize your delivery service and place yourself in a competitive position by adopting the AUTOCAR. There is greater business opportunity for every AUTOCAR owner.
